GRAHAM, N. C., April 20, 1911.

The tariff question is likely to receive more attention than President Taft expected when he called for an extra session of Congress.

Hon. Claude Kitchin opened the tariff debate in the House last Saturday. He made a strong speech on the rasing order. He not only nagged the Republicans, but took a few sly digs at the senior Senator and other North Carolina Congressmen. He is a gifted debater and can strike hard blows, but should not strike without provocation.

On Monday the most important battle in the Mexican revolution was fought. The rebels repulsed the federals with heavy loss—some 200, the rebels losing about 20. The battle was at Agua Prieta. This revolution has assumed a phase, on account of an American town being shot up, that may force the United States to take some direct action.

Two Big Mine Disasters.

Fire in a mine at Throop, Pa., near Scranton, Apr. 7th, resulted in the death of 73 men. All the bodies were recovered next day. A relief fund is being raised for the families of the dead. The disaster leaves 45 widows and 137 orphans.

Near Birmingham Ala., early on the morning of the 8th an explosion occurred in the coal mine of the Pratt Consolidated Company which caused the death of 128 convicts employed in the mine work. Of the dead all were colored except 14. The cause of the explosion is not known. None of the convicts had relatives near and there were practically no mourners at the mine when the bodies of the victims were brought out. A long trench was dug and the bodies of those unclaimed by relatives will be buried at the mines.

A party of rescuers who went into the mine next morning had a narrow escape from suffocation, a accident to the engine temporarily stopping the fans.

"Start a Bank Account."

The Hickory Democrat says the two-story residence of Mrs. Julius Miller, of Hildebrand, was burned recently. Mrs. Miller was not at home when the fire started, but when she arrived she rushed into the building, "snatched at this hiding place and that and rescued something like $175 in greenbacks. She did not have time to get the coin, and just as she emerged from the house, the roof fell in."

Mrs. Miller now has a mass of melted silver which she wants redeemed, but which the government does not redeem. The value of melted coin money is the value of the metal just as if it had never been coined.

A resolution has been adopted by the Inter-State Commerce Commission putting an end to the practice of railroad companies, for the sake of convenience, in selling passenger tickets whenever possible, at a charge in multiples of five. For instance, if the fare according to the mileage, figured 44 cents, the rate exacted has in many cases been 45 cents; and if, it figured 43 cents, it might be 40. By the order issued carriers are required to make the change in odd cents, exacting the precise fare in every instance.

A. C. Hutchison, of Charlotte, 53 years old, committed suicide Wednesday of last week at Alta Vista, Va., by shooting himself. No cause assigned except ill health. Wife and four children living in Charlotte. Hutchison was connected with a cotton mill at Alta Vista and spent most of his time there.

Senator Overman has again introduced in Congress his immigration bill providing a head tax of $10 instead of $4, and an educational test. A person over 16 years old shall read the English or some European language or dialect before he or she can enter. Any one already here can bring in a brother or sister or wife without meeting the foregoing conditions.

Washington Letter

WASHINGTON, April 15, 1911.

The special session of Congress in its second week has taken up its legislative work with great vigor and the Democrats are encouraged to believe that much work will be accomplished during the legislative session. By a vote of 296 to 16 the bill proposing a Constitutional amendment providing for the direct election of United States Senators was passed. Only one Democrat opposed the measure. The other fifteen voting against it were Republicans. The Canadian reciprocity bill has also been favorably reported. Mr. Underwood, chairman of the ways and means committee announced that the free list tariff measure will be reported before the end of the week. Among important bills introduced was one to regulate the traffic in cold storage products, another to increase the prestige of the American merchant marine, a third to regulate the issuance of injunctions and another bill to change the date of the inauguration of the President to the last Thursday in April. This bill has often been up in Congress and it is an effort to extend the term of the short session and to fix the date of inauguration which has become a national pantagon, attracting hundreds of thousands of people, to a time of year of fairer weather than the proverbially cold and stormy 4th of March. It is probable that before this is in print the Canadian reciprocity measure will have passed the House. The Democrat leaders have fully decided to go into the agricultural schedule and make important changes which they demanded during the tariff discussions of last year. Other schedules not included in the general legislative program it is expected will be brought before the House probably during this month. The success of the House in passing the bill providing for the popular election of Senators has had an exhilarating influence on the minds of the majority leaders, and they are hopeful that much important legislation may be enacted.

Up to the present time the Democratic ways and means committee of the House had not contemplated much more than a revision of the wool and cotton schedules, but owing to their successes this week, they realize that they have time for additional tariff revision. Mr. Underwood, chairman of the committee, is of the opinion that the session will be completed earlier than has been anticipated. It is expected that the ways and means committee will take up the woolen schedule of the tariff bill without waiting for the report of the tariff board, inasmuch as it is understood that this board will not be able to furnish information concerning the woolen schedule during the present session. The possible revision of this schedule came up in the Senate on Thursday, when Senator Warren, whom the late Senator Dolliver characterized as the "greatest shepherd since Abraham," offered a number of protests and memorials deprecating revision of the wool schedule. The Wyoming Senator represents a wool-growing state, but he said that these memorials do not protect against ultimate revision, but simply prayed Congress to defer action until proper information could be received as a basis for scientific revision.

