

THE GLEANER

ISSUED EVERY THURSDAY

J. D. KERNODLE, Editor.

$1.00 A YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

Entered at the Postoffice at Graham, N. C., as second-class matter.

A factory at Corning, N. Y., takes fragile, brittle glass and of it makes fluffy yarns. What next! One suggests door-knob puddings.

Japan wants parity in naval equipment, to which there will be greater opposition than was shown to her clipping goff territory with 95 millions from the Chinese empire.

Reports from the country at large are to the effect business gains in trade, buying and selling, have almost reached the stage of a half dozen years ago. If the depression could be forgotten—some will, some won't, some can't.

Tuesday was the 32nd anniversary of the flight the Wright brothers, Orville and Wilbur, made at Kitty Hawk, N. C., in a frail heavier-than-air machine. Wilbur has been dead many years and buried in the Kitty Hawk hills. Orville is still in the industry at Dayton, Ohio. On the anniversary airmen honored Orville at Dayton.

At Woodstock, Ontario, Canada, a woman, fifty years old, the mother of nine children, a former church worker and Salvation Army "lassie," was taken from her cell and hanged. She had been convicted of poisoning her husband that she might marry another man. The execution of a woman rarely finds a place in modern civilization.

The National debt has reached the all-time peak of more than 30 billions. Recently a council of foremost financiers advised the president that the United States could stand a load of from 50 to 70 billions without impairment of the country's credit, but that such a debt would be too burdensome on the tax payers, and of course did not sanction such an experiment. No one, if in his right mind, would sanction an increase of indebtedness up to the breaking point.

The Republicans have decided to hold their national convention in Cleveland, Ohio, next year. Chicago and Kansas City were also contestants for the honor. Each city offered $150,000. Of course it is expected to swing Ohio, for many years strongly Republican and the mother of several presidents, back solidly into the Republican column. She might again furnish the candidate to replace Hoover, Gov. Landon of Kansas, Mr. Knox of Chicago or Senator Borah.

Bruno Richard Hauptmann, kidnaper-murderer of the Lindbergh baby over three years ago, whose electrocution is now set for January 13th, is offered life if he will confess. An appeal to the U. S. Supreme court has been denied him. There seems to be nothing to the report that new evidence has been discovered. There may be nothing to the report that he will be given his life for a confession, just as other reports were unfounded. He is writing what purports to be the story of his life from his prison cell. Some believe his story is pure propaganda for the purpose of exciting public sympathy that will reach the ears of the Governor of New Jersey and cause him to change the sentence from death to a term of years.

A major battle between Italians and Ethiopians, starting on the 15th and ending on the 17th, according to an account, resulted in the death of 272 Italians and estimated 500 Ethiopians. A plan to end the war by giving outright 125,000 square miles to Italy and putting 130,000 more miles under Italian control, received an emphatic no from the Ethiopian monarch, Haile Salessie. With modern implements of warfare and bombing planes Italy out-matches Ethiopia in every way, but Ethiopia cherishes the opinion that she can wipe out the Italian armies, but the reverse seems more probable. The League of Nations, beyond its lax sanctions has accomplished little toward ending the war. At every proposal Mussolini exhibits a certain amount of contempt. No terms proposed appear to be acceptable to the League council. Another European war, the thing least wanted, is feared if an attempt to impose terms is made. Mussolini is about to bluff the League of some fifty nations into a position of non-interference with his plans of conquest.

Timely Farm Questions
Answered At State College

QUESTION:—What is the best method for curing meat?

ANSWER:—There are two principal methods advocated in North Carolina—the brine cure and the dry salt cure, either of which is satisfactory. Common salt is the basis of all meat curing. In both cures sugar is sometimes used to give the meat a better flavor and to counteract the action of the salt by keeping the muscles soft, where salt makes them hard. Formulas for both the brine cure and the dry salt cure are given in Extension Folder 34 on "Killing and Curing Meat on the Farm". Copies of this folder may be had free upon application to the Agricultural Editor at State College.

