Chips From Mexican Border.

Cor. of The Gleaner.

"Texas is a wet state but then it's too dry for soldiers."

In the army, a soldier don't say I can't do this, and I can't do that, but he does it just the same.

It has been said that Villa, would cross the Rio Grand if he could find a "Ford," well, we Tar Heels who are on guard would inform him of the International Bridge, but if he crosses there he's liable to get stuck.

If there is anything better than a North Carolina, it's a Tar Heel.

The reason every youngster has a desire to be a Cowboy and go West is because that out in Texas they hunt jack rabbits and attend bull fights, instead of attending Sunday School.

Carl Stelmets, our professional trap drummer, said to Captain Abernathy of the Third Infantry the other day: "Say, Captain, what do they do with a man when he gets shot?" "They take him to the hospital of course," was the reply. "Well, I didn't know, because I was walking down the street the other day with a man about half shot, and they carried him to the guard house."

The Third Infantry is better known as the "C. C. Factory" because if you go up with a cold, you get C. C.'s, and if you have the tooth ach, you get C. C.'s and if you gave headache, or any other kind of aches, you get C. C.'s.

The other day one of our boys sprained his ankle in a basketball game, and when they had painted and banded up the sprain the boy on duty suggested that the patient take C. C.'s because they did not want anyone to be misinformed as to where the patient received treatment. And another thing was, "they wanted to make a clean record."

We were talking about the fifty thousand, that the United States offered the finder of Villa, when a soldier spoke up, "They must think a deal of a lot more of Villa than they do of me, because if I were to get lost, they would offer my finder only about fifty dollars."

Speaking of the Border being a desolate, desert-like place, some one has said that the Lord reached Texas on the seventh day, when He was forming the earth.

One minute we hear that we are going home—the next minute we hear that we are ready to invade Mexico, so the only thing that we are sure of is the fact that, "we are still in the army."

Someone has said that the Rio Grand is a grand river, but Haw River would look good to me.

WOODROW WILSON. When the sun plays retreat, beyond the western hills, Of that so-called Golden State, The Tar Heels think of the Atlantic coast.

But now it seems like only a ghost. We long for the day, when we leave with a shout, Back to North Carolina—that's the place, we muster out.

Then vote for Woodrow Wilson, and stand by the Union Jack. He's the man that sent us down, and the President that carried us back.

From the Rio Grande, with high elevation—Twenty-three hundred miles to civilization.

SCHOOL DAYS. "To Whom Do I Owe It" She feels inspired, with the morning sun, And looks encouraged, with the work begun.

But in the afternoon she's kind of blue, Some one has failed and she thinks of you.

They all march out, you stay in, They have made their hundreds—you have made your ten.

She's sadly disappointed, and advises with a sigh, But I don't care, is that long face reply.

Still the teacher loses not her faith, Because she's interested in the boy And test after test, Her face is filled with joy.

His interest is renewed, And end exam after test is passed, When at the close of the year, He, for once, is leading the class.

He's in the debate, He's on the track, He's now on the field, with the pack, Then comes class day exercises, They are attended with the dignity of a preacher; He's the valdicatorian, of his class He owes it to his teacher.

The Brunswick Stew at Friendship was about all that was expected, no basket picnic, some speaking, though a small crowd to listen. Hughes badges in abundance, but the small boys are wearing them.

A play, "The Kentucky Bell," will be given by the Liberty High School in the auditorium on the night of Nov. 17. It is a grand play. The characters are well trained and a general good time is expected. Proceeds for the benefit of the school. Everybody attend.

A large crowd attended Rally Day Exercises at Mt. Pleasant M. P. Church on last Sunday. Some prominent speakers were heard with much interest, each one had something of interest to say, which kept the listener wondering what good thing would be said next.

Alamance Community Fairs.

HAWFIELDS third annual Fair will be held on Friday, Nov. 10th. This is going to be by far the Best Fair they have ever held. Several new features will be added this year that will interesting. Some of the best cattle in the State will be on exhibition. Arrangements have been made for a large poultry display and will be shown in wire exhibition coops.

The ladies' department promises to be better than ever. Dinner will be served on the grounds. Men from the State Department will assist in judging. Everybody invited to attend and have one good day.

SPRING will hold their annual Fair on Saturday, Nov. 11th. Judges from the State Department will also be there. From the interest shown by the people of Spring, it is believee that this Fair is going to be better than ever before.

