Plant Sudan Grass For Summer Grazing.

Sudan grass planted early in June is recommended for temporary pastures to be grazed during the latter part of July and August, when the permanent pasture is failing by reason of dry weather.

A supply of tender, green pasturage at this time will be a big help in maintaining the milk flow of cattle, says John Arey, extension dairyman at State College. It will also give the permanent pasture a chance to develop a new growth for later grazing.

Sudan seed should be sown at the rate of 25 or 30 pounds to the acre, in a firm ribbed soil, and covered to a depth of one inch. Apply about 400 pounds of a high grade fertilizer or 150 to 200 pounds of nitrate of soda at seeding time, Arey points out.

Each acre of Sudan grass will furnish ample grazing for two to four cows. But it should not be grazed after the first frost, since prussic acid is liable to develop in the dying plants.
