

POETRY.

From the Religious Sentiments.

THE HEART IS FIXED. Hob. xii. 1. The heart is fixed, and fixed the eye, And I am girded for the race; The Lord is strong, and I rely On his assisting grace, Race for the swift—it must be won; A prize laid up—it must be won. And I have tarried longer now (Pleased with scenes of time) Than fifteth those who hope to go To Heaven, that holy clime; Who hope to pluck the fruit which grows Where the immortal river flows. The atmosphere of earth—Oh! how It hath bedimmed the eye, And quenched the spirit's fervent glow, And stayed the purpose high; And how these feet have gone astray, That should have walked the narrow way. Race for the swift—I must away, With footstep firm and free; Ye pleasures that invite my stay And cares, are naught to me; For lo! it gleameth on my eye, The glory of that upper sky. "A prize laid up"—said he who fought That holy fight of old, "Laid up in Heaven for me, yet not For me alone that crown of gold, But all who wait till thou appear, Saviour, the diadem shall wear." Patiently wait—so help thou me, O meek and holy One, That dim although to vision be, The race I still may run; This eye thus lifted to the skies, This heart thus burning for the prize. G. E. A.

Singular Fact.—There is at present living in Dow street, Sunderland, a child that was born with the mark of a butterfly upon its face, which is subjected to the following remarkable changes: In the summer season the resemblance of the head is prominent, the wings, legs, &c. highly colored, the whole of a considerable greater degree of heat than any other part of the child's body; in winter, the wings, legs, &c. are scarcely perceptible, the head diminishes to a mere speck, and the whole is of a deathlike coldness.—York Herald.

There is a lady in this city who has the mark of a raspberry on the back of her neck, which disappears almost entirely during the winter season, but becomes more prominent as the spring opens, and increases in depth of color and perfection of outline, until it assumes as perfectly the appearance of a ripe raspberry as if it had been painted. Having arrived at maturity, it gradually disappears, and during the winter only a small, indistinct spot, is visible. Boston Transcript.

Singular Case.—The Newport Spectator says there is a young man in a town in Vermont who cannot speak to his father. Previous to his birth, some difference arose between his mother and her husband, and for a considerable time she refused to speak to him. The difficulty was subsequently healed—the child was born, and in due time began to talk—but when sitting with his father, was invariably silent.—It continued so until it was five years old, when the father, after having exhausted his powers of persuasion, threatened it with punishment for its stubbornness. When the punishment was inflicted, it elicited nothing but sighs and groans, which told too plainly that the little sufferer was vainly endeavoring to speak. All who were present united in the opinion, that it was impossible for the child to speak to his father—and time proved their opinion to be correct. At a mature age its efforts to converse with its parent could only produce the most bitter sighs and groans. The individuals we have alluded to, says the Spectator, are all in respectable circumstances, and our informant has not only resided in their neighborhood for years, but is personally acquainted with them.

One of Jonathan's Munchausens.—A Yankee, in conversation, was illustrating the magnificent growth of pine forests in the State of Maine. Among other instances of prolific trees, he mentioned one of marvellous bulk and stature. According to his account, a half dozen wood cutters had begun upon one side of this tree and had cut with great vigor and perseverance for six months, when they decided to take a spell on the opposite side. After a hard day's journey, they reached this side—when, to their great surprise, they discovered no less than a dozen wood cutters, who had been more lustily at work for twelve months there. The sight was so discouraging, that they concluded, says the story-teller, to give it up as a bad job.—Newburyport Herald.

The West.—The Boonville (Ill.) Herald invites all farmers without lands—mechanics without shops—lawyers without clients—physicians without patients—and the various other persons who are now straggling in penury and want about the large cities, to come to the West. There is room here (says the Herald) for you all. You will find a rich and extensive field in which to exercise your talents or enterprise—and one too, from which you may reap a golden harvest.

