A Last Word.

The election is but a few days ahead—Nov. 6th.
 It behooves Democrats to be on the alert and take care of their tickets—from constable to president.
 The County, State and National tickets are worthy of the support of every loyal Democrat.
 All sorts of ghosts have been paraded during the campaign to frighten Democrats. It's an old game of the opposition, because they want to get hold of the offices.
 "To your tents, O Israel."
 Lately Gov. Smith has invaded New Jersey and Maryland, and if his reception means anything, to all appearances he has won those States. His appeals have fallen on a willing ear. He closes his campaign in New York.

The result of the National election has been put down at 50 and 50 by some of the politicians, with the trend in favor of Smith. That being true, the

Gov. Smith's Fitness.

Here is some real evidence that the doubting can tie to with safety.
 In a recent issue of the Durham Morning Herald a statement from Southerners residing in New York was published with comments.

Here are two extracts from the statement:

"Equally remarkable to us is the statement that Governor Smith is under the control of Tammany Hall and therefore in some way besmirched by the ancient scandals which occurred before his advent in governmental affairs in New York. We are glad to bear witness to the fact that under the influence of Governor Smith a new Tammany has in fact come into existence. The State and City government of New York have been clean and honest. In his appointments Gov. Smith has not unduly favored Tammany; on the contrary, he has uniformly selected men best fitted for the positions to which he has appointed them, irrespective of creed or party. We cannot also forget that it was Tammany Hall which in the former days saved the white people of the South from suffering utter ruin in the hands of their enemies.

"We commend Governor Smith to our fellow Southerners as a worthy successor of Thomas Jefferson, Andrew Jackson, Grover Cleveland and Woodrow Wilson in the leadership of the Democratic party and we believe that the nation before next November will come to know him as we do in New York, as a fearless leader and superb executive and elevate him to the Presidential chair."

Among the long list of Southerners who have gone to New York and made good, we will mention but two, both well-known in Alamance, one of them having lived in this county from early childhood till manhood, namely:

Julius Parker, chairman of the board of the American Tobacco Company, and its chief counsel.
 W. W. Fuller, former chief counsel for the tobacco company, now retired.
 If the opinion and judgment of men can be relied upon, what these men and scores of others of prominence and unquestioned standing say, should satisfy the most skeptical.

George W. Norris, United States Senator of Nebraska, Progressive Republican, came out Saturday for Gov. Smith for president. Senator Norris is one of the real outstanding members of the U. S. Senate. Gov. Smith's stand on water power and farm relief turned the scales in his favor. The support of Senator Norris in the west will have much to do with the vote of several Western States which were theretofore classed in the doubtful column.

Austrian Winter Peas.

BY W. KERR SCOTT.

The Austrian Winter field pea is being introduced into the county this year. It is used in winter oat and barley mixtures the same as Hairy Vetch. Where it has been tried it appears superior to Vetch.

Over other winter legumes it turns out more hay per acre, grows continuously through the cold months. When turned under it decays rapidly, making it easier to get the succeeding crop.

It is sown in September and October, about the same as soybeans or peas. Those planting the crop for the first time in this County are as follows: E. C. Turner, Will Cronson, J. Webb Lindley, M. T. Wood, S. W. Hanson, J. W. Jeffries, R. H. Hutchison, Clark Frasier, C. O. Richardson and W. Kerr Scott.

Kill Cotton Stalks Before Early Frost.

A boll weevil control method that always pays good returns where it is possible to use it, is the killing or plowing under of cotton stalks before frost.

"There will be fewer boll weevils to live through the winter if the cotton stalks can be destroyed before the weevils go into hibernation quarters which fits at the time of frosts," says C. H. Brannon, extension entomologist at State College. "Unless the weevil obtains plenty of food just before entering winter quarters, the

Maj. Stedman.

It has been more than 63 years since the Civil War, or the war between the States as some are wont to call it. The participants in that conflict are now old men, the few who are yet living.

One of those still living and active is Maj. Charles Manley Stedman, who has ably represented the Imperial Fifth District of North Carolina in the Congress of the United States around twenty years.

