The year 1850 was signalized by the death of an unusual number of great men. Conspicuous amongst these were John C. Calhoun, President Taylor, and Bishop Bascom. This illustrious pulpit orator was born in Western New York, and at the age of sixteen was admitted into the itinerant ministry of the Methodist Episcopal Church.—His ministry, which lasted for 36 years, commenced and ended in the West.

He was successively elected to the Presidency of Madison College, to a chair in Augusta College, and to the Presidency of Transylvania University, being thus identified with the cause of education for nearly twenty years.

One of the masters of sacred eloquence in the South thus speaks of Bascom's death: "Stricken down in the ripe maturity of those great intellectual and oratorical powers which had made his name familiar to the whole nation, and upon the threshold of a new field of ecclesiastical responsibilities, wider than he had ever filled before, with the promise of many years' valuable service to the Church which had honored him with her highest confidence and affection, the visitation is one of the utmost solemnity. In view of the fresh grave where he now lies, the mighty master of eloquence, on whose lips hundreds of thousands have hung, whose name could call together a vaster throng of listeners than that of any other man on the continent,—the grave where every trophy of genius, and lineament of manly beauty, is laid low, we are reminded of Massillon's impressive exordium over the plumed and escutcheoned bier of the young French prince—there is nothing great but God."

The same writer thus describes a sermon which he heard Dr. Bascom preach in the City of Baltimore, in the year 1840. "At particular passages the effect was awful.—The sentences came like the sharp, zig zig lightning, the tones of the preacher's voice were like articulate thunder. The hearer cowered under the weight of thought piled on thought, and was driven almost beside himself by the rapid whirl of dazzling imagery. The sermon, artistically considered, had the strange fault of being too great; it covered too vast a field of thought; it was marred by excess of grandeur."

Dr. Bascom, in his early prime, was Chaplain for Congress, and the effect of his preaching then still lives in high places. He was once describing the peril of a sinner hanging on the verge of eternal retribution, and so awful was the picture that President Jackson, who was one of the congregation, startled up with involuntary exclamation—"My God, he is lost!"

Besides other writings, Bishop Bascom has left as a legacy to posterity, a volume of sermons, which for beauty and strength, splendor and sublimity far surpass anything we have ever seen in the English language. He died at the age of fifty-two years, in glorious triumph. As a specimen of his preaching we give the conclusion of his sermon on "The Judgment."

FINALLY: WE NOTICE, MORE COMPREHENSIVELY, THE PROCESS AND ISSUES OF JUDGMENT. There will be present, on the solemn day, as subjects of the trial and witnesses of the scene, intelligences from the three great, the only, regions of the universe in which, according to the Books, they are known to exist—Heaven, earth and hell.

The ranks and hierarchies, the principalities and powers of heaven—the quick and dead—the living and buried generations of earth—together with the whole multitude of the damned—are all mustered in the grand arena. Millions on millions—millions on millions—augment successive:—stupendous crowds! Who can depict their coming together?

Were it ours to achieve, by what creative force of thought, or miracle of language, could we bring before you, in any effective way, so vast, so interminable a sweep of congregated existence! A multitude—a reckoning so immense, so utterly numberless, that all the nations earth can number will hardly serve for units in the count! There is a magnitude so tremendous, a magnificence so unutterable, connected with the event, that the utmost power of conception falters, and the strong wing of imagination itself droops terrific, unable to girdle the compass of the mighty scene!

But what are these convoked masses of individual and conscious being, crowding the vast expanse of Heaven as the theatre of Judgment, contrasted with their sights and nearly and fearful scenes, from which none can turn away! What eye can not see the unappealable Judge and his retalegest throne, girdled and borne by thousands thousands ministering unto him, and ten thousand times ten thousand standing before him! A boundless amphitheatre of living grandeur!

