A new Indictment against Jefferson Davis,

From the Richmond Enquirer. Judge Underwood's black and tan grand jury. has, after an incubation of more than six months, at last hatched a new indictment against ex-President Davis. We suppose he will be tried under this indictment-when he is brought to trial. It covers more than fifty pages of foolscap. The indictment states that in 1861 he armed nd equipped troops for the purpose of levying war against the United States ; that he took foreible possession of the city of Richmond, and excluded therefrom the forces of the United States; that he armed and equipped military forces for the purpose of levying war against the United States in the States of Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas, Tennessee and Missouri, and that he gave to the said forces information, counsel and advice, maliciously and traitorously to assist them in GOLD SPECIMENS .--- Col. This we are assured, actually oe. curred in the county of Chesterfield a few days ago. As the story goes, a young couple had long been engaged, and the day was fixed when the suptial knot was to be regularly tied at Mount Herman church. The affianced bride visited Manchester, and perhaps Richmond, to select the "wedding dress and things." When she returned by rail, and reached Coalfield Station, she was met by her lover, with a top buggy, to carry her home. On the road they met the pastor of their church, and as the license had already been obtained, the impatient and too eager bridegroom insisted upon the ceremony being performed at once-the preacher on horseback and they in the carriage-with a farmer and his wife, who happened to be present, for witnesses. The Precepts of our Early Presidents. President Jefferson, in his Inaugural Address, March 4th, 1805, says:

"All, too, will bear in mind this sacred principle, that, though the will of the majority is in all cases to prevail, that will, to be rightful, must be reasonable; the minority possess their equal rights, which equal laws must protect, and to violate which would be oppression. Let us restore to social intercourse that harmony and affection, without which liberty and even life itself are but dreary things. And let us reflect that, having banished from our land religious intolerance, we have yet gained but little, if we countenance as despotic, as wicked, and capable of as bitter and bloody persecutions. It is proper you should understand what I deem the essential principles of our Government, and consequently those which ought to shape its administration. I will compress them within the narrowest com- potatoes twice a week. pass they will bear. The support of the State governments in all their rights as the most comand the surest bulwarks against anti-republican tendencies; a jealous care of the right of election by the people; the supremacy of the civil over the military authority; economy in the public expense, that labor might be lightly burdened; freedom of religion, freedom of the press, and freedom of person under the protection of the habeas corpus, and trial by jury impartially selected. These principles guided our steps through an age of revolution and reformation. The wisdom of our sages and the blood of our heroes have been devoted to their attainment. They should be the creed of our political faith, the text of civic instruction, and the touchstone by which to try the services of those we trust."

Fellow men, let us determine to apply this touchstone to the present state of affairs, and to the services of those we trust, as they conform or vary with the principles set forth by President Jefferson. They are the groundwork of Democracy, whether the Democracy of the present day be true to this basis of "political faith" or not. having had his skull fractured, was told by the They are the sheet-anchor of the patriot, by whatsoever name they may be called ; and while every sistency cherish them as the fountain of experience in the past, let him be sure to study them anew; engraft them in his heart; exemplify them in his energetic support of constitutional law, and determine they shall be his rule of political action in the future. Do this, bend all abstract theories of expediency to a strict construction of the letter of the Constitution, as "the Ark of the Covenant" of our fathers, and we shall have such an ingathering of Conservatives -by name, but democrats by principle-as shall drive the legislative nondescripts at Washington out of the councils of the nation, and bring our trinity of government back to the principles enunciated by the author of the Declaration of Independence and the founder of the Democratic Depreciation of Southern Lands.

By the report of the Commissioner of Agriculture for February, we find an estimate of the present value of Southern lands compared with that of 1860 :

In Virginia t	he	decrease	is	27	per	cent.
" N. Carolina				50	÷.,	44
" S. Carolina	+4			60	44	**
" Georgia	"		4	55		56
" Alabama	26		$6	60	11	**
" Louisiana			"	33	11	44
" Arkansas	£4			30	44	"

The causes of this decrease are stated to be to business, to merit a continuance of the same. various, among which are enumerated general indebtedness, scarcity of money, pauperism, loss of capital in slaves, the unsettled condition of the country, the fear of confiscation and the dread of negro domination.

These causes are numerous enough and powerful enough to cause any country to wither away. The wonder is not that the whole South i blighted, but that there is any vitality left in it at all. That such is the case is the best proof in the world of the fortitude of the Southern people in bearing up against a load of adversity such as has never been the lot of any other people under the sun. Had it not been for such a spirit of energy, even under persecution, they must have long since sunk ; for no other people in the world could have stood the trials to which the South has been subjected.

man Ambrose of Buffalo, a few days ago and stated to him that her husband, who died last year, had told her on his death bed that he borrowed $7 from Martin Cable, of that city thirtyfour years ago, and that she should pay Mr Cable back the money, with interest. It was calculated that the interest money due was $16 66, and the woman paid $23 66, over to Mr Cable. Such wife is commendable.

CONFISCATION .- It is now understood, also, that the project for confiscation has not been abandoned, and is about to be revived, in view f the expected accession of Mr Wade to the Presidency. Mr Stevens' confiscation bill was a failure, as impeachment was for a while; but the success of the impeachment would perhaps sean act of honesty on the part of both man and cure the accomplishment of its kindred measure -configention -- National Intelligencer.

Judge Black, yesterday (March 31,) in th Supreme Court desired to argue the effect of re cent legislation on the McCardle case. During the colloquy Judge Grier said he felt called up on to vindicate himself from whatever of oblogu or censure may attend in this matter. That he thought the failure to decide the McCardle case will be considered as a design on the part of the Court to wait for legislation to relieve them from an unpleasant duty. Judge Grier closed with "I am ashamed such an opprebrium should be cast upon the Court and that it cannot be refuted. The supreme Court has postponed further ar gument in the McCardel case until its next term General Hancock has issued an order assum his headquarters in Washington. The division embraces the department of the East, of Wash ington and of the Lakes.

In the Supreme Court in the case of Martin and McGill, a motion to advance the cause was denied. It was an appeal from the Circuit Court of Florida in a murder case. The Court suggested a remedy in the shape of an application to this Court for a writ of habeas corpus and writ of certioari against the District Court. Th counsel took no action on the suggestion. This case is similar to the McCardle case.
