Confederate Veterans Hear Splendid Speech and Enjoy Bountiful Dinner.

On last Saturday Graham Chapter of Daughters of Confederacy gave the Confederate Veterans a splendid dinner. Before dinner they listened to a most interesting speech by Hon. A. Wayland Cook of Greensboro, himself the son of a veteran. As the years go by fewer and fewer of the wearers of the grey attend these annual festivals. This year there were only about 30 present, the smallest number so far.

War Veterans Must Hasten Applications for Compensation.

A warning was given to all veterans of the world war to hasten the filing of their application under the adjusted compensation act, in the form of a ruling issued by Comptroller General McCarl, at Washington, which disallowed payment on an application which had been started, but not completed, at the time of the applicant's death.

Relatives of the veteran whose case was cited in the ruling found the incomplete application in his effects and filed it in behalf of his estate, but Mr. McCarl ruled that it could not be construed as valid.

Any veteran of the world war, (up to and including the rank of Captain in the Navy, First Lieutenant, First Lieutenant of Engineers in the Coast Guard, and Assistant Surgeons in The Public Health Service) who served more than sixty days, is entitled to compensation, ranging from fifty dollars in cash, to approximately two thousand dollars in paid up life insurance.

It would be a mistake for the Veterans to neglect the filing of their application, because in the event of death, and the application has not been completed, the Veteran's estate will get nothing, according to the ruling of Comptroller General McCarl. (Signed) L. B. Bradshaw.

Timely help on farm problems may be secured by consulting the county and home agents or by writing to the State College at Raleigh for an extension publication dealing with the problem.

Cor. of The Gleaner.

Lots of people from this community are attending the Ham-Ramsay meeting and report much interest and very instructive sermons. Hope their influence will be lasting, and much good be done that will last when they are gone.

Mr. and Mrs. Early Perry are rejoicing over the arrival of a new baby boy that has come to stay, with them.

Quite a crowd visited at Bob Coble's Sunday evening.

A large crowd attended the funeral of Taylor Fogleman at Pleasant Hill Sunday morning. He was an aged man and had sorely afflicted for some time. He was the father of the late Rev. Walker Fogleman recently buried at that place.

The State College Summer School begins on June 15 and closes July 24. The announcement of courses has been published and may be secured by those wishing to attend.

Does Your Back Ache?

Bad Backs Bring Suffering to Many Graham Folks.

Is that dull, constant back-ache making you old and miserable? Does your back throb and ache until it seems you just can't keep going? Do you suffer headaches, dizzy spells and urinary disorders; feel weak, tired and worn-out? Then look to your kidneys. Delay may mean serious kidney sickness!

Use Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys. Doan's are recommended by Graham folks.

H. C. Bason, carpenter, S. Maple St., Graham, says: "I suffered right smart with a dull ache in my back and at times the pains were so cutting I cried aloud. Mornings my back was so stiff and sore I could hardly get out of bed and it was impossible to bend over. The kidney secretions passed often and were scanty and annoying in passage. I purchased Doan's Pills at the Graham Drug Co. and they cured me."

Important Historical Celebration At Frieden's Church on June 7th.

On Sunday, June 7th, Frieden's Lutheran Church, near Gibsonville, will hold an all-day historical and memorial celebration to commemorate the one hundred and fifty-fourth anniversary of the founding of the church. Preaching was held on these grounds during 1763-71 and the church was formally organized in 1771. Elaborate plans are under way to make it an occasion worthy of the events celebrated. Several thousand dollars have been spent in restoring the church to excellent condition.

Dr. M. G. G. Scherer of New York city, who is general secretary of the Lutheran Church in the United States, will deliver a special address, followed by an historical address from Dr. W. T. Whiteett of Whitsett, well-known as an authority upon early historical matters.

As this church is located on a hard surface road, near State route ten, near Gibsonville, easily reached from every direction, it is expected that the attendance will reach several thousand people. All visiting guests will receive a hearty welcome to these historic grounds. Near by is the ancient cemetery in which over four thousand have been buried, dating back to pre-Revolutionary times. It promises to be an occasion of unusual interest.

Money In Sweet Potatoes.

