By R. Y. Winters, Division of Agronomy.

All of the farm lands of this State are in need of improvement, and more than 25 per cent of them must be improved before they can be farmed with profit. The soils of the different sections are said to be unproductive because of their lack of some fertilizing element, but most of them are unproductive because they lack humus or organic matter. A very large portion of crop failures are due to lack of moisture. One would not have to travel far to see fields of cotton and corn that have been materially reduced in yield this season on account of the dry weather.

The water holding capacity of North Carolina soils is dependent upon their depth and the amount of organic matter which they contain. One of the most important problems in improving them, therefore, is the addition of organic matter. The principal sources of organic matter are stable manure, leaf mold, and crops grown for turning under.

Stable manure is a splendid form of organic material, but no farm in the State produces a sufficient amount to supply its needs of organic matter. For this reason it is necessary to use soil-improving crops to furnish the supply needed.

Winter Soil-Improving Crops.
The State is fortunate in having a large number of crops that may be grown for soil improvement. Most of these are legumes that not only add humus to the soil, but furnish a large quantity of nitrogen which is taken from the air. Among the winter soil-improving crops are rye, vetch, crimson clover, bur clover, red clover and others. Each of these crops are adapted to certain soils and certain farm practices and it is very important that they should be used in their proper places. An experienced grower would not think of planting crimson or bur clover on poor sandy lands or on shallow, poor, clay lands. He would know that these crops are not suited to such soils until they have been partially improved by other crops. Such soils should first be planted to rye in fall and vetch beans in summer. These crops will add the largest quantity of organic matter to the poorest soils. They may be used for grazing, but should not be removed as hay. After a year of these crops vetch and rye may be added in the winter. Later, as the soil shows improvement, such crops as crimson or bur clover may be used to advantage for further building up and maintaining fertility.

Soil-improving crops should always be fertilized, for no crop will make a good growth on poor land without fertilizer. The fertilizer applied in this way is not lost, but simply stored for future crops. The legumes are able to take a portion of their nitrogen from the air, but in poor soils this action is very slow.

Fertilizer For Rye.
The fertilization for the rye, certainly for the first year or so, or until the organic matter of the soil has been materially increased, should be as follows:
For the Piedmont Section: 200 to 300 pounds of a mixture of 14 parts of 16 per cent acid phosphate and 1 part of cottonseed meal.

In all sections of the State, after the legumes have been grown on the land and turned under in sufficient quantities to materially increase the organic matter of the soil, it will probably not be necessary to add much more than acid phosphate as the legume crops supplies sufficient nitrogen.
Fertilizer For the Legumes.
The vetch, crimson clover, vetch beans and red clover had best have a fertilizer mixture applying about as follows for the different sections of the State:
For the Central Plain Section: 250 to 300 pounds per acre of a mixture containing about 8 per cent available phosphoric acid and about 2 per cent ammonia.
For the Piedmont and Mountain Sections: 200 to 300 pounds per acre of a mixture containing about 10 per cent available phosphoric acid and about 14 to 12 per cent ammonia.
As with the rye, after the organic matter and nitrogen supplies of the soil have been materially increased, the amount of nitrogen or ammonia in the mixture may be entirely left out or reduced.

LIFT CORNS OR CALLUSES OFF

Doesn't hurt! Lift any corn or callus off with fingers

Don't suffer! A tiny bottle of Frezont costs but a few cents at any drug store. Apply a few drops on the corn, callus and "hard skin" on bottom of feet and ten list off.

When Frezont removes sores from the toes or calluses from the bottom of the feet the skin beneath is left pink and healthy and never sore, tender or irritated.

This season's most popular revival is the old-fashioned family market basket.

THIS IS THE RED CROSS CHRISTMAS SEALS GIRL

BEVERLY HAYES

Beverly Hayes says: "Buy Red Cross Christmas Seals. They protect little children from the ravages of tuberculosis. They build a barrier of health about the workers of the nation. They protect homes—your home."

"They spell hope, assurance and physical and economic rehabilitation to more than one million people in the United States who have tuberculosis." If you purchase enough Red Cross Christmas Seals, the death rate of this dread plague will be materially reduced.

