Not Averse to Criticism

One way of disarming your critics is taking what they say good naturedly—by not getting mad and flying off at a tangent. Some critics get mad themselves if they fail to rile the objects of their criticism, and then their criticism becomes a boomerang.

On the contrary Mr. Roosevelt, in what he is trying to do, invites criticism and suggestions. By these he expects to be aided in his efforts. Editor Marlen E. Pew, of "Editor and Publisher," says:

"I heard the President say he was dumfounded by the almost unanimous support given to his program by the American press. He graciously acknowledges this as of infinite value to the Administration and the country, but he made a significant statement:

"He said: 'But there is a fly in the ointment, gentlemen. Where is your criticism? You know the Government can make mistakes, and this program is too vast an undertaking for any one man or set of men to be sure of. We are certain to make blunders. I can rely on you newspaper men to check us. "If you see us going wrong, for goodness sake sing out about it. There is no kindness in flattering a wrong cause. I want your criticism as well as your support. It is the best kind of backing, and the only request I make is that you be prompt about it."

If Mr. Roosevelt is not taking kindly to what some of the harsher critics are saying, he has the good sense and discretion not to appear perturbed about it, which is far better for his peace of mind and the welfare of the country than to say, "to Hades with your criticism."

THE DUKE HEIRESS

Doris Duke, the only child of the late James B. Duke, tobacco and power magnate, celebrated her 21st birthday at the Duke home in Somerville, N. J., yesterday. As provided in her father's will, on attaining her majority, she is to receive one-third, estimated at ten millions, of the legacy left her. At 25 she is to receive another third and at 30 the other third. In addition to these she received by the terms of the will two palatial residences, one in New York City, the other at Newport, R. I. These make her one of the wealthiest heiresses in the world. Mr. Duke did not pile his entire estate, estimated at far in excess of one hundred millions, on his daughter. He provided amply for his widow. But the greater part of his vast estate he put into charitable and educational institutions. Duke University at Durham is one of the results in toto of his munificence.

It will be recalled by many that Mr. Duke's mother was an Alamance woman whose maiden name was Artelia Roney. In the disposition of his estate he did not forget her kinspeople, but designated two millions to be distributed among them.

Hence, there is a large number of Alamance people, whether they did or did not share in the bequest, who will retain a genuine interest in the heiress and hope that she has inherited the financial ability to care for and spend judiciously, and last, but not least, that she will not become the dupe and spouse of a worthless adventurer.

The price of newly mined gold is now $33.76 per ounce, an increase of twenty cents in the past two weeks.

The Senate probe committee when it dug into the Chase bank uncovered a veritable Pandora's box. Its ramifications are varied and sundry. Its management fleeced the lambs in numerous pastures.

The Government has mapped out a program for spending $400,000,000 that will create millions of jobs. According to the figures given out the expenditure will make jobs for 67,500 in North Carolina. Instead of handing out doles the program provides work where the jobless can earn a living.

Dr. E. C. Brooks, president of State College, is in a critical condition in Washington where he suffered a stroke, returning from Chicago. And Dr. William Battle Cobb, for eight years head of soils department at the same institution, died of pneumonia in Chicago late on Wednesday evening. The burial will be at Chapel Hill.

The resumption of diplomatic relations with Russia was agreed to before Mr. Roosevelt left for Warm Springs, Ga., last Friday. Maxim Litvinoff, the Russian Commissar, left Washington the first of the week on his return home. Details about indemnities, reparations, debts, personal and religious rights and privileges were left to be worked out by the diplomats.

Loomis McArthur Goodwin, moral and welfare director of the State prison at Raleigh, has a very fine record to his credit, according to the Prison News, a paper published at the institution. Since March, 1922, Mr. Goodwin has performed the duties of the office of Chaplain. For a period of over 11 years there have been 572 Sundays and during the time he has been absent only four. Few, if any, officials have such a record to their credit. His example is worthy of the highest commendation.

Things I Learned Lately

- That Bishop Edwin (A. Penick says, Nationalism has no place in the church. Some would also keep religion out.
- That they're getting ready to string up men in Austria, as boys would string up fish in America.
- That Gene Austin sings with renewed fervor "Molly and Me and Baby makes Three.
- That the Pure Food Law was 25 years old, June 30. Better have it repealed. Still spoilt food on the market.
- That Jimmy Walker would have continued mayor of New York, had he not been lost in the Sea of Matrimony.
- That if some people are right then right is wrong.
- That school teachers are smart
- That Bishop Edwin (A. Penick says, Nationalism has no place in the church. Some would also keep religion out.
- That a 20-year old apple tree in St. Joseph, Missouri, is bearing seedless and coreless fruit. By time it reaches 21, the tree will be dispensing apple sauce.
- That future husbands should experience greater tranquility. Many women have quit chewing the rag, and gone to chewing gum.
- That "No Bananas Today" is an obsolete song; Our country imports three billion pounds of bananas annually.
- That Virginia and Arizona each has a postoffice named Snowflake. In a northern or western state it would have been called Blizzard.

To FARMERS:-- Phone: 1298

You pay no manufacturing or merchandising profits when buying your Feeds, Seeds, Fertilizers, Lime, Salt, Flour, Twine, etc., through your local cooperative SOUTHERN STATES BURLINGTON SERVICE, and SOUTHERN STATES COOPERATIVE (formerly the VSS).

Both of the above organizations are farmer owned, farmer controlled and farmer operated. Both operate on non-profit basis. Earnings, if any, are returned prorata to patrons. You pay actual cost—no more, no less. The greater the volume of business actually turned through these cooperatives the lower will be the cost of farm supplies.

Some cash warehouse feed prices for this week:

	BAG	BAG
Laying Mash, 20 perct.	$2.05	36 perct. Cotton Seed Meal $1.20
18 perct. Emergency Dairy	1.50	Wheat Bran, 1.25
24 perct. Emergency Dairy	1.65	Yellow Corn Meal, 1.45

(Any mixed feed or ingredient at attractive prices.)
(In 10 bag lots deduct 2½c and in 20 bag lots deduct 5c per bag.)

Examine the OPEN FORMULA of Southern States MIXED FEEDS. You should know how many pounds of each ingredient is in the feed you buy. Cooperative action among farmers is essential to quick agricultural recovery.