Listen to the noise and shaking of the pitiable elements and the terrific commotion of the heavy deep! Sublimities spring from the awful depths of gloom, and the thunder shall look terror in and heaven! The eternal wheels of nature rolling back or standing still at the suspension of her laws! The watch fires of the sky gone out, and the vast lights of space extinguished, while darkness grows darker still, amid the wave of dread noise, and the coming of mighty sounds by men or angel never heard before!

The law answer, yet all-seeing Judge, will then be seen of all, and seen, too, amid all and circumstance and terrible attraction of physical display and material grandeur—not to give it commanding publicity and circumstantial effect to the fearful hour final and avenging retribution.

When first he descended on Sinai darkness and tempest, thunder and earthquake prepared his way! Even his visit to Bethlehem was marked by signs and wonders—the guiding star and the exulting chorus.

When on the Cross, darkness enveloped, and trembling seized the earth, and nature, in sympathy with the great Atoner, threw her sorrows round the scene!

He rising from the dead attracted angel visits to the tomb; nor could he ascend to Heaven without the chariots of God marshalling by thousands their splendors in his train!

And how much more, then, shall the day of universal summoning and eternal Judgment be graced and aggrandized by the glories of creation, clustering on the gaze of the immortal tribes everywhere crowding the area of Judgment!

Let the spectator, who may have no interest in this day, if such be found, speculate curiously and unmoved upon the giant wreck of a dismantled world, and the broken slumber of ages, while mingled smoke and conflagration fill the horizon of the heavens, and roll the vast volume of desolation over earth and sea! This night, perhaps, be borne by such an one. And, in the instance of the just and good, God may support, and his grace sustain. But, in the case of those by whom God has been rejected and his grace set at naught, who will support—what sustain—when the guilty ear catches the note of doom, pealing the remembrance of transgression, and the summons of vengeance! When lightning shall scorch and thunder try the soul! When the Judge shall seize the balance of the skies, and crime incline the eternal scale against all future hope! When even the accusing angel shall resign his office, and angry destiny being to unfold its unutterable hell of anguish and despair!

What means the bitter cry of agony, rising from the smouldering segment of Heaven's concave, on the left of the Judge:—"Hide us from the face of him that sitteth on the throne, and from the wrath of the Lamb!" Tell us now, can the once cherished pleasures of time and sense, or the riches of the Universe, still one agonizing throb, when the brightest joys of earth are seen poling in the light of its conflagration! So far from it, the heart turns with despair to all that was lost in this world, and with horror to all that is awful in the next!

Children of ungodliness! Outcasts of eternity! it is your last, and Time's farewell, gaze on the world's receding drama! And no star floats in all the lurid gloom to cheer the dying eye, or tell of coming hope!

Where, now, are the indifference and audacity of crime! Stand up, now, ye chiefs of atheism and sensuality! Throw your eye athwart the amazing vast unbosomed to your view, and listen to the howl of doomed impiety already startling the midnight of hell!

Stand up now, ye haughty but dark priests of erring science, who, excluding God from nature and his works, made the mechanism of the universe the meaningless result of unmeaning chance, and worshiping second causes, insanely denied a First!—Call, now, on your godless oracles, and let them tell you "who shall be able to stand!"

Blasphemer and scoffer! Lift up your heads, scathed by lightning and canopied by thunder-folds, and let the burial-places of memory cast up your cursings and your mockery! As ye loved cursing in contempt, stand out now, in the visible accursedness and infamy of your choice!

Let the skeptic, in this final trial of his boasted unbelief, parley now with the thunder-peal and trumpet-blast, as erewhile, he was seen parleying with sin and hell!

Let the prayerless buffoon come forward now, and tell us the value of a life spent only in learning to play the fool!

Ye princes and plenipotentiaries of intellect, who, dictating knowledge to others, never knew yourselves, look, now, upon your debt of more than ten thousand talents, and nothing, not a farthing, with which to pay.

Ye worshipers of mammon—ye idolaters of gain—who, disclaiming all commerce with time and the future, and knowing no Bible but your ledger, made gold your god and gain your shrine—look now upon a unlicensed world about you; muster, now, your title-deeds, and tell us what is left! Alas! of all that once was yours, a lost soul only remains!

