STATE NEWS.

THE CIRCUIT COURT-Highly Important himself from Chicago-he greatly desired to be Decision .- His Honor the Chief Justice delivered yesterday a very important opinion, in which his Associate, Judge Brooks, concurred, to the effect that citizens of the pretended Conand accomplished; and stood high in all the federate States who paid debts due Northern citizens into the hands of Confederate Receivers, greatly esteemed by all who knew her, but of a are not thereby discharged from the debt .-

Poisonen -The Concord Press gives the following sad account of a case of accidental poisoning in Cabarras: "We learn from a friend at Pioneer Mills, that a sad case of poisoning occurred on the 17th ult., in the lower part of this county. The to pay all his debts in full, his willingness to facts are as follows: Two children of George surrender all his estate and effects for the bene-Barba, Esq, a boy aged 17 years, and a girl, 13, returning from the field where they had been at work, dug up a root called by some (as our friend says) "Rattle top"-by others "Hemlock," thinking it "Angelica," which it is said very much to resemble They both ate of it. This was about 12 o'clock, M. On arriving at and true statement of all his debts, and, as far home, the young man ate a few mouthfuls of dinner-became suddenly very thirsty-took a dence of each creditor, if known to the debtor, hearty drink of water, and attempted to vomit without effect. He was immediately seized when death terminated his suffering.

The girl was dispatched in baste to a neighbor's for assistance; and returning, she fell to indebtedness, in each case, and the place where the ground and was carried home in spasms. She succeeded in vomiting freely, and has so any existing mortgage, pledge, lien, judgment far recovered as to be considered out of danger."

THE BANKS AND BILLHOLDERS.-A Very important case has just been argued in the Circuit Court, in this City, involving the right of the creditors or billholders of the Banks to require and enforce a settlement by the latter. This was declined, but the Sheriff was directed to summon from a jury list of tax payers prepared by the proper

Upon the call of the case, the Sheriff returned that, as the County Court had not revised the jury list, since the order of General Sickles, he had summoned only white freeholders. The counsel for defence challenged the array and demanded a trial at this term or to be discharged. This point was fully argued by Judge Howard tied up in paper, and said, 'Give this to your for the State, and Judge Biggs for the pris- father, as he is busy and cannot come, and I canoners. The Judge overruled the challenge and suggested that he would continue the case, if an affidavit was made that it was doubtful whether a fair trial could be had from the present panel. The counsel for the prisoners insisted upon a trial, and that a venire should at once be formed from the tax-payers, according to the order of General Sickles, and declined to ask for a continuance.

The Court, after deliberation, decided, with the consent of the Attorney General, that, as be obtained for want of a jury list, (which, according to his construction of the order was necessary.) he would continue the case, and refused to discharge the prisoners. The result of this decision is that the Court of Over and Terminer has proved utterly fruitless for the trial of a number of cases, and the Court immediate-

----A SAD STORY.

The Watertown "Reformer" gives the details of a sad chapter in the recent disaster on Lake A REBEL HORSE !- We learn from a friend absent; or shall conceal himself to avoid the Ontario. Among the passengers of the steamer privy to the fact, who is a gentle lian of unques- service or legal process in any action for the re- Wisconsin, burned near Cape Vincent, was a Mr Chisholm, from Canada, on his way to Missouri, in company with his wife and six children. He was a man about 50 years old, had bought a farm in the State to which he was traveling and was moving with his family and goods. When the fire broke out he was sitting on deck, but his wife and children had retired twenty passengers leaped into it, and Mr Chisson to get in. One of the frightened crowd cut act, and for a sum exceeding one hundred with a knife the rope which connected the bow A horse with such unharmonizing principles dollars, and such process is remaining in force of the small boat with the davit, and the loosened end dropped like a spoon, and at once filled

The passengers were all thrown out and nearly all drowned. This happened not more than a minute and a half before the steamer struck the shore on Grenadier Islands, and had all remained on board, as the captain ordered, not a life would have been lost. Mrs Chisholm, the three daughters, aged respectively twenty, seven and fifteen, and the boy of eleven years, were all drowned. The father and the two elder sons, who stuck to the steamer, were saved. Mr Chisholm had $4,000 in greenbacks, his only fortune, which was in his wife's satchel, and may be liable for him as endorsers, bail sureties, in a strange land, a widower, bereft of four children, without money or property, with his great grief resting upon his soul, to commence the world anew. The bodies of his wife and childrea were recovered and have been interred in the grave-yard at Cape Vincent, and the sad, heart broken husband and father, with his two remaining sons, will go on to his homeless home in the West. Few life-dreams have sadder chapters than this!

