ENFORCING LAW

The people go to the ballot box and name whom they wish to go to Raleigh to make laws for government and protection of society and the regulation of the conduct of the individual.

Not all laws enacted meet with highest approval. The assembly meets every other year — so that needed laws may be enacted, changes made, and useless laws repealed.

This is preliminary to the matter for present consideration:

Around a third of a century ago the people of North Carolina, a majority, decided that the manufacture and sale of liquor in the State must be abolished or strictly regulated.

Laws were enacted to that end. As time passed sentiment toward the use of alcoholic liquors changed, but not to the extent of open advocacy of their use nor the annulment of the penalty for making and selling.

A generation after the enactment of the most stringent regulatory act, governing the handling of liquor, ever placed on the statute books of the State, a laxness has grown.

The last Legislature opened the way for the people to decide the question, locally, by counties as a unit — establishing Liquor Stores where the liquor could be bought and sold legally.

On August 17th Alamance county said by a decisive vote that it did not want Liquor Stores.

Since the establishment of the Alamance County Court, disposing of cases growing out of the manufacture, sale and use of liquor have predominated. The County Court Judges bore down on these lightly as decency would permit, not hard enough to deter all who chose to follow "bootlegging."

After the August election presiding Judge Cooper A. Hall gave notice that in accordance with the mandate of the people he would do his part toward the enforcement of prohibition.

Last Monday Judge Hall handed out a few samples of what he meant. Largely increased fines and prison terms were imposed, in some cases both. He made good his promise. It is hardly necessary to say a commotion was created, accompanied by imprecations. These lines express the reaction:

"No thief ever felt the halter drawn,
With a good opinion of the law."

To make a law effective and a terror to evil doers, it must be rigidly enforced.

Joe Louis, negro heavyweight, retains the belt. A record crowd witnessed the bout with Tommy Farr, Welshman, in the Yankee Stadium, New York, Monday night. Fifteen rounds were fought without a knock-out surprised everybody. It was a referee decision for Louis. The gate receipts were $255,753.11; Louis gets $112,967.52; Farr, $60,000 (guaranteed).

The largest corn crop in several years is in prospect for Durham county this year, according to W. B. Pace, farm agent.

Andrew Mellon Dead

Andrew W. Mellon died last Thursday evening in his 84th year at the home of his daughter in Southampton, N. Y. His home was in Pittsburgh, Pa.

He was called the financier-statesman. He served as Secretary of the Treasury under three Presidents, and is reputed to have been the greatest since Alexander Hamilton.

When appointed by President Harding his name was not known in political circles, but he was known to the business world as one of the world's richest men. So quiet and unostentatious was he that newspapers and newspaper readers knew little about him.

It soon came out that he was a very rich man.

After the world war the national debt was the biggest it had ever been. He began to pay it off and liquidated about eight billions. Mr. Hoover thought he was paying it off too rapidly. That may have had something to do with the 1929 crash.

Mr. Hoover tendered him the appointment of Minister to Great Britain and he resigned the Treasury portfolio.

He was banker, manufacturer, industrialist—and had to do with the business management, as director, president, or chairman of more than three score corporations.

Among his principal interests were manufacture of aluminum and the Gulf Oil Co.

His estimated wealth is anywhere from 200 million up to a billion. He had a brother, who died a few years ago, that was also very wealthy and was his business associate.

He owned what critics considered the most valuable art collection in the world. This, valued at $50,000,000, he has given to the city of Washington. He has established a number of beneficent foundations or trusts which he has endowed in sums aggregating some 200 millions.

During his lifetime he gave away for various causes around 100 millions.

It is disclosed that he left personal gifts of about $180,000. The inheritance tax to be paid from the estate will amount to about 20 millions.

The Aluminum plant in Stokes county at Baden on the Yadkin river largely belongs to the immense Mellon estate.

The story of the Mellons reads like a Fairy tale, is of intense interest, and everything they touched seemed to turn to Gold.

The war situation in Spain weaves back and forth between the insurgents and the loyalists—bloody and devastating. In the undeclared war between China and aggressive Japan, the conflict is furious. Thousands have been slaughtered, a large number of their women and children and non-combatants. Big Chinese cities have been shelled and bombed and fires kindled with incalculable loss. Chinese soldiers are putting on a stubborn resistance and have killed many hundreds of the Japanese. The damage in International quarters threatens complications that may involve other nations.

Four-H club members in Cherokee county are busy preparing their calves for fall fairs and shows.

Revival of 4-H club work has begun in Macon county, with farm and home agents reporting much interest among farm boys and girls in the reorganization.

