Notwithstanding the recent cold snaps there is yet a fair prospect of fruit. In some places, however, fruit is reported killed.

For three mornings in succession—last Saturday, Sunday and Monday, there was both ice and frost here, but it was colder on the first two mornings than on the last named.

The theme for discussion at the Graham Baptist church for Sunday will be, "Prayer and Choice." Luke 6:12-13. At the eleven o'clock hour, and 8 p. m., Subject: "Mercy, Omnipotence and Justice."—Nahum 1:3.

There is no such thing as a "pleasure car" these days. This statement, made an official of the Quaker Tires, summarizes the change in the status of the automobile, due in great part, to the World War.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Tinnin died Wednesday, 10th inst., and funeral was held at the residence the following afternoon. The cause of death was pneumonia. At the same time three other small children of Mr. and Mrs. Tinnin were sick and in bed from pneumonia.

The snow last week that commenced to fall here shortly after noon on Thursday continued through the afternoon and night and up to ten o'clock Friday morning. During the night it reached the depth of more than an inch and would have been several inches, had it not melted so rapidly. It turned warmer Friday and before one o'clock the snow was all gone.

Liberty Bonds. Last week we stated that both Graham and Alamance county had oversubscribed their allotments in Liberty Bonds. Since then Graham has added, through the banks, $7,500.00 making the subscription $113,200 to this writing.

The city of Burlington is now largely oversubscribed its allotment. The county is working for a banner and it will get it.

Graham's School Supt. to Leave. Last week the Trustees of the City Schools of Burlington elected Prof. Chas. W. Rankin, who has been Superintendent of Graham Graded Schools for the past five years, to the superintendency of their schools to succeed Prof. King, who has resigned to enter war service. Prof. Rankin has done exceedingly well here and has given excellent satisfaction to both patrons and pupils. Burlington is getting a man who has proven himself equal to the task of school management in an unusual degree. Graham's loss is Burlington's gain. We wish him continued success.

Fannie Ward Beaten by Husband. In her newest Paramount picture at the Mexican Theatre, Saturday, April 20, Fannie Ward has the novelty of having her own husband play the villain in the production. He not only steals her from her father, riding away with her thrown over his saddle, but later on in the picture, beats her with gusto and relish and testifies falsely against her in court. A happy ending—Fannie Ward securely married to another man and Jack Dean her "real" husband meeting his just deserts.

Mill Employees Buy Bonds. Immediately after the noon hour Tuesday at the Oneida Cotton Mills, Mr. Lynn B. Williamson, Secretary and Treasurer, called the employees together for a short talk. He spoke to them about Liberty Bonds and why they should buy. In a few minutes he had 67 applications for bonds aggregating $7,500.00.

This morning Mr. Williamson went to Belmont Cotton Mills and presented the matter to the employers there and the result was 35 subscriptions amounting to $5,000.

This is going at the matter right and is an exhibit of patriotism on the part of all concerned that counts.

School Meeting. A meeting is called of the patrons of Graham Graded School to be held in the court house next Monday night. See notice elsewhere. The purpose of the meeting is to get an expression of the people looking to making the school—good one that it is—a better school. In other words, the school must neither stand still nor go backward, but go forward. Graham must have a school the equal of the best. To have less would not be treating our girls and boys right; it would be gross injustice. Let the meeting be largely attended.

A gardenless backyard is a slacker's backyard. The North Carolina Press Association will hold its annual meeting in Asheville in August.

Water Fills Trenches as Rain Soaks Troops. On the night when the big battle scenes of "For the Freedom of the World," Ira M. Lowry's great war spectacle, were made, a tremendous downfall of rain occurred just at sunset and continued for two hours. The thousands of regular soldiers who were to man the trenches were drenched to the skin, and their officers wanted the plans changed so they would not have to be exposed to the weather in their wet garments.

The enthusiasm of the men for making was so great, however, that the picture was allowed to go on, and at midnight, when the actual trench raid began, there was about three feet of water in each trench. Unconsciously, the actual conditions which the American Legion of the Canadian Army found when they reached the front line in Flanders had been reproduced.

"For the Freedom of the World" will be shown at the Mexican Theatre on Wednesday, April 24.

Mr. Levi H. Aldridge Dead. After an illness of some months Mr. Levi H. Aldridge passed away at his home at Union Ridge last Thursday. The interment was at Union Christian church cemetery Saturday afternoon. The funeral was conducted by his Pastor, Rev. W. L. Willis, assisted by Drs. J. W. Wells and W. S. Long. The burial services were conducted by the Masonic Fraternity of which he was a member.

Deceased was about 50 years of age and was born and reared in less than a mile of where he died. He is survived by his wife, who was Miss Minnie Graham, the eldest daughter of the late Dr. Henry Graham, and six daughters and one son. He is also survived by two brothers—Charles P. Aldridge of Union Ridge and John N. Aldridge of Caswell county; and a sister—Mrs. J. W. Harrell of Burlington.

Mr. Aldridge was one of the county's best citizens and highly esteemed by all who knew him. He had been engaged in the mercantile business at Union Ridge for twenty years or more in addition to operating his farms. His community is the poorer for his taking off and he will be greatly missed.

GROW YOUR OWN VEGETABLES.

How To Plant and Cultivate Your Home Garden to Get the Greatest Returns and the Surest Results.