A REMARKABLE STORY.

The London correspondent of the Belfast News We learn from the Tarboro' Southerner, that vouches for the truth of the following remarkable

> "A short time since an old lady, living in one of the small streets leading out of Albany street, Regent's Park, close to what was once the Colosseum, entered the shop of Mr. ---, a poulterer in the neighborhood, and purchased a chicken. The tradesman was attentive to her, as such people ought to be, and the lady became a customer, always coming to the shop and giving her own orders. She appeared to be very old, but to have all her faculties about her. One Saturday evening she came when the poulterer happened to be very busy. She said she wished to speak to him, and he asked her to walk into the little parlor behind the shop and he would come to her the moment he was disengaged. In the parlor she met the daughter of the poulterer, and, after some conversation, in the course of which she remarked that the young girl looked ill and required change of air, she produced a parcel, not wait. I wish him to take you away for a little change, and here is something that will enable him to do so.' She placed the parcel in the girl's hand and told her to lock it up in a cupboard to which she pointed. The girl did so and thought no more of the matter; but when, some hours subsequently, the shop was closed and her father came into the parlor to get his supper, she produced the parcel and gave the message by which it was accompanied. The poulterer laughed as he untied it, but to his There was also in it an antique gold watch and

"The next day Mr - hurried round to his customer to thank her, when she desired him to take his daughter out of town for a few days, and on their return to inform her of their arrival .-This, of course was done. A day or two after their return she called at the shop of Mr -We suppose the order of General Sickles was and said she wished him to come to her house to punishment of criminals, but we fear this change about to leave, after partaking of her hospitality, you two respectable persons upon whom you can companied by the curate of the parish and a neighbor. The old lady then said that she was upwards of ninety years of age, and had no relative living but a cousin, an attorney, who she alleged. she had lost £20,000. She added that she had £25,000 in consols still left, and that as she felt she would not live long, and was resolved that the attorney should not get anything belonging to her, she had asked Mr - to attend, with two witnesses, in order that she might transfer to him, for his own absolute use, the £25,000 to which she had referred. She added that she with the cause of justice in our courts, but we knew very well what she was about, and that, by giving him the money while she was alive, inthe extent of £2,000.

> "This announcement appeared to be of so singular a nature that the clergyman very properly suggested that a solicitor should be sent for .-The man of law came accordingly, and the transfer was duly effected. The old lady's presentiment of approaching dissolution proved to be correct, as she died a few weeks after making this singular disposition of her property. It seems that before her death she had intended to give the money to a chemist with whom she used to deal, but that he had offended her by some inattention to her wishes. The moral of this story (of the substantial accuracy of which there can be no doubt whatever) is that civility costs nothing and may sometimes yield a rich re-

PRAYING FOR A HUSBAND.

A correspondent of the Rochelle (Illinois) Register locates the following near that place. Though the story is considerably older than the correspondent, it is worth reading :

"A young lady heard that if she would go out and pray three successive nights she would learn who she would marry. Now, it happened that her father had a young wan in his employ who had considerable wit and good humor about him. One evening he was out in an apple tree after fruit, when he heard some one praying something like this: "O, who will I marry?" The idea popped into Doyle's (that being the young man's name) mind that he would have a little sport at her expense. So he spoke in a changed voice, and said, "Doyle." "No, not Doyle," cried the astonished young lady. "Yes, Doyle, or no one," again sounded from the treetop in a sober, hollow voice. She arose and was destroyed by the flames. Thus he was left entered the house, resolved to try again the next evening. Of course Doyle did not wish to spoil the fun, and so the next evening found him seated in the tree top. He did not have long to wait before the young husband seeker came, and commenced praying in the same way that she did the preceding evening, and received the same answer. The next evening also found her under the tree pleading to know her future husband's name, and again she heard the answer, "Doyle, or no one." She arose, feeling satisfied that she must marry Doyle. The next morning she met him and asked him why he did not dress up and put on better clothes. He said he was not able. "Well," said she, "father is rich, and he will let you have money." He took that for a pretty good hint and bought a suit of new when, after tea, the following conversation oc- clothes.