He is an unique figure in the legislative halls of the Nation, in that for the past two or three Congresses he has been the only member that participated in the war of the 60's.

When Maj. Stedman leaves his seat in the Congress, that assembly will never again be graced by another, North or South, who was an actor in the National drama—the Civil War.

Maj. Stedman, a few years ago, on account of his weight years, had made up his mind to retire. His associates of all parties importuned him with such earnestness that he abandoned the purpose.

He was a brave and distinguished Confederate soldier, and in peace he has been as great and distinguished as he was in war.

If he shall be elected on the 6th of November to succeed himself, he will not offer again. And it can be said in all truth of this last one of the followers of Lee and Jackson that no more courtly and chivalrous gentleman ever adorned the legislative halls of this great nation.

It would be a fine recognition and climax to a distinguished career to place this crown of approval upon his snowy brow. It is this opportunity that alone is within the reach of the electorate of the Fifth Congressional District of North Carolina.

pest will not live through the winter months. For that reason, it is imperative that every cotton grower should promptly destroy the stalks as soon as the cotton has been picked."

The earlier this can be done the better. If the cotton stalks cannot be plowed under before frost sow a green cover crop such as Abruzzi rye, barley or some legume in the rows and later cut or knock down the standing cotton stalks.

But this is not an individual matter cautions Mr. Brannon. To make the system of control most effective, growers should cooperate by committees and whole counties. It is probably useless for one grower to kill or plow under his stalks and his neighbor across the road to leave his standing until frost kills the leaves and immature bolls. The fields thus left become a fattening ground for all the weevils in the section. They will then go into winter quarters well fed and be able to survive the severe weather with a lower per cent of destruction.

Mr. Brannon states that following this method of weevil control, probably not so much poisoning will be needed next season and the cotton will be freer from the attacks of the pests early in the year. The method is doubly important this fall because the past season has been the most ideal for the weevil since he came into the State in 1919.

Hotchpotch.

A trite old saying is that "straws show which way the wind is blowing." But there are counter currents sometimes that lead deception to the maxim. The same is true with regard to the political straw votes. In normal times a "straw vote" would indicate something of a certainty, possibly. But these are not normal times in politics, and the conclusion indicated by such a vote may be reversed before the vote can be tabulated and doled out for consumption by the public.

Maj. Frank J. Lund announced a week ago today that he would vote for Gov. Smith, and he is a Republican. Furthermore he was, in 1926, manager of Senator Brookhart's campaign and manager for former Gov. Lowden of Illinois in Iowa in his candidacy before the Kansas City convention. In announcing his repudiation of Mr. Hoover, Maj. Lund said:

"I have been reluctant to refuse to support any candidate of my party, but since the delivery of the New York speech of Mr. Hoover, in which he denounces the principles of the McNary-Haugen bill and public ownership of water-power resources as 'socialism,' I cannot, as a progressive Republican and in view of my convictions, give him my support."

Is there such thing as a Hoover Democrat? Not much. Some of those who read selections from the Book of Books at the Sunday mornings' devotions assembled in Raleigh in the early days of the campaign and called it a Hoover Democratic meeting. Sure they had overlooked that passage which reads thus: "You cannot serve two masters, etc."

If the size of the crowd and the big noise, which greeted Gov. Smith on his visit to Boston a few days ago, mean anything as far as appearances are to be credited, it looks like the Governor made a clean sweep of the Bay State.

Senator Simmons made a three and half-hour assault on an anti Smith assembly in Raleigh one night last week, and isn't that sufficient to cause a reaction? At some time during the discourse he announced his purpose to be in the race again in 1930. What will be his status then? And Governor Morrison came along Tuesday in an eastern town and said if Simmons were a candidate he would help defeat him. Morrison will hardly be alone.

Alamance County farmers have developed a system of planting oats and barley, one and one-half bushels each, per acre, to assure a harvest. If the oats are killed, the barley will stand and so a hay crop will be secured. By the addition of vetch to this mixture a sure and profitable crop is obtained. But the main thing now, states Mr. Hudson, is to get the oats planted before November 1st, if possible.