By F. F. ROCKWELL, Author of "Around the Year in the Garden," "Home Vegetable Gardening," "Gardener's Pocket Guide," Etc., Etc.

FOOD WILL WIN THE WAR—PRODUCE IT!

Article No. 5.—First Planting in the Open.

While the depths of sowing the different vegetables are given in the accompanying table when planting very early in the spring, it should be borne in mind that conditions are quite different from what they will be a little later. At this time of the year the ground is likely to be too wet rather than too dry. Therefore the seed should be sown comparatively shallow as compared to the same kind of seed that would be planted later on. Soil that is fairly dry should be well compacted around the seed or firmed above the seed, wet soil should not be packed so closely that it will make a hard surface for the seed to come through.

In using a seed drill test before you begin planting. Adjust it according to scale, put in a few of the seeds you want to plant and try it out on a board or other flat surface where you can see just how thickly the seed is dropping. Remember, keep the machine set as well as possible for dropping seed—no go ahead planting one thing after another with medium and large seeds, keeping the machine set to the same depth. Use a line and keep the rows straight.

In small gardens where seed have to be planted apart, it pays to have a long wide fork, such as this purpose. Set this in place, mark out the drill along one edge and distribute the seeds evenly at the proper depth, cover evenly and press down the row lightly with the fork.

Beets.—Plants should be set out in rows a foot apart, with about four plants to the foot. The seed should be sown in a dry soil, from half an inch to an inch in depth.

Cabbage.—Well hardened plants will withstand the cold. Most of the early planting should be of a late variety. Make the rows six to ten inches apart.

Carrots.—Sow the seed thinly and cover very lightly with fine soil. Cauliflower. Usually this should not be put out till a week or two after the cabbage. Broccoli is hardier.

Lettuces.—Plants should be set about a foot apart, each with two smaller varieties may be set closer. A little semi-liquid hen manure put under the plant will help produce rapid and even growth. Most of the summer varieties and one of the early varieties should be sown as soon as the plants are set out or shortly after. These plants should be thinned as soon as large enough.

Onions.—A few sets should be put out to furnish an extra early supply. If large onions are wanted the sets should be particularly well prepared. It is a good plan to use a few radish seeds in the rows with the onions as they come up quickly and serve as traps for the onion fly. Of the gardenish green onions are among the best. These are usually grown from sets which were sown the year before and this is the best way to get real early ones for the table. The sets grown as white or silverskin are quick growing and mild. For succession grow from the seed. The flavor of a young onion grown quickly from the seed is rich, mellow soil is extremely delicate and far surpasses those grown from sets. The sets should be several sowings so you can use them when the bulbs are the size of chestnuts.

To grow onions the soil should be the richest possible; it will be well to dig in the manure from the chicken house and the ashes from the wood fire. A commercial fertilizer containing 12 to 15 per cent nitrogen, 7 per cent phosphoric acid, 10 per cent potash should be spread before raking the surface. This soil should be small and hard even. Sow the seeds thinly in drills a foot apart and not deeper than half an inch. Sowing should be done when the soil is moist enough to work well.

Parley.—The seed germinates very slowly and it should be soaked a day or two in lukewarm water before planting. Parsnips and Salsify. Both of these good winter vegetables have peculiar shaped roots. The ground where they are to be planted should be worked deeply, as they require a generous depth of soil in order to make shapely roots. Thin out as soon as they are well started.

Peas.—These may be sown in two rows about six inches apart, each row the size of three or four feet apart for the dwarf varieties and a little more for the tall ones. If brush is to be used. Make the first planting in shallow soil, and sow extra thick if the rows are too thick some of the plants may be cut out with a small hoe or pulled out.

Radishes.—Row only a few feet of row at a time, as they mature very quickly and soon get stringy and pithy. A good method is to sow cut radish in the seed box after each week. A generous dressing of land plaster along the row before sowing will make them bright and crisp.

Turnips.—These mature quickly and only a few of the earlier sorts should be sown. Weed the rows and thin out as soon as possible after they are up.

Get The Rows Straight. It is not true that "vegetables will grow just as well in a crooked row as in a straight one," because in a straight row you can take better care of them especially if you use a wheel-hoe, than if they are planted carelessly in an uneven row.

Plan For Planting Vegetable Crops.

Table with columns: VEGETABLES, Seeds or Plants for 50 Feet of Row, Depth in Inches, Rows Apart in Inches, Distance Apart in Inches. Rows include Asparagus, Beets, Broccoli, Cabbage, Carrots, Cauliflower, Celery, Endive, Kohi-Tabi, Leek, Lettuce plants, Lettuce seed, Onions, Onion seedlings, Parsley, Parsnips, Peas, smooth, early planting, Peas, wrinkled, Potatoe, Radishes, Salsify, Swiss Chard, Turnips.

There Are Great Changes Taking Place in Our National Affairs.

Likewise The Same Applies To Graham and Burlington
There has recently been a change in our time of one hour, and beginning with the 1st of April we expect to close our plant at 3 o'clock in accordance with the new time on Saturday afternoon instead of 5 o'clock as heretofore. We are asking our patrons to govern themselves accordingly. We desire to express our appreciation for the liberal patronage given us by the merchants and farmers in the past and solicit a continuance of the same.
