

THE GLEANER

GRAHAM, N. C., SEPT. 1, 1932.

Local News.

Next Monday is Labor Day and a legal holiday.

Though a little late, sow turnip seed again as soon as there is a season.

Our preference for hot weather has been almost satiated the past few days.

The supply of vegetables has been scarce lately owing to the dry weather.

Next Monday is regular monthly meeting day for the County Commissioners.

Graham Christian church Sunday school picnicked at Gantz Lake last Saturday afternoon.

The continued hot dry weather is rapidly clipping off the prospect for corn and hay crops.

A rumble of thunder in the late forenoon encourages us to hope that the hot dry spell is to pass soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Hal Farrell expect to begin in a few days the building of a home on their lot on N. Main St. between the home of W. A. McAdams and the M. E. Church.

Alamance Superior court will convene next Monday for a two-weeks' term. Nineteen divorce cases top the calendar to start with. In all there are 127 cases on the calendar.

The meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the M. E. church for Alamance will be held at Shiloh church on Sunday, Sept. 4th, at 2 p. m. All are cordially invited to attend.

During the past three months Register of Deeds J. G. Tingen has issued but 25 marriage licenses—for June, July and August 8, 9 and 4, respectively, to white couples, and 4 in all to colored couples.

For the past five or six days it has been boiling hot, the intensity of the heat seeming to increase with each succeeding day, with the thermometer hovering around 100, more often above than below that point.

The regular monthly meeting of Graham Chapter U. D. C. is being held with Mrs. Armstrong Holt this afternoon. At this meeting delegates will be named to the State Convention which will meet in Greensboro in October.

J. W. Apple, in southwest Orange, dropped in in passing this morning. He says the dry weather is cutting short the prospect for corn. On occasion he operates a little grist mill on Tom's creek, a prong of East Cane creek, but the water is too low now, he says.

The weather guesser in this shop prognosticated a continuance of the pleasant cool weather of the first of last week till the eclipse had passed. Just how near he came to hitting it is not now a matter for argument. Remember that old adage—"Guess work is as good as any when it hits."

Wm. Saxon of the law firm Brownley & Saxon, Baltimore, arrived here last Friday night, coming with Maj. J. J. Henderson who had been in Baltimore for a week on business. They have been attending a hearing before Judge Johnston J. Hayes in Wilkesboro during this week.

A revival service will begin at Providence Christian church next Sunday evening at 8 o'clock, and services each evening thereafter at the same time during the continuance of the meeting. The pastor, Rev. J. U. Fogleman, will be assisted by Rev. J. M. Allred of Asheboro. Preparatory cottage prayer meeting services have been held for the past two weeks.

John Harden, a Graham boy on the staff of the Charlotte Evening News, is spending a week of his vacation over at Elon College, doing press work. Those who have kept up with the items he has sent out to the various daily papers during the past week will appreciate the reader-interest with which his letters are infused. This writer has been pleased to follow his illuminating correspondence.

Graham School will open next Monday for the fall term. Let us urge that all children of school age be started the first day. The school is for the benefit of the children—to equip them for their life work wherever their lines may fall. The people are paying for the school, a real sacrifice in these depressed times, and every parent should feel duty bound to see that his child receives some of the benefits.

PERSONALS

Miss Julia Paris of Summerfield is visiting Mrs. Carl Longest.

Mrs. John R. Webster of Reidsville is here visiting Mrs. McBride Holt and Miss Ada Denny.

Mrs. Albert C. Wirth and children of Buffalo, N. Y., were guests of Miss Mamie Parker Monday and Tuesday.

Mrs. Annie Jordan and daughter, Miss Margaret, of Wilmington are here visiting the former's sister, Mrs. Jas. P. Harden.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Harden and little daughter of Charlotte are spending the week here with his mother, Mrs. Peter R. Harden.

Mrs. Mary Walker is visiting friends here. This was formerly her home. She now makes her home with her brother, Rev. Jos. G. Walker, at Gaffney, S. C.

The eclipse of the sun yesterday had everybody looking up. It came on about 2:30 and went off about 4:30. The face of the sun was about 85 percent obscured. It has been more than 30 years since the last eclipse of consequence and it will be 13 before another.

Rev. J. W. Rankin, about 60, pastor of the colored Presbyterian church, died suddenly here this morning about 7 o'clock of a heart trouble. His former home was near Statesville, where the remains will be taken for burial. He had been here about two years, was active in his church work, and had made a good impression. His sudden death is a serious loss to his church here. He is survived by his widow.

The premium list for the 14th annual Mebane Six-County Fair is out. It will hold for six days and six nights—Oct. 3-8. That's only a month off, but time enough for prospective exhibitors to get their exhibits in shape. A large number of attractive premiums is offered in the many departments. If anyone wishes to make an exhibit and is not in possession of a premium list, a request to C. S. Parnell, the secretary at Mebane, will get it.

An Alamance girl wins honor as Champion seamstress in the State 4-H club dress contest, Miss Gladys Vestal does. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Vestal, two miles south of Graham. Her winning in the State makes her eligible to enter the National contest in Chicago this fall, and here's hoping she will reap further and greater honors. The August number of the "Extension Farm-News," published at Raleigh, is adorned with her picture.

Graham Garden Club is arousing much interest here in flower gardens and yard improvement. For the past few days the committee has been busy taking entries for the improvement contest. Within a day or so the judging committee will visit the premises of the entrants and make notes on the present conditions of the gardens. Next spring the same committee will again visit the gardens and pass upon the changed condition. A number of prizes will be offered for improvement and excellence.