FRIENDSHIP will hold their Fair on Saturday, Nov. 18th and this will be a good one. Friendship has the reputation of holding the first community fair held in the State.

The Teachers' Meeting.

On last Saturday one of the best attended teachers' meeting ever held in the county convened in the county convoked in the court house in Graham. Of the 101 rural white teachers 94 were present besides several of the town teachers.

Such loyalty to duty and to work can not be too highly complimented. It bespeaks both interest and industry. It not only shows what a faithful part the teachers intend to do but what they have already well begun.

The Superintendent is encouraged to believe we may have 101 teachers present at the first group meeting on Dec. 2nd.

Prof. Randolph of Elon College made a very thoughtful and practical address that was received with unbroken interest. He spoke of the high calling of the teacher and gave some very normal ways by which she could fulfill this calling.

Supt. A. H. King of the city schools of Burlington read a paper on "The Relation of the Teacher to the Child." This vital relation was very aptly described. He showed that all the teacher's efforts existed for the child and then pointed out how the teacher might pursue policies that would lead to success.

Every word spoken by Prof. Randolph and Supt. King was full of weight and was listened to by every teacher.

The Supt. of Education then called special attention to: (a) The Hand Book, (b) Supervisor's Report, (c) Contest in Spelling, (d) Contest in Composition, (e) Contest in Music, (f) Teachers' Reading Course, (g) Pupil's Library Reading Course, (h) the Census and Enrollment, (i) the necessity of the teachers on the playground, (j) Attendance Law, (k) Moot Light Schools, (l) Educational Column, (m) Organization of Country Life Clubs, (n) Group Teachers' Meetings.

This week is the beginning of the Community Fairs in our county. Friday the Hawfields community has its annual fair; Saturday is the Fair day at Spring School. Everybody is cordially invited to attend these fairs. Saturday of next week, Saturday, Nov. 18, the Friendship community will hold its yearly gathering in Community Fair. Every one who attended the fairs held by these communities last year will remember the splendid exhibits, the good dinners, the courtesies, etc., given by these people. Special efforts are being put forth to make these exceed anything of the kind previously given.

HER SON SUBJECT TO CROUP. "My son Edwin is subject to croup," writes Mrs. E. O. Irwin, New Kensington, Pa. "I put in many sleepless hours at night before I learned of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. TIRELESS VIGILS KEPT AT NATIONAL HEADQUARTERS.

Both Managers Claim Success With the Flani Count.

New York.—Tireless vigils were kept by anxious watchers at headquarters of both the Democratic and Republican National Committees. Bulletins from states in which the results are still in doubt were scanned even more eagerly than Tuesday night.

Both chairmen, Vance C. McCormick for the Democrats, and William B. Willcox for the Republicans, professed undiminished confidence in the outcome. The former was somewhat more explicit in his claims but the latter declared, after dining with Charles E. Hughes, that the nominee agreed with him that the Republicans had been successful.

"We ask only what is fair," declared Mr. Willcox. "We want only what we are entitled to and that we propose to have."

Earlier in the day Mr. McCormick had announced that he had sent telegrams to state and county chairmen in doubtful states directing them to keep careful guard over the ballot boxes and their contents.

Attorney General Gregory visited Democratic headquarters and was closeted with the chairman but it was asserted by the Republicans that the significance. Late in the afternoon Mr. McCormick conferred with John B. Stanchfield and Delaney Nichol, prominent Democratic lawyers.

The possibility of an official count being necessary in states where the margin of apparent victory for one or the other is slight, was freely discussed at both headquarters. It was pointed out that if the House of Representatives became the court of last resort in the election of a President, the present House and not the one elected Tuesday would sit in judgment. No formal statements on the subject of a recount were made by either side, however.

Apparently the rank and file of Wilson adherents who had no opportunity to celebrate Tuesday night were determined to make up for what they had missed. A crowd of such proportions that it blocked traffic for blocks in Forty-second street gathered in front of Democratic headquarters. Two bands joined forces in playing the "Star Spangled Banner." The crowd announced its intention of parading all over the city.

Senator Clark of Wyoming appeared to be encountering trouble in his contest with John B. Kendrick, democrat. Republican leaders, however, were claiming Clark's election. Another probable reversal was indicated in New Mexico where A. A. Jones, democrat, maintained a slight lead over Frank A. Hubbell, nominated by the republicans to succeed Senator Catron.
