Redistricting the State.

Charlotte Observer.

The legislative committee on congressional appointment have given unanimous endorsement to a resolution proposing the redistricting of the state "with a view to making every district safely Democratic." Whether this phrase is a part of the resolution or merely the known intention of the committee is not clear but in either case the matter is one to be handled with the greatest care. The High Point Enterprise goes directly to the root of the matter when it reminds us that the securing of ten Democratic Representatives by the votes of the people and the accomplishment of the same end by virtue of legislative enactment are two entirely different things. The former is a worthy aim and quite possible of achievement as was demonstrated last November. The latter is a snare and a delusion if brought about by gerrymanders in any way radical and is nicely calculated to be a boomerang.

The North Carolina Legislature is overwhelmingly Democratic and in any redistricting it may do it would be too much to expect of human nature to suppose that the interests of the dominant party will not be looked after. The history of gerrymanders the country over, however, shows that counties have a singularly facile way of changing their political complexion under provocation, and political map-drawing which might make ten Democratic Representatives in 1913 might also result very differently in 1914. "The lay of the geographical situation," prophesies The High Point Enterprise, "will count for but little." We sincerely hope that this view will be proved inaccurate. For as surely as attention is given exclusively to comparative and probable majorities at the expense of considerations of compactness, so surely will trouble and plenty of it be in store for the North Carolina Democracy.

The party is now in a position to strengthen its hold upon every part of the State by wise administration and faithful performances. Let it not exchange this substantial bone for any specious shadow of a solid delegation to be secured by tortuous linking together of counties whose union is indefensible except upon the grounds of so-called political expediency.

Silver Loving Cup to North Carolina Boy for Largest Yield of Corn

The North Carolina Department of Agriculture accepts with pledges of heartiest co-operation a public spirited more on the part of the Raleigh Daily Times to put up for annual reward a splendid silver loving cup to be awarded each year to the North Carolina boy obtaining the largest yield of corn from a single acre cultivated by him. The award is to be made each December 1, by the Commissioner of Agriculture on duly authenticated returns from the various contestants, the winner to hold the cup as a trophy until the next annual award.

Warning to Railroad Men.

Look out for severe and even dangerous kidney and bladder trouble resulting from years of railroad work. Geo. E. Bell, 633 Third St., Fort Wayne, Ind., was many years a conductor on the Nickel Plate He says: "Twenty years of railroad work left my kidneys in terrible condition. There was a continual pain across my back and hips and my kidneys gave me much distress, and the action of my bladder was frequent and most painful. I got a supply of Foley's Kidney Pills and the first bottle made a wonderful improvement and four bottles cured me completely. Since being cured I have recommended Foley's Kidney Pills to many of my railroad friends. For Sale by all Druggists."

Chas. Strickland, an insane negro in Nash county jail, set fire to the mattress in his cell and was so badly burned that he died.

A Special Medicine for Kidney Ailments. Many elderly people have found in Foley's Kidney Remedy a quick relief and permanent benefit from kidney and bladder ailments, and from annoying urinary irregularities due to advancing years. Isaac N. Regan, Farmer, Mo., says: "Foley's Kidney Remedy effected a complete cure in my case and I want others to know of it. For Sale by all Druggists."

Famous Indian Chief Goes to Happy Hunting Grounds.

Lawton, Okla., Feb. 23.—Quannah Parker, chief of the Comanche Indians, latest of the great Indian braves who spread terror among white settlers of the Southwest, died at his home at the foot of the Wichita mountains, near Lawton, at 12:05 o'clock this afternoon from a severe attack of rheumatism which affected the heart.

Quannah Parker was 67 years old. His mother, Cynthia Ann Parker, was taken captive by the Indians when other members of the family of settlers from Illinois were killed in a raid. At that time she was a child and grew to womanhood among the Indians, finally marrying the chief, Pezane Cana. Before the latter's death he designated Quannah to be his successor when he had proven himself worthy of the throne by bravery. Four years later the young chief then 18 years old, reorganized the tribe and went on the warpath, leading numerous raids until the establishment of Fort Sill in 1874, when he surrendered to General McKenzie.

Widow Got 165 Proposals.

New York Times.

The Sigma Xi College fraternity in the Columbia University clubhouse at 140 West 113th street have been much puzzled recently by the receipt of many letters addressed to Mrs. H. Arnold at the clubhouse address. The postman finally settled the curiosity about them when he found that he was delivering similar letters to 130 West 113th street, a flat house.

In all the postman delivered 165 of them, and each was an offer to marry Mrs. Arnold. Many of them contained photographs of the senders. It developed through telegrams arriving from Seattle that the mayor of that city had made public a letter from a Mrs. H. Arnold declaring that she was a widow and wished to marry and could guarantee that she was a "jolly good cook of both plain and fancy dishes."

is the hoarse, startling cough of a child, suddenly attacked by croup. Often it aroused Lewis Chamblin of Manchester, O., (R. No. 2) for their four children were greatly subject to croup. "Sometimes in severe attacks," he wrote, "we were afraid they would die, but since we proved what a certain remedy, Dr. King's New Discovery is, we have no fear. We rely on it for croup and for coughs, colds or any throat or lung trouble." So do thousands of others. So may you. Asthma, Hay Fever, LaGrippe, Whooping Cough, Hemorrhages before it, 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Sold by Graham Drug Co.

New York, Feb. 22.—There was heavy general selling in the coffee market today with prices closing at a decline of 10 to 12 points following a report that resolutions had been introduced in Congress, asking for an investigation of an alleged coffee trust. This was supposed to refer to the valorization scheme of the Brazilian government which accumulated about 7,000,000 bags of coffee during 1907 and whose remaining supply amounting to over 6,000,000 bags is said to be controlled by a marketing committee of bankers.

Foley's Kidney Pills.

Don't forget that a few beets, turnips or cabbage mixed with the regular rations of the dairy herd these wintery days, will do much toward taking the place of the juicy grazing the animals relished so much in summer, when they filled the milk-pail to overflowing.

It is impossible to develop a cold into a sound, serviceable horse if it is kept tied on a hard floor day in and day out through the winter.

The "Blue Back."

Greensboro Daily Record.

Some of the newspapers are advocating a return to the old Blue Back Speller. The Salisbury Post says the rising generation is short on spelling caused by the absence of the old man Webster. The "educated" will now put editor of the Post in the same class with Col. Harris, of the Charlotte Chronicle, but we hope he will not mind it.

We have not run up against bad spelling very often, but we used to be bothered with young printers who were unable to divide words properly. Taken to task for it, they let the cat out of the bag. They said they had not been taught to spell by syllables, like Constantine, for instance, spelling one syllable at a time and doubling back as they proceeded. It was about this time that The Record submitted a few remarks in the shape of advice. Just to make it more interesting we used ridicule at times not having the least idea that there would be any action, yet one day a pupil of the city school said the system had been changed for almost a year—the pupils spelling as in the old days. The change was made, but pains were taken not to let the Record know of it.

But did the Post ever try one of the graduates on double fractions? It might be interesting. This was brought up one day recently in a talk with a man who lived in the country, when he said he would wager a hat that graduates from his school could work any kind of fractions and in a hurry. He went on to say that perhaps the old Blue Back was not in use, but the multiplication table was along with fractions, and that the scholars knew how to divide words.
