"Now I Lay Me Down to Sleep."

In the quiet nursery chambers, Snowy pillows yet unpressed. See the forms of little children. Kneeling, white-robed, for their rest; All in quiet nursery chambers, While the dusky shadows creep. Hear the voices of the children-

"Now I lay me down to sleep." In the meadow and the mountain Calmly shine the winter stars, But across the glistening lowlands Slant the moonlight's silver bars. In the silence and the darkness, Darkness growing still more deep, Listen to the little children Praying God their souls to keep.

"If we die"-so pray the children, And the mother's head drops low, (One form without her fold is sleeping Deep beneath the winter's snow). "Take our souls," and past the casement Flits a gleam of crystal light. Like the trailing of his garments Walking evermore in white.

Little souls, that stand expectant Listening at the gafes of life, Hearing far away the murmur Of the tumult and the strife; We who fight beneath those banners, a Meeting ranks of foemen there, Find a deeper, broader meaning In your simple vesper prayer.

When your hands shall grasp this standard, Which, to day, you watch from far, When your deeds shall shape the conflict, In this universal war,

Pray to him, the God of battles. Whose strong eye can never sleep, In the warring of temptation. Firm and true your souls to keep. When the combat ends, and slowly Clears the smoke from out the skies, When, far down the purple distance, All the noise of battle dies; When the last night's solemn shadows Settle down on you and me, May the love that never faileth, Take our souls eternally.

WILSON COUNTY, Sept. 10, 1867. Dr. J. J. Lawrenee: Dear Sir: - My youngest daughter, aged five years, has been dreadfully affiicted with Scrofula nearly all her life. I tried a great many Physicians, but without relieving her much; in fact, most of them said there was no hope of cure. During the last Spring she was worse than ever, her body and limbs being covered with sores and blotches -with face and eyes badly ulcerated and swollen. Whilst in this condition, I was advised by Dr. L. A. Stith to try your Rosadalis. I at once procured three bottles, and commenced giving it to her. The effect was magical. In less than a month to my great astonishment, she was entirely well.

THE LATEST FASHIONS.—The Richmond Dis-

ure. Upon the top of this immense hirsute arrangement is a small straw flat, oval shaped, and much resembling a dish mat. A plain black ribbon, to keep it in position, is the only trimming. A solferino dress, around which is gracefully but profusely wrapped a big black sash, terminating behind in an immense bow, completes this novel and somewhat remarkable promenade dress. The lady who wore it, as might have been expected, attracted great attention on Main street."

"Why do you always buy a second class ticket?" asked a gentleman of a miser. "Because there is no third class ticket," was the unexpected but satisfactory response.

Sir Walter Scott often quoted the maxim of an old lady in one of Miss Ferrier's novels, that a visit should never exceed three days-the rest day, the drest day, and the prest day.
