

Sunday Reading.

WHY WICKED MEN OPPOSE THE GOSPEL.

The reason of the opposition of worldly men to the Gospel of Christ, is stated in general language in the Scriptures to be, the enmity of the carnal mind against God. Men love darkness rather than light, because their deeds are evil. The person who is envious of guilt feels uneasy in the presence of God, or of religious people. He naturally hates and fears those whom he has injured.

But in addition to the above, some special reasons have been given, why the Gospel is opposed by so large a portion of worldly men. Some oppose it, because it interferes with their unlawful gains. They are engaged in some business, or trade, which the civil law, perhaps, sanctions, but which the law of God clearly condemns. It may be the sale of intoxicating liquors. They know that God and Christian men cannot look with approbation on their conduct. They know also, that with the spread of the Gospel, temperance and virtue will prevail, and thus their customers will be diminished. Hence, at the very first approach of the missionary, or at the prospect of organizing a Christian Church, in a place where they have long held their sway, an outcry is raised. Men of like craft assemble, and take counsel together, and like Demetrius of old, they address one another, saying, "Sirs, ye know that by this craft we have our wealth, and if the spread of the Gospel is desired, the source whence our gain is derived will be dried up. To them it seems a small matter to jeopardize their own souls, and those of their fellow men, provided they can only increase their wealth. These are truly the enemies of their race, preying upon their fellow men.

Others are engaged in a business, perhaps which is perfectly honorable, but they pursue it as if it were their life and soul. The "slimly dollar" has complete control over them. They know that the Gospel is a system of benevolence, and they fear that bold and repeated calls will be made upon their purse. They look upon it therefore with jealousy, as something that is likely to diminish their wealth. This, however, a short-sighted policy, for all honest and useful occupations and every kind of useful property, especially real estate, is greatly enhanced in value by the spread of the Gospel.

Others oppose it, because they fear it will diminish their worldly pleasure. They see no pleasure in religion, nor in the society of pious people. And if they fear, lest their friends and relatives should refuse to mingle with them in the giddy dances of world, and join in the giddy dances. They seem to be totally unconscious of the fact, that religion can give more real and solid enjoyment in one hour than all the pleasures of the world during this short life.

But notwithstanding the opposition of Satan, and wicked men, there is a divine agency in the world which ensures its success. And this is one of the strongest proofs of the divine origin of the Christian religion. In profane men, compared with the multitudes of the world are few, and as regards their external circumstances, weak. Satan, wicked men, and the mightiest powers of earth, have, for thousands of years been arrayed against the church to crush it, but no weapon formed against it has prospered. Not only will, and it is, in the society of pious people, but every good operation has failed to accomplish their design. And upon the supposition that the Christian Religion is not of divine origin, its very existence under the circumstances, is a greater miracle than any recorded in the Scriptures. It is the kingdom which the God of heaven has set up, which is represented as the stone cut out without hands, and which is to become a great mountain and fill the whole earth. Reader, are you a subject of this king, or arrayed against it? Remember, there can be no neutrality here, for the King himself has said, "He that gathereth not with me scattereth abroad."

SOCIALITY IN THE CHURCH.

In a sermon on this subject, Rev. W. J. R. Taylor says:

May I not add as another serious cause of the debility of our churches, the want of a living practical warm-hearted Christian union? There should be nothing to chill or repel from such a place as this, nothing to weaken the faithful ones, or to excite any one who goes as a reason why he did not unite with a certain congregation.

"Why, I should be frozen to death here!" "One article of our creed is this: "I believe in the communion of saints." And while the rules of all respectable societies have their bounds, yet, let us be reminded that Christians are brothers and sisters in the Lord, and that the house of God has its laws of courtesy and kindness, which always repay the observance. But sometimes there is an apparent coldness, which is more the effect of diffidence, arising from the want of personal acquaintance, than of anything else, which chills our fellow-membership. Nothing contributes more powerfully to the prosperity of the church, than this cordial union of all its hearts and hands in the service and kingdom of our Lord; for this is a manner of our Redeemer's prayer to the Father, "That they may all be one, even as we are one." And I do not think that this warm-hearted cordiality is one great reason why many of the churches which are attended by what are called the middle classes of society, are so constantly thronged and blessed. The poor and the stranger are made to feel at home in the house of God. On the other hand, if you need only visit a spiritual lee-palace, you need only visit what are commonly known as fashionable churches; and there also you see a type of that unity which consists of being frozen together. There you will see the ark shut out for dead; it has its fastness in the gloaming gospel, and the "truth as it is in Jesus;" the means of grace for grace itself; the shadow of the substance; the form of godliness in those who deny its power.

