MARRIAGE IN PERSIA.

Curious Customs Accompany the Wedding Ceremony.

Marriage in Persia is a quaint business. The happy pair are not allowed to see each other until they are formally betrothed, and this takes place in the presence of a mullah. The lady appears with her face thickly rouged and powdered and her eyebrows painted; it is therefore difficult to see what she is like. She is not allowed to speak. At intervals she is presented with jewels, lumps of sugar covered with gaudy strips of gilt paper, or, in some cases, gold leaf, and sugar candy molded into the form of howls. A burst of music announces the arrival of the bridegroom. The room is at once cleared, every one retiring into an inner room. From behind curtains the women watch the groom, seated on a throne-like chair, receive gifts and eat sweets. After some dancing and smoking the men go out and the womenfolk come in again.

A smart Persian wedding may extend over a week. On the last day of the ceremony the bride, who has been treated as a sort of outcast, is conducted by a near relative to a room where she undergoes further and more elaborate decoration. She then returns to the guest room and her dowry is laid before her in trays. The dowry often comprises such queer things as cheap and highly colored oleographs, gaudy vases and bird cages, and there are also useful household articles.

Having kissed the hearthstone of her home, she is given bread, salt and a piece of gold, and thus equipped and closely veiled she is lifted on to a gaily adorned donkey and, accompanied by a circus-like procession of friends, goes to her future home, where her husband awaits her.

First Bone at Pontenoy. The Black Watch distinguished itself at Pontenoy by a mode of warfare which at the time surprised both friend and foe, but has since become a recognized maneuver. Unable to get at the French infantry, who were strongly entrenched, and being therefore incapable of using their formidable broadswords with effect, the Forty-second highlanders, after marching to the ground to the music of their own bagpipes to take up a position, fired a volley and then "clapped down at full length on the ground to let the enemy's shots pass over them." The only exception to this prone attitude was the colonel, Sir Robert Monro, who was so fat and unwieldy that had he lain down it would have required a lever to lift him again.

The Man Who Meddled. "I have made it a fast rule in life," said the pale faced man to the prosperous merchant, "never to meddle with another man's business."

"That is quite right," replied the merchant.

"But all the same, I wish to tell you something in confidence about your business. You have a new secretary, I see."

"Yes."

"Well, take my advice; don't trust that man. I've watched him. He's dishonest, he's a heavy drinker, he's a rogue. You took him out of charity, I suppose?"

"Not exactly. He's my eldest son."

The Sneezing Prayer. The custom, still quite common in some of the countries of the old world, of saying "God bless you" to the sneezer originated, according to some authorities, among the primitive Romans, who, through the opinion of the danger attending it, after sneezing made a short prayer to the gods, as "Jupiter, help me." The custom is mentioned by Homer, by several of the older Jewish rabbis and others, and is found, it is said, among various savage peoples about the world. Another authority says the custom took its rise at the time of the plague, 558, when the infected fell dead while sneezing.—New York American.

The Ignorant Patriot. A very raw recruit was being put through an examination in geography when he proved himself astonishingly ignorant. At last, after a failure on his part of unusual frequency, the examiner scowled at him and thundered: "Idiot, you want to defend your country and you don't even know where it is!"

All Up With Him. "You had a high old time in Europe?"

"Yes," replied the returned tourist; "I had. I was done up at Monte Carlo, held up in the Apennines and laid up in Rome."

DAMES AND DAUGHTERS.

May Sutton, the famous tennis player, will, it is said, desert the game at the end of the season for golf.

Miss Ellen Fitz Pendleton, acting president of Wellesley college for eight months, who has been chosen president of the institution, is a Wellesley graduate of the class of 1886.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt's address after her re-election as president of the International Woman Suffrage alliance is to be translated into the languages of all civilized lands and distributed all over the world.

Lady William Cecil and Miss Goodlee have been elected to the governing board of the Queen's Hospital For Children, Hacton, London. They are the only women among the twenty seven members of the board. Mrs. Leona M. Wells, assistant chief clerk of the senate committee on appropriations, is said to be the highest paid woman in the employ of the United States. She receives a salary of $1,500 a year. She is a little more than thirty years old and an acknowledged expert in questions relating to military law and legislation.

Four Kings.

The mikado of Japan is a hunter and angler of no mean ability, as well as a good exponent of lawn tennis.

The sultan of Turkey is one of the most enthusiastic chess players in Europe. He will play the game for hours without intermission.

China's child emperor is already showing inclinations toward military life. The little emperor's favorite game is to drill his playmates, and it is said he leads them really well.

No European ruler uses the telegraph so much as the czar of Russia. He has a secret code both for his private and his official messages and spends $25,000 a year on this kind of correspondence.

WRONG BELIEFS.

Hosts of young men are reckless because they believe that by and by they can be what they will. Hosts of old men are hopeless because it seems impossible that they can ever be anything but what they are. Both are wrong.—Phillips Brooks.

Her Ability.

"Are you able to keep your servants any length of time?"

"Let me see. I've had my husband six years."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Keep your heart high. That is the sum of philosophy.—Cousin.

Town Topics.

Walla Walla is going to try the commission form of government. But first it should get a name that looks and sounds less like a college yell.—Albany Journal.

Battle Creek has more than 7,000 people employed at good wages, and if she wants to buy something at the south fountain she has earned the right.—Battle Creek Evening News.

Bridge tolls were abolished all over the country years ago, and just now they have been abolished on the Brooklyn bridge. New York city will catch up with the rest of the country if you give it time.—Watertown Times.

FREEDOM.

There are two freedoms—the false, where a man is free to do what he likes; the true, where a man is free to do what he ought.—Charles Kingsley.

Just the Other Way.

"I wonder if Mabel takes anything for her lovely complexion?"

"No; I believe she gives something for it."—London Answers.

—Ambitious young men and ladies should learn telegraphy, for, since the new 8-hour law became effective there is a shortage of many thousand telegraphers. Positions pay from $50 to $70 a month to beginners. The Telegraph Institute of Columbia, S. C. and five other cities is operated under supervision of R. R. Officials and all students are placed when qualified. Write them for particulars.

LIVES OF CHRISTIAN MINISTERS

This book, entitled as above, contains over 200 memoirs of Ministers in the Christian Church with historical references. An interesting volume—nicely printed and bound. Price per copy: cloth, $2.00; gilt top, $2.50. By mail $0c extra. Orders may be sent to:

P. J. KERNODLE, 1012 E. Marshall St., Richmond, Va.

Orders may be left at this office.

My Doctor Said

"Try Cardui," writes Mrs. Z. V. Spill, of Hayne, N. C. "I was in a very low state of health, and was not able to be up and tend to my duties. I did try Cardui, and soon began to feel better. I got able to be up and help do my housework. I continued to take the medicine, and now I am able to do my housework and to care for my children, and I feel as though I could never praise Cardui enough for the benefits I have received."

TAKE CARDUI The Woman's Tonic

Cardui is successful, because it is made especially for women, and acts specifically on the womanly constitution. Cardui does one thing, and does it well. That explains the great success which it has had, during the past 50 years, in helping thousands of weak and ailing women back to health and happiness.

If you are a woman, feel tired, dull, and are nervous, cross and irritable, it's because you need a tonic. Why not try Cardui? Cardui builds, strengthens, restores, and acts in every way as a special, tonic remedy for women. Test it for yourself. Your druggist sells Cardui. Ask him.

Write to: Ladies' Advisory Dept., Chamberlain Medicine Co., 150 N. 2nd St., St. Louis, Mo., for full particulars, and 8-cent trial bottle. "Beware of cheap imitations."—Cousin.