And you, one and all, ye reckless spendthrifts of immortal wares, look, now at the past graved on the future—the scroll of the one unrolled, and the dust of ages swept from the other! You, too, will be there, and looking, but only to see the burning ruin of a world you loved and trusted glowing in your eye! Gaze on its desolate magnificence, and tell us what you have to relume the lamp of hope! Once, amid the giddy whirl of folly and the infatuation of vice, you dreamed only of mirth and gayety; laughter filled the fane, and curses shook the throne: but now, every beam of light is a shaft of agony—every thought of the past, every look of the future, but confirms the discipline of despair, and it is hell but to recollect what you were and what you might have been!

But we can no more. To be worse than this, were not to be at all. One word of deep, solemn self-questioning and prayer, and we have done. In view of this last great trial, who, of the children of earth among us or elsewhere, of the present, or any age, will be able to stand!" God help us to understand, before we attempt to answer the question. For, very few, we are compelled to suppose, if any, are yet ready to do so. The future has much to teach us. We all, much to learn.

When time, having held in trust for eternity, the bliss and the bitterness of earth, its joy and its sorrow, shall render up its dreadful seal, and the last shadow eclipse its waning light—when invading ruin shall go abroad in avenging visitation upon the theatre of crime—when grave and sepulchre, sea and desert, amid the convulsions of expiring nature, shall yield their dead, millions at a time—when earth, air, fire and sea, shall blend their agonizing energies and close for the final strife—when the shock of conflicting elements and the dash of ruined systems shall burst upon the ear of surrounding solitude as the funeral dirge of a dying world—then, and then only, shall we be prepared to say, "who shall be able to stand!"

And then, O then, may God, who made us in goodness, judge us in mercy! And when the invitation, until now unheard and unuttered, shall echo through the height and breadth of Heaven, "Come, ye blessed," and every place in the universe, hell only excepted, shall repeat the sentence, "depart ye cursed!"—and the uncircumscribed energy of creative might shall proceed to complete the stupendous drama by remolding the ashes of the desolation, and once more giving earth, rekindled and resphered, her wonted place and primal signs among the stars and worlds of God—then may we blend with those who emboss the burning path of the Judge on his return to the Heaven he had left.

And now, finding ourselves within an infinite circumference of action and enjoyment—of which God is the centre, while Heaven's immortal millions share the attraction of the scene—let the years of eternity roll on, for there and to us, they roll in beauty and in brightness!

CHERRY PECTORAL
For the Cure of
COUGHS, COLDS, HOARSENESS, BRONCHITIS, WHOOPING-COUGH, CROUP, ASTHMA, AND CONSUMPTION.

Of all the numerous medicines extant, (and some of them valuable) for the cure of pulmonary complaints, nothing has ever been found which could compare in its effects with this preparation.—Others cure sometimes, but at all times and in all diseases of the lungs and throat where medicine can give relief, this will do it. It is pleasant to take, and perfectly safe in accordance with the directions. We do not advertise for the information of those who have tried it but those who have not. Families that have known its value will not be without it, and by its timely use, they are secure from the dangerous consequences of Coughs and Colds which neglected ripen into fatal consumption.

The Diploma of the Massachusetts Institute was awarded to this preparation, by the board of Jurors in September 1847; also, the medals at the different Institutes of Arts, in this country; also the Diploma of the Ohio Institute at Cincinnati, has been given to the CHERRY PECTORAL by their Committees in consideration of its extraordinary excellence and usefulness in curing affections of the Lungs and Throat.

Read the following opinion founded on the long experience of the eminent Physician of the port and City of

J. C. AYER— St. JOHNS, ay 8, 1851.

Five years trial of your CHERRY PECTORAL in my practice, has proven what I now say, from its composition, must be true, that it eradicates and cures the colds and coughs to which we, in this section, are particularly liable.

I think its equal has not yet been discovered, nor do I know how a better remedy can be made for the distempers of the Throat and lungs.

