PLAN YOUR RACE AND---WIN!

ATTA BOY

If it's a tie between INCOME and SPENDING, we lose. If we lose, we are handicapped on the next lap of life's relay. But if we beat our FOOLISH SPENDING, we start the next lap ahead of the game. If we keep up our saving pace, we distance the Wolf.

HOW LARGE SUMS CAN BE SAVED ON SERVICE

Meet People Fail to Consider What Help in Home Really Costs in the Long Run.

In any plan for national economy British specialists think that the household rather than the family should be taken as a unit. Under household consumption they include (1) services rendered maintaining the house and its inmates, (2) the goods consumed or acquired by the inmates, (3) the general charges of cleaning, decorating, offsetting deterioration, etc.

As a start in a saving program the British Commission has pointed out that services should be valued even more highly than goods, as each person doing his own work and unproductive work not only consumes without producing, but is also depriving the country of possible productive power. Translated into terms of American saving, this service idea would mean, "Do not hire any one to do what you can do for yourself in spare time unless you find it directly profitable."

Few Americans are really honest with themselves as to the cost of services. Not one family in a hundred really knows what a servant actually costs. Most of them place the cost of her wages and fail to count in her food, light and other things she consumes. Most of them, moreover, have no way of figuring correctly the extra waste of food or extra breakage or wear and tear due to the fact that the servant does not have the interest of ownership for making things go as far as possible. Few families know at the end of the year the important total that the "odd jobs" man or hedge cutter or grass trimmer has cost them for service that might as well have been rendered as recreation or needed outdoor exercise by the man or boys of the family.

This, of course, does not mean that so service should be purchased. Where a housewife's time is worth more in money or other contribution to family well-being than the cost of a servant she makes a profit by employing some one who frees her to do better paid work than household tasks. In many cases physical or personal reasons make it essential to the welfare of the family to have help, but in many cases the time saved to the members of the household by servants is not utilized profitably in a monetary way or even in a way to make for real happiness or advancement.

Savings on service will give many people important sums to lend to their government and save for themselves through War Savings Stamps. In the case of children work is not only a practical means of earning and saving, but in itself is a valuable discipline for life.

BANKS ENTER FIGHT AGAINST BOND SHARK

Plan is Devised Whereby Person Who Must Sell Will Be Given Square Deal.

Bankers in all parts of this district have been asked to take part in the war which has been declared against the bond shark. The campaign is to protect the small holder of Liberty and Victory Bonds. Many of these people are being preyed upon by profiteers in government securities and by salesmen of so-called wild cat stocks. Government bonds, which are the best security in the world, have been traded for worthless stock certificates which never have and never will pay one cent in dividends.

While every holder of Liberty and Victory Bonds is urged not to sell, the fact is recognized that some persons might beyond their buying power and they now find that for one reason or another—good reasons no doubt—they must sell. Bond sharks have taken advantage of the fact that some of these people, according to reports received, and the banks are now lining up to put an end to their activities.

If a man finds that he must sell his bond he should take it to the nearest bank where he will be given its full market value or if for any reason the bank prefer not to pay the cash the bond holder will be directed to a reputable broker.

The Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond has sent an official communication to every bank and trust company in this district urging their cooperation. The point is made that no criticism is aimed at the reputable broker who is legitimately buying and selling bonds and other standard securities, but a determined effort will be made, and indeed is now being made, to block the activities of those persons who by misrepresentation are preying upon the inexperienced bond holders.

BUDGETING CHILDREN

Budgeting children will teach them the value of money and often make them more careful of their clothes and shoes. It will also bring out certain traits of character that nothing else will disclose and enable parents to correct faults before they become fixed habits. Any child old enough to be entrusted with money is old enough to be given a specified amount to spend each week and to be told the value of saving a part of it.

Of course very young children may not be allowed to choose their own clothes, but training along this line may begin very early and a sense of values and suitability may be instilled.

Three grown girls in a certain family were given the same allowance for clothes, books, amusements, entertainment, friends, etc. At the end of the first month May had spent all of her allowance and stated that she had nothing to show for it. Jane had saved one-half of hers and deposited it in the bank. She had denied herself some badly needed clothing and bought a few showy articles with the amount spent. She had accepted entertainment from friends but was too stingy with her own money to entertain in return. Sarah produced an account book and showed that she had bought all the necessary articles of clothing, enjoyed several well chosen entertainments, and had purchased two War Savings Stamps, paying four per cent compound interest.

These are typical, and the information gathered from the first month enabled the father and mother to show May the folly of wasteful and careless expenditure, Jane the importance of providing necessities first, and commend Sarah for her unusual business ability and sense of thrift.

By WILLIAM A. RADFORD.

The great army of home builders this year are turning more and more to originality in the designs for the homes that they are erecting. Designs for modern homes are the results of the architectural experience of this and past generations. From the homes that were designed in various periods, the best has been selected and the balance discarded. Thus does the present-day home sacrifice neither beauty to convenience, nor convenience to beauty.

An example of this process of architectural selection is shown in the accompanying design. Here has been combined the exterior beauty of the old English style of architecture with modern room arrangement and modern construction methods and materials.

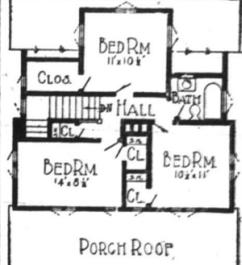

This old English stucco house of six rooms is what might be termed a "beauty." Its exterior appearance is out of the ordinary, while the room arrangement and the conveniences installed in them are of the type that appeal to the modern home builder.

tached to the door of the closet, so that it can be let down into the kitchen and the electric socket so placed that an electric iron can be handily used, all are unusual and make this a kitchen where the work can be done easily and quickly.

