John W. Harden Writes Book About Alamance County.

The University Extension Division has favored us with a copy of a book entitled "Alamance County: Economic and Social" prepared by John W. Harden, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Harden of Graham.

Elsewhere in this issue is a letter from the University News Bureau in a measure descriptive of the book.

We have only thus far scanned hastily over the volume. It indicates considerable of good work and contains many worth-while suggestions. There are some inaccuracies—few books are without them. But to have been prepared while doing college work, it would be too much to expect the author to verify every traditional statement and date to the utmost. As opportunity affords, this paper will comment on some of the timely suggestions made about things and matters of interest to Alamance people, and also note in the margin of our copy any inaccuracies that we have knowledge of.

We congratulate Mr. Harden on his contribution to a better knowledge of Alamance county.

Registering for Primary Election.

The registration books opened last Saturday for the primary election to be held on the 2nd of June.

The registrars for Graham township are A. Lacy Holt for South and East Graham and J. Clarence Walker for North and West Graham. They will be at the court house for the next three Saturdays—May 5, 12 and 19. During the rest of the time they can be seen at their homes.

Only those who have not heretofore registered in the township for a previous election need register now; but if one is not sure that his name is on the books, it would be well to inquire.

The regulation as to the registrars being at the polling places for the next three Saturdays is the same throughout the county as in Graham.

If you want to vote, see that your name is on the registration book.

Mrs. A. K. Hardee Wins Electric Range at Cooking School.

The cooking school put on by the Burlington Daily Times opened Monday and closed Wednesday afternoon. Miss Bernice Lowen, expert demonstrator, was in charge. Many Graham ladies were present daily at the school.

Among the prizes awarded was a "Hotpoint" electric range, given for the best cake baked and exhibited by an attendant at the school. This was awarded Wednesday afternoon and was given to Mrs. A. K. Hardee of Graham. The judges in this contest were Mesdames H. W. Scott, Frank W. Moore and J. J. Henderson, all of Graham. It is an unusual coincidence that the winner did not know who would judge the cakes and the judges did not know that the winner had a cake in the contest. If it had been otherwise the award would have looked fishy. There were in all 34 cakes in the contest and numbered.

Miss Lowen is giving a demonstration this afternoon at Rich & Thompson's furniture store to a good crowd.