J. J. BURTON, M. D. F.R.S.

See what it has done on a wasted constitution, not only in the following cases, but a thousand more:

SAVANNAH, Jan. 24, 1851.

DR. AYER: In the month of July last I was attacked by a violent diarrh a in the mines of California. I returned to San Francisco, in hope of receiving benefit from a change of climate and diet. My Diarrhœa ceased, but was followed by a severe cough—and much soreness. I finally started for home, but received no benefit from the voyage.—My cough continued to grow worse, and when I arrived in New York, I was at once marked by my acquaintances as a victim of consumption. I must confess that I saw no sufficient reason to doubt what my friends all believed. At this time, I commenced taking your truly invaluable medicine with little expectation of deriving any benefit from its use. You would not receive these lines did I not regard it my duty to state to the afflicted, through you, that my health, in the space of eight months, is fully restored. I attribute it to the use of your CHERRY PECTORAL.

WILLIA W. SMITH.

Washington, Pa., April 12, 1848.

Dear Sir:—Seeing that I have been spared from a premature grave, through your instrumentality by the providence of God, I will take the liberty to express to you my gratitude.

A cough and the alarming symptoms of Consumption had reduced me too low to leave me anything like hope, when my physician brought me a bottle of your "Pectoral." It seemed to afford immediate relief, and now in a few weeks time has restored me to sound health.

If it will do for others what it has for me, you are certainly round the benefactors of mankind.

Sincerely wishing you every blessing, I am

Very respectfully yours,
JOHN J. CLARKE, Rector of St. Peter's Ch.

For the removal and permanent cure of all Diseases arising from an impure state of the Blood or habit of the System.

Among the many and important discoveries of this generation is one whose fame will be written, as with a sun beam, in the history of the past. Sands' Sarsaparilla stands forth alone, and by its own works proclaims its power—that innate vital quickening principle, affecting in the speediest and most unmistakable manner, the system—that mineral poisons, so frightfully afflicting in the aggravated form of suffering for relief, has been discovered. Thousands of cases in disease have been removed by this unquestionable specific, such as are described in the pamphlet around. These things are not done in a corner, or in some obscure room, but are published and promulgated to and public gaze. They are brought before the world to substantiate, beyond doubt, the healing virtues of this preparation; and the facts unfolded although grateful, are as plain as the light of day.

The Sarsaparilla is combined with the most efficient and safe, the most salutary productions, the most potent simples of the vegetable kingdom; and the unprecedented success in the restoration to health of those who had passed under the most distressing circumstances, has given it an exalted character—astonishing, as it does, evidence of its own intrinsic value, and recommending it to the confidence in terms the afflicted only can know. It has long been a most important desideratum in the practice of medicine, to obtain a remedy similar to this—one that would act on the liver, stomach and bowels with all the precision and potency of mineral preparations, yet without any of their deleterious effects upon the vital powers of the system. Although possessed of powerful healing properties, it is entirely harmless, and will not injure the most delicate constitution. When in perfect health, no effect is produced by its use, except an increase of appetite; but when disease is seated in the frame, and carrying fast the victim along the path of life, then an unconscious influence is felt and seen; it enlivens where its presence is not, and brings health and strength to the suffering and disabled.

SCRUPULOUS ATTENTION OF THE EYES.

WILMINGTON, March 29, 1849.

A. B. & D. SANDS—GENTLEMEN: I would not have presumed to write to you, if it was but my duty to let the public know the almost miraculous effect your Sarsaparilla has had upon me. My limbs were so covered with ulcerous sores, so that I could not walk during the whole Spring and Summer. In this situation I commenced the use of your Sarsaparilla, and after taking two bottles was entirely cured. I must also tell you of another wonderful cure. My brother was afflicted with this cerofula to his head, so bad his physician told him the loss of his sight was inevitable, and permanent blindness seemed to be his fate. Three bottles entirely restored his sight, and we cannot but recommend all similarly afflicted to use Sands' Sarsaparilla. Yours, truly,

BENJAMIN F. BUCKNER.