On the second floor there are two good-sized bedrooms, all with three exposures, and the bathroom. Every room has a closet, while there is a fourth one in the hall.

The casement windows, some hung in pairs and others singly, are features of this design that add to the appearance of the house and to the comfort of its occupants.

The perspective gives an excellent idea of the exterior of the house, while the floor plans show the room arrangement.

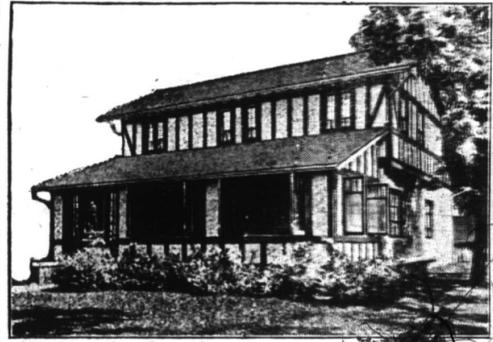

Second Floor Plan.

ment and the many built-in features of the house. The house is of standard wood construction, with a stucco exterior over wood, or wire or metal lath.

Too much cannot be said in favor of this design; it is indeed a beauty, and such homes as this give the owner the utmost in satisfaction, because its exterior is one to be proud of, while the conveniences and comforts that the interior arrangement provides are what the home builder wants and demands.

However, this plan can be altered

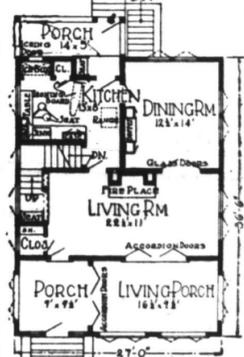

The lines are graceful, and yet no space is sacrificed to get the effect; the rooms are planned to give the home owner all the comforts of a much larger house.

The dimensions of this house, 27 by 86 feet, is a size that will permit of plenty of lawn space and garden on an ordinary-sized lot. This size is also inexpensive to build.

The porch and the living porch, which, together, extend across the front of the house are features that everybody wants in a home, while the large living room, with a fireplace, makes this house most desirable.

The living room is 22 feet 6 inches, by 11 feet, a spacious room in itself.

First Floor Plan.

but the living porch, with its casement windows and accordion doors, adds 18 feet 6 inches to the living room width and 9 feet 6 inches to its depth. Glass doors connect the dining room, 12 feet 6 inches, by 14 feet, with the living room on one side, and the kitchen, 13 by 8 feet, is reached through a short hall leading out of the other end of the living room.

The conveniences that have been planned for the kitchen are a feature of this design that will appeal to the women members of the family of the prospective builder. The work table underneath the window, the wall case and the sink alongside of it, with a swinging seat so that there is a place for the housekeeper to sit down while the work is being done either at the sink or table, the ironing board at to suit the ideas of the owner, who wishes to build a home of this type, can be finished with brick, tile, or stucco applied in any desired color.

It should be remembered that the home builder expects to live in the house for a great many years, consequently the selection of the design is important, because care will eliminate much disappointment. Here is where the services and advice of architect, contractor and material dealer will help the prospective builder, the expert specialists know what to avoid.

The first step in building a home is securing a lot on which to build it. Here again caution should be exercised in determining the character of the neighborhood, the probability of its growing or deteriorating, and its proximity to schools, etc. Appreciation of the property makes home owning a good investment, irrespective of the comforts that come with a home, because there always is the possibility that the owner may want to sell, for some reason or other.

But after considering all of these points, the man who uses care will never regret that he built a home of his own.

Valuable Waste Reclaimed. By the use of a volatile solvent, the United States forest products laboratory has succeeded in economically reclaiming the oils and paraffin from waste wax paper, leaving the pulp in condition for use anew. Extraction by steam and hot water was unprofitable, and failed to remove all wax and oils, while the cost was too great. Through this new field of operation is small, the products are valuable. The entire waste for treatment now includes about enough from central recovery to supply the quantity is likely to increase rapidly, with the prospect that other plants in various places will be required ere long.

Cash Value of Bolt. It has been estimated by an European scientist that the commercial value of the electricity in a flash of lightning lasting one one-thousandth of a second is 29 cents.

Gas in Scotland. More than 23 per cent of Scotland's illuminating gas is made in municipal plants to more than 51 per cent in Ireland and about 30 per cent in England.

Ferns Particularly Adapted for Growth in Garden Spaces That Seem So Uninviting.

There is perhaps no plant growth which appeals to the refined taste of the gardener and lover of plant life as the fern—with its wonderful grace of form and variety of color shading. Few people realize what charming effects can be obtained at a very small cost with the aid of our native wood ferns. We admire them when they are seen in their native cool and shaded haunts, but we do not realize they can easily be transplanted and will quickly contribute to the beauty of our lawns and gardens.

Ferns may be found in the woods of almost every state in the Union. Around every house, whether in city or village, there are shady spots where grass and flowers will not grow. We look at these bare and uninviting places and wish something could be done to make them attractive. Take a day off, go to the woods, and with a trowel dig up some ferns, secure as many varieties as possible, plant them in the prepared bed, the larger varieties at the back, the more delicate in front.

It does not require so many for a start, as they multiply rapidly. Keep them moist until thoroughly established. Late in the fall cover with leaves. In the spring do not remove those leaves from the bed, as they help to hold the moisture. Enrich the soil and give the ferns more of their native conditions. Thus the former uninviting spots will have become places of joy and beauty.—Chrift Magazine.
