Well, New York is a great place. If one wants to get married there is but little trouble hereno license is necessary—and after getting married if one likes to get separated, then a divorce is an easy matter. Thirteen were divorced during the week ending October 6th. This is fun, deeidedly. If a fellow likes he may at an expense of $50, have as many as one wife a year, at least. We are having the most beautiful Indian Summer weather, and trade still continues as brisk as at any time this Fall.

You saw the beautiful Herald office. Well Bonner is building one for his Ledger, smaller boy" in a mild way, and must be a clever fellow, will be guided by the law of March 2d, 1867, that was not at least good hearted. He owns the best horses in this country but never allows them to race, but rumor says he lost $10,000 on Kentucky's race against time on the Fordham track yesterday. I don't believe it though, for Bonner is too lucky ever to lose on anything. His Ledger is a great paper in its way, but Beecher's great story is dwindling into the hackneyed path of the war. In his last he carries a fair one to the hospital tents of Gettysburg. Beecher mayhap get something new out of that sort of thing, (if any one can it is he.) but it has become really stale from daily and weekly repetition in all sorts of journals. As long as he stuck to New England his story was fresh and racy.

The Theatres are all flourishing. Mad. Ristori leaves this week for Havana. She has not had a great success this Fall. The Herald discusses the legitimate drama vs. the Ballet and Spectacular, and wonders which will win.