Senator Cummins has opened a long expected attack on the somewhat dilatory national monetary commission, that refuge of "lame ducks," as it has been called. The Iowa Senator introduced a bill requiring this commission to present its final report at the beginning of the next session in December, and this bill provides for the repeal of the law creating the commission and removing it from the payroll as soon as its report is submitted. The Commission, it will be remembered, consists of eighteen members. Seven of them no longer draw their salaries as Senators and two of them were former members of the House of Representatives. This is why it is called the "lame duck" refuge. To some of them, like Senators Aldrich and Hale, the salary which they draw as members of the monetary commission is matter of no great importance, but the others who draw the same salary as a member of Congress are Burrows, Teller, Money, Flint and Talliferro. This commission was organized in 1908. Senator Cummins says that he believes it is time a definite financial plan should be submitted to Congress, that he is not opposed to any of the members of the committee, but that he thought sufficient time had elapsed for positive results. The Aldrich plan for a central bank has been partially approved by the commission, and this plan, it is said, has Senator Cummins' and other Senators' approval.

Oklahoma Must Work Out Her Own Troubles.

Washington Dispatch.

The burden of Statehood was brought home to the State of Oklahoma today when the Supreme Court of the U. S. in substance told the State that it was to look hereafter to its own law for the regulation of the liquor traffic and freight rates and not to the Federal government. The State about a year ago filed an original petition in the Supreme Court asking it to enjoin the carrying of liquor into that section of the State. The request was based upon the requirement that the State of Oklahoma provide in its constitution that liquor should not be sold there. The Supreme Court said today that the State should go into the State courts to enjoin the railroads under the State law, if it desired.

The court likewise refused to enjoin the Federal judges in Oklahoma from enforcing certain decrees they had issued in liquor cases, involving a conflict of authority between the Federal and State courts. The court held that in view of its right to review the cases on writs of certiorari, it would not enjoin the judges.

Negroes Moving to Canada.

Ottawa, Ont., Dispatch.

The movement of negroes into western Canada to take up free homesteads was brought up in Parliament today by Mr. Thoburn an Ontario member, who declared that hundreds of colored settlers had emigrated from the United States and at the rate the movement is growing there soon would be thousands of them planted in the Northwest. He asserted that they are not suited to Canadian conditions and would not make desirable settlers. The government, he said, should do something to discourage the movement. Minister of Interior Oliver replied that the Canadian laws do not prohibit the entry of negro settlers and the government could only administer the law. While the situation was being carefully watched, the government had not yet seen fit to take drastic action.

New School Laws.

In the April number of North Carolina Education, Prof. Allen J. Barwick, of the State Department of Public Instruction, gives an intelligent summary of all important new school laws and amendments enacted by the legislature. He says that heretofore, text books have been adopted for the elementary public schools under the law that constituted the State Board of Education the State text book commission. The law as amended increases the number of members of the commission from seven to 13, and provides that six of them shall be appointed from the county superintendents and teachers by the Gov. and the State Superintendent of public instruction. There are seven members of the State Board of Education but as one of them is a teacher, the profession will have the majority representation. The law does not make it compulsory upon cities operating under special charters to use the text books. Their status remains unchanged in this respect. Provision is also made for the establishment of one or more depositories in the State as central distributing points for all adopted books.

Another law provides that failure of public school teachers—public high school principals and teachers included—to attend biennially a teachers' institute or accredited summer school for a continuous term of not less than two weeks, shall be cause for debarment from teaching in any of the public schools of the State until they have complied with the law and attended some county institute or accredited summer school as directed in the act.

It is of interest to know that a new law gives the county authority to vote upon the question of levying and collecting a special tax throughout the whole county for school purposes, fixing the maximum at 30 cents on the hundred dollars valuation of property and 90 cents on the poll. Provision is made for deducting the rate so voted from the rate in districts that may already have special tax, so that the special tax rate levied in the county may not serve to add to the district rate and make the whole special rate more than the greater of the two rates, and vice versa. The county board of education now has authority to condemn not more than three acres for a school site, whereas before not more than two could be secured in this way.

In the Federal Court at Aberdeen, Miss., last week, J. N. Miller, who was found guilty of fraudulently using the mails, was sentenced to seven years in prison and to pay a fine of $11,000. L. C. Steele and C. H. Linde, who accepted a verdict of guilty on the same charge, were sentenced to two years' imprisonment and a fine of $10,000 each. The men were members of the cotton firm of Steele, Miller & Co., of Corinth, Miss., which failed several months ago. It was charged at the time of the failure that bogus bills of lading amounting to millions of dollars had been issued by the firm.

Congressman Moore thinks Government Should Sell Firearms.

The other day Representative J. Hampton Moore, of Pa., introduced a bill and joint resolution designed to stop the sale of obsolete arms on the part of the government, and calling upon the constituted authorities to set the ball rolling for a world conference looking to an international agreement to put a stop to the sale of antiquated guns, rifles and other firearms.

Explaining his measure, Mr. Moore said: "We are the greatest offenders against the peace and order of some of the Central and Latin American countries, because we have put it in the power of insurgents and other disturbing persons to make trouble at any time. We are not the only offenders, because the great nations are constantly selling their old arms, as we do, when they find they have contrived something better. On several occasions I have sought to learn why we sell old arms, and the only answer has been that we get some money out of them; that if we did not sell them, we'd neglect to do what other nations did. What does it profit a nation if it obtains a few thousand dollars from the sale of discarded guns, and then has to send battle-ships and armies to keep peace along the border. That seems to be our position along the Mexican border today. We have been selling our old guns to merchants and junk dealers, and they have been selling them to agents for the insurgents, with the result that we are now spending what may approach millions of dollars to keep the peace. We ought to stop the practice of selling old guns, whether other nations do it or not; and then we should try to get the other nations to do the same thing. We could make no greater contribution to the cause of public peace. But, breaking up these old arms, we would also prevent a great many murders, suicides and other acts of domestic violence."
