A GREAT PAPER.

On May 18th, the Charlotte Observer came out in a big "Progress and Prosperity" edition of 252 pages, covering every phase of industry and business of the two Carolinas—a real history of Carolina business. It covered present business, what has been, and prospective.

It was the biggest piece of newspaper enterprise ever attempted in the Southeastern States. To describe it would require a long write-up. It contained thousands of illustrations, much of it in colors.

Just a few things to give an idea of the bigness of the edition. It took 90 tons, or 180,000 pounds, the equivalent of six carloads, of paper to print it; and it is said it would have taken one man a life time, if he had known how to do each part, to produce the paper.

The Observer has been much complimented, and deservedly so, on this fine piece of newspaper enterprise and the service rendered.

Leadership Requirements.

Trained Men.

1. Did you ever deliberately decide to break yourself of a habit and succeed in doing it?

2. Do you control your temper and not "fly off the handle" when things go wrong?

3. Are you usually cheerful and free from grouchy spells?

4. Do you think for yourself and not let the opinions of others influence you unduly?

5. Do you keep your head in an emergency?

6. Do you remain calm when your own mistakes are pointed out to you?

7. Do your men respect you and cooperate with you?

8. Can you maintain discipline without resorting to the use of authority?

9. Have you ever been selected to take charge of a group of dissatisfied men because of your ability to handle them?

10. Can you adjust difficulties and retain the friendship of the persons who have differed?

11. Can you get men under you to do things without irritating them and causing them to be resentful of your authority?

12. Are you patient when dealing with people hard to please?

13. Can you meet opposition without becoming confused and saying things you wish afterwards you had not said?

14. Are you sought out by your friends to handle delicate situations because of your ability to do such things?

15. Do you make and retain friends easily?

16. Do you make it a rule not to quarrel about petty things?

17. When thrown with a group of strangers, do you adjust yourself easily?

18. When talking to superiors, do you feel free from embarrassment?

19. When interviewing subordinates, do you put them at ease?

20. Are you able to express your own ideas without causing others to feel that you are overbearing and narrowminded.

Banks Show Growth.

In 1914 the bank deposits of North Carolina totaled $96,599,000 and in 1924 deposits amounted to $327,144,000. The ten-year gain in bank deposits was $230,545,000 or 244 percent.

The total resources of North Carolina banks in 1914 were $156,498,000, while in 1924 they were listed at $459,417,000. The ten-year increase in bank resources was $302,919,000, or a gain of 194 percent.

Our banks have shown a rapid recovery since the slump of 1921. They have climbed beyond the peak reached during the World War, and today in every particular North Carolina's banks present larger resources than ever before in her history.

CO-OP LOCAL HITS

AT 'BAD' DOG LAW.

Organized Group Mobilizes Public Opinion to Solve Problems.

Proof that no community problem is too small to handle in a meeting of Tri-State Co-operative Tobacco Growers is indicated in the action of the Guilford county local last week. After considering more important business, by far, the Guilford local passed a resolution protesting the passage, during the recent session of the General Assembly, of a dog and game law.

Details of the objectionable law which aroused the opposition of the Guilford local, which was a well attended meeting of leading farmers in that section of the State, were not supplied by the daily newspaper accounts of the meeting. Action on the resolution, however, the press pointed out, came after B. F. White, field representative of the association, had turned the called meeting into an open forum.

Dog and game laws, as every visitor upon the sessions of the General Assembly know, are the most vexatious things the average farmer has to contend with. Especially is this true in the counties which have much game. The dog law, since the late J. Frank Ray wrote and had passed "A Literary Gem" has been a far greater concern than the subject itself indicates.

Field representatives report that the local meetings of the co-ops are becoming, more and more, a clearing house for community problems. In one county recently a co-op meeting considered at length the problem of which route a new hard surfaced highway would be built. Unquestionably the organized efforts of the farmers along this line will have a greater influence with the powers that construct roads and erect school houses than any other single group.

The Guilford local meeting last week, which considered the apparently inconsequential dog law by a rising vote signified its intention to stand squarely behind the tobacco association. Mr. White discussed the intimate details of the co-ops, giving any information asked for, and the response to his meeting was the unanimous renewal of allegiance.

He pointed out that the Association slogan for 1925 is 200,000, 000 pounds of tobacco and he told how, in 1922, the organization prepared to receive and handle a quarter of a billion pounds.

This original estimate was, he emphasized, based upon contracts in hand, many of which turned out to have been "faked" by men who were more concerned with the money they were making than the good of the association.

John Groome, a member of the Guilford local, made some pertinent remarks at the recent meeting. "We do not have to control the market to put this Association on a paying basis," Mr. Groome told his fellow members. The principle of the association is eternal right. We, through the cooperative association, ought to be able to sell our tobacco cheaper than on the open market.