There is money to be made in growing and curing the Carolina sugar spud. Those growers who were carried along on the first wave of enthusiasm for the crops some years ago and lost money, because everybody else began growing large acreages, also, should again take heart according to Glenn O. Randall, extension horticulturist for the State College of Agriculture.

"I find that many sweet potato storage houses are being used for implement sheds and tobacco barns," says Mr. Randall. "We should not reason that one year of low prices means the continued loss of money. A merchant does not discontinue his business, if possible to prevent it by reason of one year of small profits. The same principle applies to farming. The commercial production of sweet potatoes will pay a profit if carried on with right methods and sound judgment through a series of years."

There are parts of the piedmont and coastal plain sections of North Carolina which offer fine natural advantages, in so far as soil and climate are concerned, for the heavy production of sweet potatoes both for early market and for storage. A community which goes into the growing of sweet potatoes for market in either of these sections, will succeed in making it a paying business if the best cultural methods are practiced, if the crop is produced in carlots, if there is a good storage house available, standard grades are packed and the business is conducted over a series of years.

Mr. Randall states also that the individual grower, dependent upon a local market, may also grow sweet potatoes to advantage if he continues in the business and utilizes the advantages to be derived from a storage house, proper grading and the best cultural methods.

Knowledge is a tool—judgment is the use of knowledge.

Farm Livestock Report Of May 1st, 1925.

When North Carolina fell from a rank of fifth to twelfth in value of crops last year, the critic said, "Yes, that is the result of its being a cash crop state." And it is true. This state ranks twenty-second in the value of livestock. A study of the breeds and methods of handling stock over the state would convince a good livestock man that we rank low in these also.

Those acquainted with the livestock production opportunities of the Mid-West are convinced that, with our ample rainfall and large varieties of natural and cultivated grasses and legumes, as well as the ability to grow grain as bountifully as has been proven, North Carolina should be a good livestock state. Further evidence of this is brought out by the National report on the condition and mortality of livestock on May 1st and during the past year.

The average condition of livestock in North Carolina, according to more than 400 reports received by the Cooperative Crop Reporting Service, Raleigh, N. C., together with as many more reports collected by the Washington Department, shows work stock with 93 percent of a normal healthfulness in this state on May 1st, 1925, and 94 percent a year ago. Cattle of all ages showed a condition of 93 percent of ideal healthfulness for both this and last year. The condition of swine on the first of the month in all counties averaged 92 percent as compared with 93 a year ago. Sheep, not including lambs, showed 93 percent or a 3 percent better condition than a year ago.

As is generally known, the principal cattle and sheep counties are in the mountain area. It is interesting to note that the condition of all livestock in this area averages higher than either the Piedmont or Coastal counties. While hogs are grown most extensively in the Coastal Plains area, due to the heavy production of peanuts, soy beans, potatoes and truck, yet the average condition in that area does not show as good healthfulness of swine as in the Central and Western counties.

The mortality of livestock appears to run fairly low in North Carolina. According to many reports from all parts of the state, it appears that work stock had a rate of death from disease of only 1.6 percent during the past year; cattle of all ages showed 1.7 percent from disease and 1.2 from exposure, which includes starvation. The mortality of sheep has been 2.6 percent from exposure; hogs showed 5.5 percent from disease; lambs showed 4.5 percent from both disease and exposure. Most of the livestock, except lambs, showed a better state of healthfulness or lower mortality than a year ago, according to reports. The contributing causes of this condition were the mild winter, early spring and freedom from disease epidemics.

North Carolina Cotton Spindles Most Active

The News Letter of Chapel Hill makes the following statement in regard to the activity of cotton spindles that speaks well for North Carolina:

If activity of cotton mills is any sign of relative prosperity, then North Carolina mills are more prosperous than those of any other state, with South Carolina next. For a good many months the mills of this state have led the Union in the activity of their spindles. For March 1925 the average spindle in North Carolina ran 311 hours against 227 hours for the entire Nation and 156 hours for Massachusetts. In aggregate active spindle hours—active spindles multiplied by hours in operation—North Carolina leads the states of the Union. Massachusetts has nearly twice as many spindles in place but her aggregate spindle hours fall short of North Carolina's.

North Carolina had 18 percent of all spindles in place in the United States, but nearly 22 percent of the total spindle hours of the nation.