ITS POPULARITY ABROAD.

From South America.

Maracaibo, Venezuela, April 12, 1849.

Messrs. Sands—Gentlemen: I consider it a duty due the public to make known the great benefit I have received by using your valuable Sarsaparilla. About three years since I was attacked with Rheumatism in my shoulders, and also in my legs, and so severe was the pain, that I was unable to sleep. I tried all of the best medicines I could hear of without receiving any benefit, until through the advice of a friend I procured some of your Sarsaparilla, and after using four bottles in the course of fifteen days, I found myself entirely well. I have no hesitation in saying your Sarsaparilla is the best medicine I ever took, and can conscientiously recommend it to my friends and the public.

Your obedient servant,

J. M. JESURUN.

Here is another, nearer home:

New York, Jan. 8, 1850.

Messrs. Sands—Gentlemen:—I have great pleasure in acknowledging to you the great benefit I have received by the use of your Sarsaparilla. A subject of pulmonary disease, I made a voyage to Europe, but while there continued to be afflicted. A few weeks after my return I was seized with a violent hemorrhage of the lungs, and from the debility and great prostration of strength that followed with the protracted illness of consumption, I am entirely relieved by the use of your Sarsaparilla, which I consider an invaluable remedy, and can safely add—cures in every instance. I feel that I have not for long—very long enjoyed health as at present.

Yours truly yours,

S. E. SEYMORE

PEPSIN is the chief element or Great Digesting Principle of the Gastric Juice—the Secret of the Food, the Purifying, Preserving, and Stimulating Agent of the Stomach and Intestines. It is now, in many cases, the Dyspeptic's only hope of DURABILITY (MACIATION NERVOUSNESS, DECLINE, and DYSPEPTIC CONSUMPTION, supposed to be on the verge of the grave. The Stomach Exhausted upon which it is based, is the legitimate grist CURIOUS and REMARKABLE.

SCIENTIFIC EVIDENCE!

BARON LIEBIG in his celebrated work on Animal Chemistry, says: "An Artificial Digestive Fluid, such as equals in the Gastric Juice, may be readily prepared from the mucous membranes of the Stomach of the Calf, in which vegetable matter, such as meat and eggs, will be softened, changed, and digested just in the same manner as they would be in the human stomach."

DR. CHRISTIE'S

For the Removal and Permanent Cure of all
NERVOUS DISEASES,

And of those Complaints which are caused by an impaired or enfeebled condition of the

NERVOUS SYSTEM.

This beautiful and convenient application of the powers of GALVANISM and MAGNETISM, has been proved by distinguished physicians, both in Europe and the United States, to be the most valuable medicinal discovery of the Age.

Dr. CHRISTIE'S GALVANIC BELT and MAGNETIC FLUID, is used with the most perfect and certain success in all cases of

GENERAL DEBILITY,

Strengthening the weakened body, giving tone to the organs, and invigorating the entire system. Also in CRAMP, PAIN, CHILL and FALSE DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, GOUT, and CHRONIC EPILEPSY, LUMBAGO, DEAFNESS, NERVOUS TREMBLING, PALPITATION OF THE HEART, APOPLEXY, NEURALGIA, PAINS in the SIDE and CHEST, LIVER COMPLAINT, WEAKNESS, and CURVATURE of the SPINE, DISEASES of the KIDNEYS, DEFICIENCY of NERVOUS and PHYSICAL ENERGY, and all SKIN DISEASES, which complaints arise from one single cause, namely,

A Derangement of the Nervous System.

☞In NERVOUS COMPLAINTS, Drugs and Medicines increase the disease, for they weaken the vital energies of the already prostrated system; while under the strengthening, stimulating influence of GALVANISM, as applied in this beautiful and wonderful discovery, the debilitated, weakened sufferer is restored to former health, strength, and vigor.

The great peculiarity and excellence of

consists in the fact that they arrest and cure diseases by equalizing, or, in place of the usual mode of drugging and reducing the patient, till exhausted
