Still it rains nothing like it within the memory of the oldest inhabitant. Fine for ducks and turnip greens, however. It is high time the gardens were all made, but many of them have not, as yet, had a spade in them. We hope our farmers took advantage of the recent short interval of dry weather to get their spring oats sown.

When we consider the prevalence of the custom to dub everybody who went to the wars with the title of Captain, Colonel, General, etc., there is a peculiar appropriateness in the following resolution, which was introduced at a meeting of Confederate soldiers at At- upon whom service could be had. FATAL ACCIDENT ON THE NORTH CAR-OLINA RAILROAD.-Last Wednesday about one o'clock a distressing accident occurred at Gibsonville, resulting in the death of one person and the serious injury of two others.

The engine and tender of the material train had been detached from the remainder of the train for the purpose of running down to Company Shops. On the engine were Messrs. Womble, Blake and Witherspoon. Mr. Womble, who is a clerk in the depot at Greensboro and who was on his way to the Shops on busness was sitting in the engineer's seat, Mr. Blake was running the engine, standing in front of the furnace door, and Mr. Witherspoon was sitting on the fireman's box. Three colored men were on the tender. They were running backwards and had left Gibsonville only about a quarter of a mile when the tender, which was empty of both wood and water and consequently easily jolted, was by some means not yet ascertained, but probably by a defective joint between the bars thrown from the track and, running so, for some yards, it is thought the engine ran up on the front trucks of the tender, and turned itself completely over and off the track, down a slight embankment. The top of the boiler was thrown off and the three men on the engine were all badly scalded. Mr. Womble died about 7 o'clock the same evening. Mr. Blake is still in a very critical condition. Mr. Witherspoon is not dangerously but very painfuly hurt.

One of the colored men on the tender was right badly bruised by the fall but is not seriously hurt, the others escaped uninjured.

Under the engine were found Mr. Womble's shoe and stocking where his foot was caught and he had contrived somehow or other to slip his foot from tuem leaving the skin hanging to them. The skin of his thumb with the nail, was found near the engine, it was slipped from the flesh, as neatly as if it had been a glove finger and was unbroken when found.

As soon as this decision was rendered the Richmond & Danville Railroad Company probably fearing further interference and delays, went to work and changed their guage from Greensboro to Charlotte from four feet eight inches to five feet, thereby making it conform to the guage of their own road. While the change was being effected the legislature was hard at work upon a bill to prevent it, and succeeded in getting it passed, just in time-to be too late.

The change was already made. We understand that the Company is now at work upon the Salem branch, changing its guage, and that all the officers have absconded, so that if an attempt to restrain should be made, there is no one

How the fight is to end we cannot conjecture. We are free to say, however, that we cannot see far enough into a millstone to prophesy any good results that are to flow from this change for North Carolina.

The Greensboro Gift Concert has been postponed, and only for a few days, as to the failure on the part of agents throughout the State to make their returns, caused by the change of guage of the N. C. The General liquor prohibition bill which gives to all communities in the State a right to vote upon the question of license or no license passed its several reading in the Senate after amendments so iking out various counties. The Legislature adjourned sine die at 12 o'clock M. yesterday.

MR. EDITOR:-No doubt all your readers who feel any concern for the educational interests of the State, will be pleased to see that our Legislature has at last, after very strong opposition, by certain parties passed the bill re-storing the land scrip fund given by Congress for the benefit of an agricultural college. This fund was invested by Lassiter, the then Treasurer of the Board of Trustees of the University, under the advice of certain members of the Board, in special tax bonds and was almost entirely lost, as the bonds were not recognised by the State. I cannot see how any friend of the people or of education could oppose the restoration of this fund. The question was plain and simple. Shall we return it to the University and thereby enable the sons of the State to be educated by it, or shall we, ignoring the interest of this class and crippling the cause of education within our borders, remain nactive, refuse to do anything with the fund, and allow Congress to recall it. Then of course a tax would have to be levied to raise the whole amount at once, and it would also be an acknowledgement that North Carolina would not remain true to her pledges; for there were certain conditions annexed to the gift of this land scrip, and those conditions and terms were agreed to when it was accepted by the State.

As I understand the bill just passed, it gives certificates of indebtedness of the State, to the amount of $125,000, to the Trustees of the University and engages to pay the interest annually. At the same time these Trustees are directed to destroy the worthless bonds in which this scrip had been invested. This is certainly no recognition of the special tax bonds. I cannot see how it can be so construed by any one. It gives to the cause of education the sum of $75000.00 annually. How small a tax would be required to raise that sum. The taxable property of the State is valued at about $42,500,000. To raise $7500.00 would only require a tax of six ten thousandths of one per cent. on each $100.00 worth of property. Can we not easily pay as small a sum as that for the education of our children, especially when we consider that it is to give them practical instruction in agriculture and he mechanic arts, branches that have heretofore been too much neglected in the education of our youth. It will be to educate farmers, and every one must see the advantage of one educated farmer in each community. How soon his theoretical ideas mix with the more practical ones of the man who has been all his life at the plow handle, each learning from the other, and the farming interests of the whole section are bene fited thereby. As the General Assembly have done their part it now devolves upon the trustees to do theirs. This I believe they will do. It is proposed, as I understand. to open in a very short time-perhaps this summer—the agricultural college at the University, and to add the other branches as soon-as circumstances and money will justify, and we may soon hope to see its deserted walls peopled with the happy youths of her state and the whole southern country; and its beau-

Will not the alumni of the University and other friends of education throughout the state come to its aid and give of their means to revive our once proud institution. Nearly all the northern colleges have large endowments. Then should our University languish for lack of means. None are too poo.