QUESTION:—What proportion of birds should I give my tenant who is raising poultry for me on shares?

ANSWER:—Where all the baby chicks, equipment and feed are furnished the tenant should receive about one-seventh of the birds or an equal amount of the sale price. From 14 to 18 percent of the sales is a good range for labor payment. To make any profit from this arrangement, only good healthy chicks should be furnished the tenant. Good brooder houses should also be provided as well as a properly balanced ration. The tenant should have a good knowledge of feeding and care of growing chicks together with some knowledge of poultry diseases.

QUESTION:—What reduction does the new cotton program require and what is the adjustment figure?

ANSWER:—The minimum adjustment for 1936 requires a 30 percent reduction below the established base acreage. However, producers will have the privilege of reducing to a maximum of 45 percent below the base. The adjustment payment will be five cents a pound of the average yield of lint cotton on land withheld from production under contract. This adjustment will be made in one payment.

SAVIOUR'S BIRTHPLACE

Interesting story regarding exquisite mosaics found in Bethlehem, which are believed to be the remains of the earliest church built around the Sacred Manger. Benefit payment to peanut growers in Bertie County will amount to approximately $150,000 this year.

Hunting Elephants for Tusks, Regular Business

The precious white gold of Kenya—elephant's tusks—is protected by government regulations in South Africa, and, like all lucrative trades, has its unlawful and bootlegging channels. It is for this reason that natives risk their lives and penetrate the tall grass jungles and forest of the interior, tumbling elephants by the thousands in the dust.

The tusk hunters are divided into two groups, according to a representative of the American Express company—the killers and dead ivory gatherers, the latter industry being the great mystery to the white man. "Dead ivory" is supposed to be derived from dead elephants or skeletons and though 2,000 elephants die a natural death every year in the jungles and forests of Africa, it is an astonishing fact that few big game hunters or explorers have ever discovered a dead elephant.

The natives declare that elephants have a secret death place and are highly superstitious in revealing elephants' cemeteries. It is from these mysterious cemeteries, which the dying elephant is said to stagger to, that the illicit traffic in ivory goes on.

Many Zulu tribesmen, who lie in the deep grass or attack a lone elephant in their crescent moon formation, use the mystic cemetery source as a blind. However, not only do the natives believe in the Ivory Heaven, but big game hunters are human enough to hope that some day they will discover an ivory hoard.

The tusks which are of priceless value comprise the upper incisor tooth grown to enormous proportions, the lower half or three-quarters being solid.

Dogs Bred Down to Make Them Fit as House Pets

Two dogs came over with the Pilgrims in the Mayflower and landed in Plymouth in 1620, writes A. B. MacDonald in the Kansas City Star. In the more than three centuries that have passed since then, dogs have multiplied and kept right up with the increase and spread of the white race on this continent.

For many years the dog in this country was a hunter or a watch dog, and lived outdoors. But, with the increase of cities and towns the bulk of our population crowded into them, and the dog became largely a pet, living in the home, looked upon as a member of the family.

This led to the widespread breeding down of the large dogs of the outdoors to make them small enough for house pets, and also to the importation of the smaller dogs of Europe, such as the German dachshund, so low in height that women of the household often called him an "under-the-bureau" dog.

Professional dog trainers say that the two most intelligent breeds of dogs are the German shepherds and the French poodles. For more than 2,000 years poodles, popularly called "French," although they probably originated in Germany, were the trained dogs seen in the strolling shows throughout Europe.

British Postal Service Old

The British postal service may be traced back some 450 years. In 1482 King Edward IV appointed relays of horsemen to carry the royal dispatches, thus enabling letters to travel 200 miles in two days.

"Quo Vadis"

"Quo Vadis" is a Latin phrase which is literally translated as "Whither Goest Thou?" These are the words addressed to Peter by the Lord when the former was about to forsake Rome.
