FOR THE NORTH-CAROLINA WILL.

A SONG. I love a wife who's cheerful-Not sad, nor yet too gay; With smiling face—not tearful— Smiles "drive dull care away."

Thus 'round our fireside sitting With jessels two or more. We're blest with joys befitting. And nerved 'gainst troubles sore, And nerved 'gainst troubles sore, We're blest with joys befitting, And served 'gainst troubles sere,

2. I love a wife abiding With cheerfulness at home To what our thoughts confiding We'll never wish to foam.

When wintry winds are blowing Around our humble cot, Within a fire is glowing, And brightens all our lot; And brightens, &c.

3. I tore a wife who's gentle. And pleasing in her ways; Industrious, fragal, mental-A gein above all praise. earn not if she's witty-Far better to be wise; 'Tis actions make one pretty, And home's endesting prize. And home's, &c.

Sweet the comforts-finally springing. From home, and those we love-Heavenly blessings-brightly clinging.