CANDIDATE
For National Committeewoman, Young Democrats

Miss Elizabeth Proctor, Lumberton, vice-president of the Young Democratic club of Robeson County, has been endorsed by that organization for the position of National Committeewoman from North Carolina. A committee from the Young Democrats is promoting her candidacy.

Compliance work under the 1937 Agricultural Conservation program is in full swing in most North Carolina counties.

Chatham county farmers have just purchased two registered Guernsey cows, a Guernsey heifer calf, a Guernsey bull calf, and two registered Jersey cows as a part of their livestock improvement program.

Univ. N. C.
Opens Sept 16

Its The 144th Session; An Increased Attendance Expected.

Univ. News Bureau—Students are making preparations to leave for Chapel Hill to enroll for the fall term of the University of North Carolina which begins its 144th session September 16th.

Information from University officials indicates that the registration this year will be slightly above that of last fall.

Despite the increased enrollment in recent years, the University of today, through a plan of faculty advisers, is giving the individual student more attention than ever.

Every freshman and sophomore has a faculty adviser whose business it is to keep in close touch with the group of students assigned to him. These advisers hold frequent conferences with the students, especially the new men; keep a close tab on their progress, and do their best to see to it that the students are making the most of their opportunities. They cooperate with the parents in trying to correct deficiencies or irregularities.

Preceding the formal opening, Freshman Week, a period set aside to aid freshmen in getting adjusted to University life, will be observed from Monday, September 13, through Thursday, September 16. The first freshman assembly will be held at 9 o'clock September 13.

Freshmen and transfer students will register Wednesday, September 15, upperclassmen September 16, and classes will begin the morning of the 17th.

Bob Magill, President of the student body, will welcome the freshman class at the opening assembly September 13, after which there will be meetings with faculty and student advisers and counselors.

At 8 o'clock that evening a reception will be held in Graham Memorial when new students will have an opportunity to meet President Graham, Administrative Dean House deans of the various schools and faculty advisers.

The University Club will give a reception on Wednesday evening, and the Freshmen week program will be brought to a close with College night exercises on Thursday when student leaders will give talks on the various campus activities.

Students who have not been at Chapel Hill this summer will be surprised to find the new woman's dormitory nearing completion and the new gymnasium well under way. The new woman's building will house 100 coeds and is scheduled for occupancy this fall.

Despite the large enrollment, indications are that all students accepted will be able to find suitable rooms, either in the dormitories or in homes in the village. The Y M C A is maintaining a service for those seeking rooms in town.

46th Session of Woman's College Begins
Sept. 14th

Fourth Among Woman's Colleges in Enrollment
Last Year

Greensboro, N. C., Aug. 31—With the opening date set for Tuesday, September 14, the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina will launch its forty-sixth year with an increased enrollment, an increased faculty, and all thirteen dormitories opened. Dr. W. C. Jackson, Dean of Administration, has announced.

The enrollment for this year is expected to pass the mark of 1,332, the total for last year, which put Woman's College fourth in enrollment among the women's colleges of the country.

Students will begin to arrive on Monday, September 13, and Freshman Week will begin Tuesday, September 14, Tuesday evening at 6:30 there will be a faculty dinner meeting in South dining hall when the new members of the faculty will be introduced. On Wednesday September 15, examinations for the removal of conditions and for advanced standing will be held. On Thursday, September 16, registration of freshmen and commercial students will take place. Former and transfer students will register on Friday, September 17.

Time To Plant Fall And Winter Gardens

Farm families who wish to enter the fall and winter garden contest sponsored by the State College extension service are urged to start planting their gardens as soon as possible.

The first step recommended by extension specialists is that of preparing the soil and supplying it with plenty of stable manure or other organic matter.

Among the vegetables that may be planted in August are: Broccoli, mustard, Swiss chard; endive; lettuce, cauliflower, cabbage; turnips, carrots, beets; celery; collards, snap beans, lima beans; sugar corn, and tomatoes.

Broccoli, cauliflower, and Chinese cabbage may be planted in hills 15 inches apart, or the seed may be sown in plant beds and transplanted later. Side dress the plants with nitrate of soda three to four weeks after transplanting.

Sow celery in plant beds and cover with burlap or heavy paper, but remove the covering as soon as plants appear above ground. Transplant to field 6 to 2 weeks later. Set plants in double rows 6 to 8 inches apart.

Celery will not mature in acid soil. Wood ashes or hydrated lime broadcast over the soil a month before plants are transplanted will aid in maturing the celery.

Sugar corn should be planted early in August except in sections where frost is delayed.

Lettuce may be sown in seed beds partially shaded during the day. Cover bed with a layer of woods litter and water thoroughly once a week. Transplant to a partially shaded plot, and give a side dressing of nitrate of soda a few weeks later.