"Last year 150,000 people fell victims of the disease. Twelve thousand of these were little children. Think of it! This death toll is needless. If we all do our part in the sale this year, next year's death rate will be smaller. It will be reduced year by year until eventually tuberculosis has passed into the oblivion which has already engulfed smallpox, leprosy and typhoid fever."

RED CROSS SEALS ARE HEALTH AGENTS

Idea Was Originated in This Country in 1908 by Miss Emily P. Bissell, of Wilmington, Del.

FIRST SALE YIELDED $3,000

National Tuberculosis Association, Which Sponsors Sale, Will Place 650,000,000 Seals on Sale to Finance the Fight Against Tuberculosis.

The Red Cross Seal—as millions of Americans know it to day, is an agent of happiness and health. It was originated in 1907 by Miss Emily P. Bissell, of Wilmington, Delaware, who learned through Jacob Bille of somewhat similar seals that were sold in Norway for the purpose of raising funds with which to fight tuberculosis.

Miss Bissell persuaded the American Red Cross to take up the idea with the result that seals were sold in a limited number of communities in 1908. The sale yielded a revenue of approximately $3,000. The Red Cross then decided to issue the seals each year and to turn the proceeds over to the National Tuberculosis Association and its affiliated societies for the purpose of financing the campaign against tuberculosis.

The number of seals sold in America increased by leaps and bounds until in 1917 the total reached 180,000,000.

This year the seals are again on sale beginning December 1. More than half a billion seals have been printed for distribution to state and local agents. In addition to the seals "Health Bonds" in denominations ranging from $5.00 to $100.00 are to be sold in lieu of seals to large contributors, who do not send out a sufficient quantity of mail in December to make use of all the seals they would like to purchase. The combined quotas of all the state organizations call for more than $6,000,000 to carry out the intensive educational campaign being conducted by the National Tuberculosis Association, and its 1,000 affiliated societies.

The intensive sale of these seals represents a practical demonstration of every lesson that has been learned regarding scientific distribution. Experts of the highest standing in sales management have co-operated to the extent of assuring those interested that every resident of the United States will have an opportunity to buy Red Cross Christmas Seals.

I read of Cardui, and after taking one bottle, or before taking quite all, I felt much better. I took 3 or 4 bottles at that time, and was able to do my work. I take it in the spring when run-down. I had no appetite, and I commenced eating. It is the best tonic I ever saw." Try Cardui.

DOUBLE BARRED CROSS ADOPTED 17 YEARS AGO

The double barred Red Cross is seventeen years old this month. In October, 1902, the International Anti-Tuberculosis Association, then meeting in Berlin, adopted the cross as the emblem of the world-wide fight against tuberculosis. It was proposed by Dr. G. Serroux, of Paris. It is a combination of the Croix de Lorraine and the cross of the Greek Catholic church. Both crosses are symbolic of charity and help to humanity. Their combined features were selected and adopted as the symbol of the hope of civilization. Four years later, in 1906, the double barred Red Cross was carried into this country. It was in 1908, the National Tuberculosis Association was formed, and for the three intervening years the cross has been carried over the United States by the National Tuberculosis Association and its affiliated bodies, which now number one thousand.

The work of these organizations is financed chiefly by the Red Cross Christmas Seal sale.

These Tires Are a Revelation

The Brunswick is frankly a combination of the best in tire building. There is one tread that's supreme beyond question. And that is now on Brunswicks.

There is one side-wall construction, which, by every test, holds the summit place for endurance. And that one was adopted for Brunswicks.

Fabrics differ — up to 30 per cent — in their strength tests. On Brunswicks the maximum long-fiber is the standard.

There are certain additions, each one expensive, which add vastly to tire mileage. The Brunswick embodies all these extras.

There are no patents, no secret formulas to prevent any maker from building the best. It is simply a question of knowledge and skill—cost plus care.

Brunswick standards are known the world over. The very name certifies an extraordinary tire. Yet Brunswicks cost no more than like-type tires.

Buy ONE Brunswick. It will prove that a better tire cannot be bought, regardless of price.
