FRENCH HALT FOE'S ATTACKS

13-Mile Onslaught Yields Germans 500 Yards.

STRUGGLE FOR TWO HILLS

Losses in Biggest General Advance Yet Attempted.

The Germans continued their acks in the Verdun region, east and west of the Meuse river, over a front thirteen miles long from Hill 304

Fort Douaumont.

The French war office announcement says that in the fighting wes of the river for possession of Dead Man's Hill the Germans were repuls-ed except on a front of 500 yards near Hill No. 295. East of the river the German assaults gained no apprecia ble results.

After their evacuation Saturday night of Bethincourt, the French with stood all day Sunday on their new line, the more furious assaults which have been made by the crown prince'

army in many days.

The French evacuated Bethincour when, after a month's defence, as he role and as vain as at Malancourt, the pinch of the Germans on three sides of the salient became no longer berrable. For the last week it had been borne only by the unconquerable will of its French defenders.

As now established, the French as now established, the French line in this sector runs from the Avo-court redoubt along the wooded slopes to the west of Hill 304, follows the Forges creek to the northeast of Haucourt and joins the positions already held to the south of the crossing of the Bethincourt-Senes and Bethin-court-Chattancourt roads.

The evacuation of Bethincourt, in itself only a small ruined village, has had the effect of flattening the point of the salient, although the successful holding by the French of the line on the Forges creek to the west of Bethincourt and the line just south of he village leaves a still very pronounced salient projecting into the German lines, with the two very important hills, 304, east of Haucourt, and Le Mort Homme, southeast of Bethin-veek.
