Thirty-Six Years.

On the 9th day of February, 1875 thirty-six years ago today, was issued the first issue of THE ALA-MANCE GLEANER. The paper was founded by Capt. E. S. Parker and a Mr. Johnson. The latter was a printer by trade. After two or three years he severed his connection with the paper and went away and we believe he has passed to the beyond After that Capt. Parker owned and edited the paper until he sold it in May, 1880—nearly 31 years ago, the present owner being one of the purchasers. Capt. Parker was a vigorous, versatile and facile newspaper writer and today is one of the county's most respected and esteemed citizens. This issue does not begin a new volume, but it ends the 36th. We would add further that Dr. Daniel Albright Long, as we are informed, paid the first subscription to the new paper, and he has taken and paid for the paper ever since. on the first subscription list at Gra-GLEANER in the State.

The item had reference to the bills before the Legislature for the creation of new counties, but the Dispatch, of course, salaries and fees and fees and salaries and such. Such an imagination.

At Wilson last Friday Deputy Sheriff Geo. Mumford was shot and killed and Chief of Police A. G. The State Dispatch is riding the salary horse in all sorts of gaits this week, but we have not time in this issue to refer to them, except this quoted from one of porations that have contributed his numerous articles; "Our pres ent clerk is opposed to salaries.' The "present Clerk" is the editor people, but the attorneys of trusts of this "Album of Song," to block the attorneys of trusts who serve their masters by robquote an expression of Col. The Legislature is still at work on important measures, some of is the original—has been which will be discussed at length before passing. No important measure should be passed without mature consideration. Sentiment alone is a poor excuse for making any proposition into law.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 41911 An extra session of Congress afthan probable. Congress is pulling in several different directions. Certain Senators and members of the lower House are kicking and balking. The lesson of the last congressional election is unheeded or misunderstood. Such a selfevident proposition as the desirability of reciprocity with Canada is opposed by a Senator from Texas and the Speaker of the House from Illinois and by a recently elected Senator from Massachusetts; and all of them have some backing in Congress. A busy world gives little hee to these startling figures. In the the great work which has been complished by American fraternal organizations attracts but little attention, and yet every great and noble action has fraternity for one of its surest and safest stays. Indeed, it is the very essence of our faith in American institutions. It has been one of the important wielding influences in war of every contending host. In every social reform and every march of industrial progress, clas distictions and arrogant assump tion of authority melt beneath the power of fraternalism. In a word, it is the bulwark of American institutions.—James Byram in National Magazine.

Sentiment and commercialism need not walk asunder in forest onservation. True it is that for nealth and pleasure forests of small extent must be maintained where commercialism would have none, and the forest covering and surroundings of some of nature's beauty spots should be undisturbed, but the commercial use of the hundreds of milions of acres of forests in this land of ours need not often conflict with their use by the seeker for health and pleasure. It is, therefore, for the utilitarian as well as aesthetic side that it can be said, if there is any one duty more than another which we owe to our children and our children's children it is to save the forests of this country while maintaining them in use.
