And art thou cold and lowly laid ? And has they funeral proyer been said? And has the requests and hear and for the who ned so hear and for the who ned so hear and a so hear and a hear the said of a pring? No longer happh in flowers for the T And solid the back still sweetly sing. But not for thes, their minately?

Yee, flowers shall with rephyrs wave, Bat only blend to bloce thy grave, And birds shall ang from presn wood tree, Only to chaunt a arge for thee; Weak genty felling summer rain bla gently felling summer rain Shall also its tears of entries here al music murmuts o'st the plain, While nature mourns her worshipper.

Friend of my soul thy heart is stilled. That east with "eccay" was farilied And allent new the courts been grown Where fancy hold her radiant throne ; And eyes where fires of genius glooms And eyes where fires of genius glasseed, Abl death has queach if their glasses, glaw From the where therefore measures stratment Sweet harmoning to more shall flaw.

I'd lay thy loved hatp by ity aide.

I'd hay thy lowed hap by by woo, If d blanes some lingering strain obide, That, marrowing with asgel headt. Might weld ho did, cold ear of secth But by the Master's great which thrane. Where golden halls are ringing now-Where use periodsed dwells show, Belaved friend, sure there art tion.

Then didd, not know, and none the know, My love for thice, my depth of wee, That thine effects task is done, While mine is exactly yet begun; And will in dramas thy here Jees. When night elements her juwelled well; And will fung singest under no In some wild, wurdenne, witching well.