The series of union meetings, which have been conducted during the past two months at some one of the churches each Sunday night, in lieu of services at the individual churches, closed with the service at the Christian church last Sunday night when Rev. R. P. Ellington of the Baptist church preached a most interesting sermon. It is a matter of regret that this kind of service is stopped for a season. A union service once a month, in the manner of the summer service would be a good thing. The mingling together of church workers would create a wholesome interest in the up-building of the church at large.

Last night was the 46th anniversary of the Charleston earthquake, which occurred on the night of August 31st, 1886. As we remember, it was about the hour of 10 o'clock, after nearly everybody had retired for the night. The vibration here was sufficient to wake up most people. It is remembered that brick was shaken from some chimneys. At the old Presbyterian church some brick were shaken from the flues, and the wall of the P. R. Harden & Son brick store building cracked. In almost every home dishes were heard to rattle. Some of the older people will remember other occurrences in connection with the event. The waving and swaying of the earth begat a peculiar sensation, and not a few had an uncomfortable feeling.

A Visit To Bath.

Last week Mayor Jos. S. Holt, Z. T. Hadley and J. M. Thomas took a day or two off. Being ancient-minded, instead of going to a beach to frolic with the moderns, they went to Bath, reputed to be the oldest town in the State. As a sort of guarantee of where they went they brought back a batch of pictures of scenes about the old town. Bath is in Beaufort county, at one time Bath county, but no such county now. Bath was incorporated as a town in 1705. At one time it was capitol of the colony of North Carolina. One of the pictures shows the old capitol building still standing with its tall chimneys. Another picture shows some of the old buildings of the town, ancient looking enough to have been built more than two and a quarter centuries ago.

On another card there is a cauldstick, an old spade and bricks from the cellar and tar kettle of Teach, the pirate. St. Thomas' Episcopal church is another card. This church was organized in 1701 and church building was erected in 1734 from brick brought from England. Another picture shows the interior of the church with the tiled floor, under which many members of the church were buried in the olden days, perhaps before burying was commenced in the old church yard.

Another card shows the remains of Teach's great tar kettle in which he melted tar to patch his own ships and those he and his piratical gang commandeered from unsuspecting sailors. Old Teach finally met his fate in a hand-to-hand fight. His head was cut off and a ship hove to port with it impaled on the prow. There are many other things of interest which the visitors saw and heard about this ancient town. It is a place that almost anyone would be interested in looking over.

The summer school, an innovation for Elon, was directed by Dr. J. A. Hunter, professor of education. Mrs. C. C. Johnson, librarian, served in that capacity during the summer school, and Miss Naomi Brady, dietitian and assistant professor of economics, also worked during the summer school period.

ELON FACULTY ASSEMBLES FOR FALL TERM

Professors Gather For Opening of College After Summer of Teaching, Study, Rest and Other Interests.

Elon College, Aug. 31.—Members of the Elon College faculty are turning their faces back toward the college after a summer spent at widely diversified interests. The first faculty meeting for the 43rd annual session of the institution has been set for September 12. Registration begins September 13.

The faculty has spent the summer at further study, in camp, teaching in summer school, resting at their homes, at work at the college and conducting coaching classes.

Dr. L. E. Smith, president of Elon, has been at the college throughout the summer save for a period of approximately three weeks spent at the Duke hospital at Durham, undergoing a major operation. He is much improved now and is at Norfolk making arrangements to move his family here next week.

C. M. Cannon, registrar and business manager, has been at the college throughout the summer dealing with the problem of enrollment for the coming year.

Several members of the faculty taught in the Elon summer school that was operated during the first six weeks of the summer. These included Dean A. L. Hook, dean of men and professor of physics; Dr. J. U. Newman, Bible and Greek, and Prof. J. W. Barney, English.

The summer school, an innovation for Elon, was directed by Dr. J. A. Hunter, professor of education. Mrs. C. C. Johnson, librarian, served in that capacity during the summer school, and Miss Naomi Brady, dietitian and assistant professor of economics, also worked during the summer school period.

Mrs. Johnson is now at her home in Raleigh; Miss Brady is at the second term of the Duke summer school studying; and the others who taught in summer school are at their homes here or taking short vacations.

Prof. T. E. Powell, biology, and Prof. L. D. Martin, history, have continued here during the summer operating their Carolina Biological Supply company.

Dr. N. F. Brannock, chemistry, has continued at the college to supervise changes in building arrangements and their preparation for the fall opening. Dr. J. A. Clark, French and Latin, has conducted coaching classes during the summer. Prof. H. L. Snuggs, has been at his home here. Miss Lila C. Newman, art, has been at Camp Rainbow, Edgemont. Coach D. C. Walker played baseball with the Wilmington team during the early part of the summer and for the past few weeks has been representing the college in field work.

Elon College Will Open on 13th.

Elon College is fast getting into shape for its fall term on the 13th.

Dr. L. E. Smith, serving temporarily as president for the past year, has put off his other obligations and connections to enter upon the duties as president in real earnest. He has resigned as pastor of the Christian Temple in Norfolk, which he had served 13 years. He has also resigned the presidency of the Southern Christian Convention. His time and talents will be used for and devoted to Elon. Those that know him, and that he goes in to make the best of whatever he undertakes, have no doubt about the results of his efforts for Elon.

If it is his purpose, and everything points that way, to make a real College of Elon that will excite the pride of the State and the Christian church, the same will come to pass.

He will have the cooperation of his church and the friendly good wishes of other denominations, because of his innate friendliness. A well chosen and altogether finely equipped faculty that will stand shoulder to shoulder with Dr. Smith will play no small part in Elon's success.

The crop of Burley tobacco in Madison County has been greatly improved by recent rains and gives promise of returning good yields of quality leaf.

Corn sold to hogs by J. G. Carpenter of Catawba County was paid for at the rate of $1.94 a bushel in a feeding test recently concluded.

Allegheny farmers recently sold 41 head of steers at an average price of six cents a pound.