25 DOLLARS REWARD.

JEFF, RANAWAY from the Subscriber, on the 26th of December last, my Negro Boy about 25 years of age, stout built, 5 feet 8 or 9 inches high, and has a scar on his forehead over one of his eyes, caused from the kick of a horse. When spoken to has a pleasing countenance and something of a down look: his wearing apparel not recollected, and if it were his friend John Underwood has got him others, as suspicion rests very strong against him for harboring the said Boy. A further reward of TWENTY DOLLARS will be given for said Boy and proof sufficient to convict any white person of harboring him. From information, I am led to believe that he has been at work at different Gold Mines through the lower end of Mecklenburg County, N. C. with this said John Underwood in an underhanded way, such as carrying off the Ore after night and washing it when best suits their convenience from being detected. John Underwood, at this time, is absent from his family, and it may be that he has got in with the Boy to go off with him. The said Underwood is about 30 years of age, dark complexioned, black hair and eyes, about 5 feet 6 or 7 inches high, possesses a mean look and is a shoemaker by trade, is fond of spirits and lying in negro kitchens. The above reward will be given for the Boy if brought to me, or lodged in any Jail so that I can get him. JEREMIAH CURETON, Sen. Cureton's Store, Lancaster Dis. S. C. September 9th, 1833. 1f-in3m

PROSPERITY TO BE ENTITLED The Spy in Philadelphia, AND SPIRIT OF THE AGE.

IT is very philosophically observed by Addison, that our greatest pride arises from doing good to each other, or, in other words, from being individually serviceable to society. This can be best effected by a proper application of our intelligencies, meeting them out according to the necessities of the community, and less lamenting the decline of public virtue than checking the progress of public vice: for vice retarded is more advanced. As the direction and discussion of measures of national and state policy is the business of the daily press, the full application of Addison's remark is necessarily neglected, and the consequence is, that the shielded by wealth and worldly influences, are abroad among the people, not only unsuspected, but courted and required; so that a publication is necessary which will not only detect, but exhibit these vices in sheep's clothing to public scorn; a merit which others will be warned from their treatment and service be rendered to society. In effecting this object we shall pursue an untrodden path; one where the necessary there shall be mingled (not concealed) with contrasting flowers. The manner of the "Spy in Philadelphia" shall be perfectly delicate, and uncontaminated by cant or virgidity; its censure shall be judicious, its satire chastise. Literature and the arts shall find in it an untired friend: Dramatic and Literary criticisms shall meet with most attentive and impartial duty, and sketches of the Bar and Pulpit of Philadelphia shall occasionally appear from the pen of competent judges, unbiassed by personal acquaintance or professional attachment. To these recommendations, our Poetical column will add another, which, coming from an already popular source, will, we trust, be equal to that of more pretending publications. It is unnecessary to be more explicit, as we presume the want of the proposed journal is not only admitted, but generally felt. We therefore place ourselves before the PEOPLE and relying upon their love of justice and of public virtue, await their decision respectfully but confidently. CONDITION. The first number of "THE SPY in PHILADELPHIA" will be issued on the first Saturday in July. It will be printed on fast white paper, in eight quarto pages, and of good type. As it is intended to render the contents worthy of preservation, for amusing or instructive reference, the advantage of the proposed and more portable size will be evident. The terms are $2 per annum, payable in advance, or $2 50 if not paid before the expiration of six months. Agents will be allowed a discount of 10 per cent. on all subscribers they shall obtain, on remitting one year's payment in advance, and becoming responsible for the same, and a gratuitous copy of the paper. "THE SPY IN PHILADELPHIA" will contain humorous engravings after the manner of the celebrated Cruikshank. They will be executed by skillful artists and be accompanied with comic illustrations in prose or verse from the pens of original and competent writers. All orders must be addressed, post paid, to WILLIAM HILL & CO. No. 11 Athenian Building, Philadelphia. Care will be taken to have the work carefully packed when sent out of the city. 627 Subscriptions received at this Office.