SECRET PRAYER.
Men never take so deep a hold on God as in secret. Remember Jacob. Thou shouldst pray alone, for thou hast sinned alone, and thou art to die alone, and be judged alone. Alone thou wilt have to appear before the judgment seat. Why not go alone to the mercy seat? In the great transaction between thee and God, thou shalt have no human helper. You are not going to tell him any secret. You may be sure he will not betray your confidence. Whatever reasons there may be for any species of devotion, these are more and stronger reasons for secret devotion. Nothing is more embarrassing and disturbing in secret prayer than unpropitious circumstances. Great attention ought always to be paid to this point—"Enter into thy closet," says Christ—"he says not a closet, nor the closet, but thy closet. The habit of secret communion is supposed to be formed. The man is supposed to have a closet—some place in which he is accustomed to retire for prayer—some spot consecrated by many a meeting there with God—some place that has often been to him a Bethel. The Saviour uses the word to mean any place where, with no embarrassment either from the fear or pride of observation, we can freely pour out our hearts in prayer to God. No matter what are the dimensions of the place, what its flooring or canopy. Christ's closet was a mountain, Isaac's a field, Peter's the house-top.—Veritas.

PLASTER.
This is a stimulant to all soils; it acts more readily and perceptibly on those that have been well manured than upon those barren of animal matter. Its nature is to absorb both from the earth and air, and give to the growing plant. The use of plaster on land plowed only four inches deep will be very apparent the first year, the second less so, and the third still less. The deepening by plowing two inches yearly, and spreading animal or other manures, will keep the plaster in action.—Ohio Farmer.

Agricultural.

ON THE ADVANTAGES OF STIRRING THE SOIL IN DRY WEATHER.

We find the following experience in the Genesee Farmer, an old and staunch friend, by the way, that takes occasion to call and give us good advice each month. Read it.
"I have known instances where a narrow strip has been left unplowed in a summer-fallow during a dry summer, and after harvest it was all plowed together. The unplowed strip would appear almost destitute of moisture, while that which was plowed and frequently stirred with the harrow or cultivator exhibited quite a contrast.
"It is the common experience of farmers, that wheat sown in a dry fall upon fallow ground is much more liable to come up well, than when sown on stubble.
"Again, in haying certain very hot weather, you could fairly see the corn grow, upon leaving the field at night. I have measured some hills that were hoed and some that were not, and the next night compared their growth during the twenty-four hours. The result was that the hoed had made about twice the growth of the unhoed.
"Two years ago last summer I planted rather late in the season a small piece of cucumbers for pickles. The soil was dry, sandy loam, with a warm, southern exposure to the sun. I determined to stir the soil often. We felt the effects of that unusually severe drought. The piece yielding a fine lot of pickles, the vines remaining green and leaviness, until destroyed by frost; while vines in the neighborhood treated in the ordinary way, were dried up and barren. So much for facts. Now, how are these results to be accounted for?
"We have seen that the soil frequently stirred had gathered moisture, and had received from some source, nutrition. From what source and by what powers were those supplies of moisture and nutrition derived? It is a well known fact that the driest atmosphere contains vapor, which is usually deposited in the night upon any substance that is sufficiently cool to condense it into water in the form of dew. At the close of a hot day, when the air is calm and the sky clear, vegetation soon radiates sufficient heat to reduce its temperature to the dew point. The naked earth does not possess this power; hence we often find dew upon vegetation, when the bare ground is dry, not having cooled enough to condense the vapor in the proximate atmosphere. But if the ground is stirred, the air will penetrate its surface, carrying its vapor and it reaches a cooler soil where it is condensed into dew, which diffuses itself through the mellowed earth.
"Your agricultural readers have probably noticed that fresh plowed ground is frequently covered with dew, and sometimes with frost when the adjoining ground is dry. I think I have succeeded in accounting for the presence of moisture in soil frequently stirred, when almost entirely wanting in contact ground; yet I believe that water is not the only ingredient that soil frequently stirred derives from the atmosphere.
"I am convinced with you, Messrs. Editors, that nitrogen is an important element in the human system. Nitrogen is present in the forms of ammonia to a certain extent in the atmosphere, and it has a strong affinity for water, being absorbed by it in large quantities. It is not reasonable to infer that it is combined with the vapor, and with it conveyed to the roots of growing plants to minister to their urgent necessity? Like favorable effects may be produced in mellow soil by the light showers that frequently occur, even in the driest weather. The difference in the depth to which light showers will penetrate in soils is frequently stirred, and those left hard and baked, is very appreciable.
"In conclusion, allow me to exhort my brother farmers to keep the plow, the hoe and the cultivator pretty busy in their corn, potato, root crops, and even their wheat fields, believing it will do more to counteract the injurious effects of our severe droughts, than any other means which they can employ."