"I want hereafter," Mr. Groome also said, "to see each branch (local) of the association represented at the meeting of the Board of Directors that the business may be carried first hand to the farmers who would be willing to co-operate with something they know is not in the dark."

"We do not have to control the market to put this Association on a paying basis," Mr. Groome told his fellow members. The principle of the association is eternal right. We, through the cooperative association, ought to be able to sell our tobacco cheaper than on the open market.

Good summer pastures help to produce dairy products cheaply.

War Declared on The Scrub Bull

Is your bull raising or lowering the average production of your herd? This is a question to which every dairyman should give serious thought. There is no profit in milking low producing cows and the characteristic of high production must be inherited. A cow is born with a certain natural ability to produce milk. The extent of this ability depends upon her breeding and there is no method of feeding or management that will bring about high production in a cow that does not have an inherited tendency for high production.

One-half or more of the characteristics of your future herd will be inherited from the sire, therefore the herd's capacity for milk and fat production will be raised or lowered according to the ability of this animal to transmit this characteristic.

A few poor cows will do little permanent damage to the herd, but a poor bull will do untold damage. This fact has been clearly demonstrated in the daughters of a Jersey bull used in the University of Missouri's herd. Carefully kept records showed that their average fat production was 26 percent lower than that of their dams. In this same herd the first five daughters of Sultan's Virginia Lad, another Jersey bull, averaged 511 pounds of fat as two year-olds, while their dams at the same age averaged 274.

Coming home we have an example of increased and more profitable production in the daughters of Eminent the 19th. Ten of his mature daughters in one year produced 7730 pounds of milk and 670 pounds of fat more than their dams of the same age.

In spite of the fact that good bulls do increase production and thereby increase profits, we have in use in North Carolina five grade scrub bulls for each purebred. Such a breeding practice is partly responsible for the low average annual milk production of the North Carolina cow, which is too low to be profitable.

The ratio of milk production to the percentage of purebred sires in service is well illustrated by data assembled by the Bureau of Dairying, U. S. Department of Agriculture. According to this information, the average annual milk production per cow in the State of Connecticut, here 46 percent of the dairy bulls are purebreds, is 4,128 pounds. In North Carolina where only 21 percent of the dairy bulls are purebreds the average annual milk production per cow is 2,666 pounds.

In view of the above facts it is difficult to understand why a farmer will invest in high priced land, buildings and cattle and then jeopardize his future income by using a poor bull. The cost of the bull cannot be the explanation because in a herd of twenty grade cows the investment in the bull would not exceed 1-10 of that in the cows. Again the value of the increased production of the daughters of a good bull over that of their dams

Under and by authority of the powers contained in the Last Will and Testament of the late Evie Wilson, I will offer to public sale to the highest bidder, at the Court House door in Graham, N. C., on SATURDAY, JUNE 6th, 1925, at 12 o'clock, noon, the following valuable real estate, to-wit: A lot of land in the Town of Graham, on Hill Street, adjoining the home place of the late Mrs. K. I. Neal; J. B. Montgomery, J. V. Pomeroy, J. Harvey White, and fronting on said Hill Street.

This is property devised by W. G. Wilson to the said Evie Wilson, and on it is a three-room cottage.

This lot will be surveyed and sold in two parcels and as a whole and the bid or bids will be accepted that brings the best price.

Terms of sale: One-third cash, balance in six and twelve months with deferred payments to carry interest from day of sale. Will be left open for advanced bids.

This May 19th, 1925. C. F. RUSSELL, Executor of will of Evie Wilson, dec'd. J. S. Cook, Att'y.

in one year will often amount to more than the cost of the bull. The Extension force and the leading dairying of the State have resolved that the scrub bull has done enough damage to our dairy industry and have declared war on him in the form of a State-Wide Better-Dairy-Sires Campaign, which began March 1st and will continue until September 1st. During this time many special drives will be put on by various county agents assisted by local leaders and dairy extension specialists.

This campaign represents a fundamental step in removing from the dairy industry of the State one of its greatest handicaps—low production—and should have the support of every citizen because all are vitally interested either directly or indirectly in this industry.

ACHING LIMBS And Many Other Common Ills Relieved by Black-Draught.

Mrs. John Skaggs, residing near Lanes Prairie, Mo., on the Ozark Trail, says: "I have taken Black-Draught for a number of years, about fifteen, and it is about the only purgative medicine I ever take. It is the only kind that I've found that doesn't hurt me. I take Black-Draught for indigestion, for colds and headaches. I take it for aching in my limbs and shoulders. It helps this trouble. I take it for sour stomach. "We think Black-Draught is splendid and never are without it in the house."

"I suffered with gas on my stomach that affected my breathing, and Black-Draught helped this trouble. For such common complaints, I think Black-Draught is the best medicine a person can use." For millions of others, Black-Draught is their favorite liver and stomach medicine.