During March 97.5 percent of all spindles in North Carolina were active, against 88 percent for the United States.

The average spindle in North Carolina ran 37 percent more hours than the average for the Nation, 311 hours against 227 hours.

This average North Carolina spindle ran twice as many hours as the average for Massachusetts.

If activity is any indication of relative prosperity, our mills are better off than the mills of any other state.

The Farmers' Convention will be held at State College this year during the three days of July 28, 29 and 30. Make your plans now to be present.

Revolutionary Patriot Deserving of Honor

"Who in heaven's name is Hercules Mulligan" must have been the approximate exclamation of every one who read a newspaper headline saying that a gentleman of that name had been proposed for the Hall of Fame at New York university. And not only who, but why? The inquirer naturally approached the question with some arrogance, but after he had listened for a brief moment to Michael J. O'Brien, historiographer of the American Irish Historical society, who proposed Mr. Mulligan, he went away with meek and drooping tail feathers. For believe Mr. O'Brien, who knows and can back up his words with documents, Hercules Mulligan was some person, says a New York letter in the Baltimore Sun.

It appears that Hercules Mulligan was the American patriot who led a crowd on the afternoon of July 9, 1776, from the Common, now City Hall park, New York, to Bowling Green and there tore down and destroyed the hateful statue there erected of George III of England. The crowd had just been listening to the reading of the Declaration of Independence, which was then brand new and had quite a different effect on audiences from what it has now.

But that is not nearly all about Hercules Mulligan, for even a closely condensed record of his principal claims to fame takes over half a newspaper column. He was a prominent member and organizer of the Sons of Liberty; friend, confidant and host of George Washington; the friend, protector and confidant of Alexander Hamilton.

According to Mr. O'Brien's researches, when Alexander Hamilton arrived here from the West Indies at the age of sixteen, he had a letter to Mr. Mulligan, who was a merchant in Water street. The merchant was just twice the age of Hamilton and took him to live with him, and later started him as a student in the College of New Jersey, which is now Princeton.

Other claims of Mulligan to fame were that he saved Washington from capture or assassination by the forces of Gen. Henry Clinton, was host to Washington and his officers at his home in Queens street on the first Evacuation day, and that he was the first to introduce instrumental music in the churches of New York, he being a vestryman of Trinity church.

Mr. O'Brien's nomination of Hercules Mulligan was received two days too late to be considered, but it has served to introduce a lively patriotic figure to a lot of us ignorant people, who are glad to make his acquaintance.

Ho, Hum!

A New York physician warns girls that their frivolous habits, smoking, jangling and drinking, will shorten their lives.

"Swaste of breath, Doc! They've shortened their skirts, their hair and code of morals in spite of warnings, and they'll go right ahead and shorten their lives if they want to, and no little thing like a warning's gonna stop 'em."

You can't be short-sighted and long-lived—but girls don't care. But there is one thing you can't get the female of the species to shorten—and that's—yes, you guessed it—her conversation.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Solace for Puppies

"We were given a couple of puppies recently and had to keep them in the basement, where they cried and whimpered all night long, keeping the neighbors awake as well as us," a Detroit related. "A neighbor pounded on our door the middle of the third night and told us how to make those blankety-blank pups shut up. 'Give them a hot water bottle to cuddle against and they'll be happy and quiet until morning,' he said. The pups have had their hot water bottle every night since, and haven't whimpered once."—Detroit News.

Famous Ring

The museum of Versailles now has the ring with which M. Clemenceau sealed the famous treaty in 1919, and it is a ring that had an interesting history even before that. Charles Naundorff, who maintained that he was Louis XVII of France, gave it to Jules Favre, who became foreign minister, and M. Favre used it to seal the armistice of 1871 at Versailles, because Bismarck was unwilling to wait until the state seal could be brought from Paris.—Youth's Companion.

The Missing Proof

Dr. Percy Stickney Grant, taking his rest cure at Bedford Hills, said of a suggested proof that the world was growing less religious:

"I think you have proved just the opposite. Your proof, in fact, reminds me of the servant girl to whom her mistress, after a trip to Florida, said: 'Did my husband miss me during my month at Miami, Norah?'"

"Shure, mum," said Norah, "O' didn't notice it so much at first, but yesterday he was in despair lolk."
