Few farmers have land that they can afford to raise more than two succeeding crops of corn on; and generally it would be better to raise but one crop in two years, and sometimes one in three. Corn is a hard crop on land; not so much because the elements of the soil are taken up so largely in the crop, as because the bare soil is so unnaturally exposed to the direct rays of the summer sun. In the use of small grain or grass, the seed sown does not act as a manure, but the growing crop serves as a covering for the ground at the time it is most needed, and allows nature to repair the damage done by former cultivation.

In connection with the rotation of crops I will introduce a system of manuring, which may be practiced with satisfactory results, especially on clay land that has been properly underdrained and subsoiled. First, sow in wheat. In the spring sow one bushel of clover seed to eight acres. Harvest the wheat, but do not pasture the stubble. Allow all to grow until after the first heavy frost in the fall, and then turn all under deep and subsoil. Or, if it cannot be broken in the fall, let it lie until about planting time in the spring, when the green clover will be about knee high. Then turn old stubble, old and new clover, all under as deep as possible. Harrow, and, if need be, roll, and then plant in corn immediately. In the fall, sow again to wheat, and in the spring to clover, and proceed as before. Under this system a good crop may be raised every year, and the land in time greatly improved.

The heavy crops of vegetable matter which are turned into the ground every other year, are for clay land a good and cheap manure. For clay soils we want vegetable manures, such as stable manure, corn stalks, the refuse of straw piles, leaves and muck. If the manure has been well composted and thoroughly rotted, it can be best applied as a top-dressing in the fall for wheat, or in the spring to the corn in the hill. If it is to be applied before rotting, it should be ploughed in the fall. I find that vegetable manures produce better returns when applied to clay lands than to any other. Having the soil well cleared, thoroughly underdrained and prepared for planting, the next step is to select the seed; and it is of great importance to obtain good seed.

Think of Me some Day.

You'll think of me some day When nevermore the waves will play, When fingers light on the beaches gray, Their wordless song to me; When nevermore while the shadows grow, We two shall wander to and fro, Amid the breezes speaking low, Beneath our trysting tree.

Some day, some day, at memory's will, When all the hours are hushed and still, And fancy bends with kisses chill, O'er pleasures once so sweet; You'll think on all that might have been, Of love whereon I hoped to lean,

Of wavering faith too slowly seen,

Of parted years to meet. And feel that in your heart still lies A morning dream with hopeless eyes, Whose light has passed beyond the skies, Yet cannot wholly fade; The dream that bound my life with yours,

As currents clasp the magic shores, As Spring the breath to earth restores, . . A joy without a shade. The dream by bitter truth denied-So from henceforth our ways divide,

My peace no more at that dear side, Till now my world, my sun; Alas to you there comes no pain, Love's soon-lit torch will flame again, While I-each hope forever slain-Shall pray that life were done.

How to Freshen Salt Fish. - Many persons who are in the habit of freshening mackerel or salt fish never dream that there is a right and a wrong way to do it. Any one who has seen the process of evaporation going on at the salt works knows that salt falls to the bottom. Just so it is in the pan where your mackerel and white fish lies soaking; and as it lies with skin side down, the salt will fall to the skin and remain there, when if placed with the flesh side down, the salt falls to the bottom of the pan. and the fish comes out freshened, as it should; in the other case it is nearly as salt as when put in. If you do not believe this, test the matter for yourselves.

VIA PETERSBURG, VA., Comprising the following great Freight Routes: THE POWHATAN STEAMBOAT COMPANY'S FREIGHT LINE OF STEAMERS. PETERSBURG AND WELDON, RALEIGH AND GASTON,

NORTH CAROLINA, WESTERN NORTH CAROLINA. WILMINGTON AND WELDON. ATLANTIC & NORTH CAROLINA. WILMINGTON AND MANCHESTER, CHARLOTTE & SOUTH CAROLINA RAILWAYS.

And their connections. Time Quick and Rates Low. This new trunk line forms a Great Freight Route between Baltimore and Weldon, Warrenton, Raleigh, Hillsboro', Lexington, Salisbury, Morganton, Charlotte, Lincolnton, Goldsboro', Newbern, Beaufort, Wilmington, Chesterville, Winnsboro', Columbia. Sumterville, Manchester, and all intermediate points on and near these great Railways and their connec-The Powhatan Steamers connect at Petersburg with Petersburg Railway for all points in the Caro. linas. Cars are run alongside of Steamers' Wharf, and goods transferred with careful handling. CARS ARE RUN THROUGH WITHOUT BREAK-

ING BULK Between Petersburg and Raleigh, Charlotte, Goldsboro, Wilmington, &c., &c. This Inland Line possesses many advantages over a Sea Route. Marine risk is small and insurance is comparatively nothing. The Wharf of Powhatan Steamers being situated in the very centre of the great Shipping District of Baltimore, renders it convenient to shippers, and drayage is very small. Great attention paid to consignments of Cotton at the lowest possible rates. Every package, Northward or Southward bound, must be distinctly marked "VIA PETERS-Spirits of Turpentine transported from Petersburg o L'altimore by Steamer.