SANDFORD'S INVIGORATOR, AS A LIVER MEDICINE.

There has long existed a demand for such a remedy that could be relied on as a safe and certain cure for the most distressing liver complaint. This remedy has been prepared by the late Dr. Sandford, and an extensive trial of its efficacy has shown how universally it has accomplished the purpose designed. Among the complaints which have been recently cured by the use of the Invigorator, we mention Liver Complaint, which is the cause of many other diseases—among which are, Headache, Stomach Pain, the Spleen and Lungs, Bilious Fever, Heart and Ague, Jaundice, Dropsy, Languor and Loss of Appetite, Loss of Sleep and Irritability—all of which are cured by a simple action of the liver. The Invigorator is accompanied with particular reference to the Liver, and when that disease is removed all the rest are cured, as the cause of them is taken away. A few doses of the Invigorator rarely ever fail to stimulate the Liver in a proper action, and by its continued use to remove the disease. It has been taken with great success in cases of Cholic, Jaundice, &c., and for this it has been found a very efficacious remedy. An occasional dose stimulates the stomach to a healthy action and restores the appetite and vigor. One dose will relieve the oppressive nausea experienced by eating a hearty dinner, as it excites the digestive organs to vigorous action. For a debilitated state of the system the Invigorator has no equal, which experience proves, as it restores the system and removes the yellowness from the skin, which is the result of a diseased liver.
Prepared and sold by Sandford & Co., 188 Front St., New York. Price $1 per bottle, containing 40 doses. Also sold by

A. A. N. M. TAYLOR

Would respectfully announce to the inhabitants of CHARLOTTE and vicinity, that he has now from the Old States, one dozen West of T. M. Farrow's Grocery Store, where it has been long in use, and is one of the most extensive assortments of which has gained such a famous reputation in the Southern Country for its light weight, and its durability. This Stove is warranted superior to any Cooking Stove now in use. It is simple in its arrangement, consumes less fuel, and does more work in a given time, than any other Stove now in use. It is put up one inside any other Stove of the same size in the United States, and if it does more work in a given time, he will forfeit the price of the Stove, and quit selling and go to the better one.

STOVES

Ever offered in North Carolina, among which will be found the celebrated IRON AND STEEL REFRIGERATED COOKING STOVE,

ALSO, ALL KINDS OF PARLOR & BOX STOVES.

He has, and constantly keeps on hand, an extensive and varied stock of TIN AND SHEET IRON, JAPAN AND BRITANNIA WARE, BRASS KETTLES, CAST IRON BEDSTEPS, HAT RACKS, CRADLES, &c., &c.,
All of which will be sold, Wholesale and Retail, cheaper than has ever been offered in this vicinity.

I would return my thanks to my friends and customers for the very liberal patronage they have bestowed upon me, and they may rest assured, that I shall endeavor, by close attention to business, to give them the greatest satisfaction.
