

Through State CAPITAL KEYHOLES
By Bess Hinton Silver.

School Books—State rental of school books by the time the boys and girls hear the first bells next fall is still likely. The book companies are said to be realizing that fact and good authority says that the publishers will be willing to sell the books to the State on credit and collect as the rentals come in. Such a plan would not call for an amount of money large enough to require a bond issue and may be taken care of by an appropriation. The Democrats are laying their plans to rush the school rental book bill in a hurry once they get started. It will make a good chaser as the dear public begins to swallow the 3 per cent general sales tax or a milder detail levy.

Amusing—It's nothing short of funny the way the various factions estimate the possible yield of the biennial revenue bill. Anti-sales taxers and advocates of greater appropriations boost the figures above those of the revenue department while sales tax three-percenters cut them down by like amounts. If anybody really knows how much the revenue bill will yield the way the Legislature is almost constantly changing it, that person is a magician.

Trouble—The biggest obstacle in the $62,000,000 biennial revenue bill is the taxing peddlers. Representatives from cities and towns want to tax the boys who buy and sell and transport in trucks out of existence while Representatives from peach, apple and cabbage growing sections want the tax low so the trucks can operate and buy their surplus products. You will never know just what the peddlers tax will be until the final day of the General Assembly. Somebody changes it every turn.

Conduct—A lot has been said and written about the conduct of members of this and other Legislatures. Admitting that some of the boys may kick over the traces once in a while, they are no different from other men. In fact the 170 members of the General Assembly behave much better than some conventions that come to the Capitol City. Some of the finest men and women of this State have been members of second and third Legislatures and there are quite a few in the present one who never tasted hooch.

Unpopular—Many members of the General Assembly do not relish the idea of Dr. Ralph McDonald, an anti-sales tax representative from Forsyth, writing his views on the front page of a daily newspaper. He has been called on the floor of the House on some of his writings that amount to accusations and his ears should red when the boys gather around dinner tables or in hotel lobbies.

Bait—Privately it is admitted by anti-sales taxers that they favor applying the three percent retail levy to meals in the hope that it will make the tax more unpopular. There is no doubt that such application would make the sales tax swell a lot worse to some folks and if it is finally levied on meals served in boarding houses you will hear plenty of political ruminations. The Republicans watch with great glee all these little squabbles between the Democrats and the G.O.P. boys are making notes in their little blue books.

Busy—Secretary of State Stacey W. Wade isn't letting grass grow under his feet since the news leaked out that Thad Eure, principal clerk of the House, may become a candidate for Wade's job. The Secretary likes his place, believes he is doing his chores nicely and wants the voters to return him in the next election. It will be a lively affair if Wade and Eure lock horns.

Steady—Governor Ehringhaus has done pretty well with his hands-off policy of dealing with the General Assembly. Many of his friends urged him to call the boys in on the carpet and tell them what he was depending on them to do. But he sat tight and right now it looks as if most of the recommendations will become law without his having to go to bat for them every day. A majority of the lawmakers seem to be playing on the Governor's team.

In Rutherford county, 267 farmers have sold 14,786 pounds of poultry for $1,738.97 during the last few weeks.

Person county farmers have purchased all the lespedeza seed their neighbors had, all the stores had, and all the local Mutual Exchange had, says the farm agent.

Mountain farmers of Graham county have purchased 5,800 pounds of lespedeza seed for demonstration plantings this season.
