LOCAL NEWS.

The Music Lover's Club met Tuesday evening with Mrs. Walter R. Harden.

It was real cold last Tuesday morning, and, but for it being rather windy and cloudy the night before, doubtless there would have been frost.

Evangelist Ham spoke to the Brotherhood Class Sunday morning and at 11 o'clock preached a very interesting sermon to a large congregation at the Presbyterian church.

The Daughters of the Confederacy will serve dinner to the Confederate Veterans on May 9th in Graham, which day will be observed here as Confederate Memorial Day, the 10th falling on Sunday.

There was a small fire Saturday morning about 6 o'clock at the former home of Mr. W. H. Holt, near Providence church. It caught from the stove flue. The timely arrival of the Sidney Firemen saved the building. The home is occupied by Mr. Larson and family.

Notice to Veterans.

The Confederate Veterans of Alamance county are requested to meet in the county commissioners' room in the court house at 11 o'clock Saturday, May 9th, to attend to important business.

State Diagnoses Poultry Diseases for Farmers Free.

Mr. John Wyatt, Burlington No. 3 has been losing a good many good hens. Not being able to account for this, he carried one that had just died down to the Poultry Department of State College at Raleigh. They found that death was caused by some germ disease and upon isolation of this germ they found it to be Fowl Typhoid Fever. The vaccine was immediately fixed up and given Mr. Wyatt to carry home and vaccinate the rest of the flock against this disease.

At any time you have poultry dying for any cause that you cannot account for, carry one to the State College laboratories. It is your institution. They will be glad to help you.

J. E. Sellars Refuses $50 For Acre of Clover.

A few days ago J. E. Sellars a farmer of Alamance County, refused fifty dollars for red clover growing on one acre of land. Mr. Sellars has excellent prospects for ten acres of red clover this year. The same field was in clover two years ago. At that time he limed half the field with fairly good results. However, he used a grain drill for applying the lime and this machine failed to put out the material heavily enough. A visit to another lime demonstration convinced him that he needed more lime.

"Accordingly," says E. C. Blair, Extension Agronomist for the State College of Agriculture, Mr. Sellars applied a ton per acre to the field that fall, and sowed it back to wheat and clover. He used 200 pounds of 8-2-5 fertilizer per acre with the wheat, and 200 pounds of acid phosphate with the clover seed. This time the clover was so good that it began to attract attention as soon as the wheat was off the field.

"Recently, a tobacco farmer driving by saw the clover. He stopped and offered Mr. Sellars fifty dollars for an acre of it, and said he would cut and handle the hay himself. This was a tempting offer. The crop had not cost over fifteen dollars an acre to produce; however, Mr. Sellars figured that while the hay might not be worth fifty dollars for feed, by selling it he would lose the manurial value as well as the feeding value. Mr. Sellars stated that he was making every effort to build up his land and in order to be successful he knew he must put everything possible into the soil, and take as little as possible away from it."

Corn Fed Hogs May Pay This Year.

Reports show that farmers over the United States will plant more corn this season than last which means cheap corn. The existing shortage of hogs indicates that hogs will be high; so, cheap corn fed to high priced hogs should prove a winning combination for Tarheel farmers, if they have saved and bred those brood sows according to recommendations made by the office of swine extension at State College.

W. W. Shay, swine extension specialist, states that corn-fed hogs will prove winners in North Carolina next September when hogs as a rule are highest in this state. "Take ten pigs weighing 35 lbs. each on May first," says Mr. Shay "put them on a pasture of at least one acre to one and one-half acres and give them a self-feeder plentifully supplied with shelled corn, fish meal and a mineral mixture. See that water and shade are provided. Plant enough land to provide 5 1/2 bushels of early maturing corn for these pigs. Turn them on this corn, which in eastern Carolina should be ready between July 15 and August 1. Move the self feeder over but take out the corn leaving only the fish meal and minerals. Now sell the pigs around September 15 when they will have a weight of about 200 pounds each."

If handled in this way, Mr. Shay states that these pigs will return a profit of $134.52, or figuring it cost 75 cents per bushel to produce corn, a profit of $1.39 will be made on each bushel of corn fed. This, he states, is better than attempting to sell corn at 80 cents or one dollar per bushel when it costs 75 cents to grow it. "If 25 percent of the prospective corn crop of North Carolina were handled in this way this year," says Mr. Shay, "the profits to the farmers of the State would be increased ten million dollars."

The modern large business organization is the finest example of efficient co-operation in all history.

Nerves All Unstrung?

Are you all worn out? Feel tired, nervous, half-sick? Do you have a constant backache; sharp twinges of pain too with dizzy spells and annoying urinary disorders? Then there's cause for worry and more cause to give your weakened kidneys prompt help. Use Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys.

Graham folks recommend Doan's for just such troubles. Mrs. J. S. Thompson, E. Elm St., Graham, says: "I had so much backache, it upset my nervous system. I also had headaches and dizzy spells and the unnatural action of my kidneys worried and distressed me. After using Doan's Pills, I was again enjoying good health, as the backache had gone and my kidneys were acting all right."

Home Workers Hold Successful Milk Campaigns.

Nearly every school child in Nash, Edgecombe and Wayne counties was given an opportunity to know the good effects of drinking milk in three intensive campaigns recently held in these counties by workers of the home demonstration division cooperating with the dairy extension specialists of State College.

The campaigns were conducted, as a part of the nutrition work of the home demonstration division with Mrs. Effie Vines Gordon in charge of the campaign in Nash, Miss Dorothy Dean in Edgecombe and Miss Janie Roberts in Wayne. Mrs. Estelle T. Smith, district agent, assisted in planning, organizing and conducting the work. The workers began some three weeks before time for the campaign in organizing the club women to help conduct the work. On the dates set, merchants put in attractive window displays, the local papers gave the movement editorial and news support and the club women set about spreading the gospel of better health by drinking milk. At the close of the days set apart for the work, all those engaged met in the office of the home agent at a dinner and reported.

In Nash county 60 workers reached 5,002 children in the schools of the county and at Rocky Mount. In Edgecombe county, 26 speakers reached 2,546 children and equally as good results were secured in Wayne, though actual figures are not available.

Commenting on this work, Miss Maude Wallace who had the campaigns in charge stated that one dairyman said his sales of milk had increased 30 quarts per day two days after the meetings closed. The dairyman of Wayne noticed a remarkable increase and reported that they would have to buy more cows if the demand continued to increase. Better than all else, said Miss Wallace, the young folks who have been drinking coffee now know the value of a glass of milk which means more health and happiness in the homes touched.

Tom Tarheel says that his new Easter hat was paid for by three old roosters sold when the car of poultry was loaded at the county seat.
