Entered at the Postoffice at Graham, N. C., as second-class matter.

Germany's thrust at Russia's Capital has failed so far. The loss of life mounts to hundreds of thousands.

Building a big navy calls for additional seamen. Secretary Knox says they are needed now at the rate of 13,000 per month and that the number will increase to 15,000.

Labor groups are not favorable to any restrictive legislation by Congress. Congress will do nothing drastic unless labor forgets to reason and interferes with the Government's defense policy.

John L. Lewis yielded and the coal miners went back to work again. They were happy to do so. These strikes are not the making of the rank and file of the workers. The country is "fed up" on strikes by designing leaders who do the job for personal gain.

At a meeting in Raleigh Tuesday of the advisory budget commission, J. Paul Leonard, the perennial foe of sales tax, asked Gov. Broughton to call a special session of the Legislature to reduce taxes. The Gov. told him to get the idea out of his head, that there would be no special session of the legislature.

A mediation Board composed of three, Benjamin F. Fairless, president of U. S. Steel; Dr. John R. Steelman, of U. S. labor department; and John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers (C.I.O.). No doubt there will be plenty of friction, but it is the job of the body to iron out their differences. They will have to give and take.

The Japs are smart. They sent a special envoy, Saburo Kuru, to talk over the American policy in the Orient as affecting the designs of Japan. Like Hitler in Europe, the Japs are after taking from other countries what they want in the Orient for the enlargement of their empire. Kuru has an American wife and no doubt that fact had to do with whom the Japs sent, but America is not doing things now for the sake of sentiment, and the conversations have had no effect so far. Japan is joined with the Axis and may offer to shoot it out.

Inflation, Defense, Taxes

The kindred problems of inflation, taxation and cost-of-government are causing many a congressional headache these days. Few senators or representatives seem to have yet decided what can be done to help solve them.

Prices are now going up with extreme rapidity. President Roosevelt recently said that inflation has set in, and other major figures in government have said the same thing before. A legion of economists have urged that Congress take steps to control prices. But so far the lawmakers have shown amazing agility in dodging the issue. Price-fixing is an extremely ticklish proposition. It would directly affect millions of voters. If it is to be successful, in the opinion of most authorities, it must be accompanied by wage-fixing. So, from the point of view of men who must depend on votes to hold their jobs, it is dangerous medicine. On top of that, there are a thousand and one different proposed schemes for price control, and no one knows which might be workable.

We have only just begun to suffer the burdens of taxation that war and defense spending will make inevitable. The new tax bill is the heaviest in our history. Yet it is designed to produce less than $4,000,000,000 a year in additional revenue, and defense and aid-to-democracies appropriations now total close to $70,000,000,000. The President has said that the government's cash income must be increased, and Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau has urged a bill which would impose on both individuals and business a tax load infinitely greater than they are now carrying. The feeling grows in official circles that some form of payroll tax may have to be levied, and that this may be accompanied by a law to compel forced savings. Heavy taxation is urged as weapon against inflation on the ground that it reduces purchasing power and lessens the ability to buy. The bill which Mr. Morgenthau recommended involves a straight 15 per cent tax on all salaries and wages.

The cost-of-government issue is coming into the limelight now. The hard fact is that the war spending has been piled on top of record-breaking non-war spending in which no important cost reduction has been made anywhere. For instance, appropriations to aid farmers, youth, reliefers, and others are still at the depression peaks. Leading congressional fighter for non-defense economy has been Senator Byrd of Virginia. Mr. Byrd is a 100 per cent supporter of the anti-Hitler program, and at the same time he believes that the regular cost of government should be pared to the limit. He is head of a senate committee which is trying to find ways and means to reduce the non-defense budget. Secretary Morgenthau recently appeared before this committee and testified that, in his opinion, very large cuts could be made in practically all non-defense departments. He did not estimate the total that could thus be saved. However, sometime ago he forecast that a reduction of at least $1,000,000,000 a year was possible. Other authorities have estimated that a cut of $2,000,000,000 or more is within reason, in non-defense spending.

Congress has been almost entirely occupied with foreign policy during the past year, at the expense of domestic policy. In a time such as the present, with public attention focused on a war which extends over three-quarters of the world, it is easy for Congress to take the time of least resistance and do little or nothing. But the heat is being turned on now, and some of the turners are men high in Administration circles. This country has not yet adopted a fiscal policy, a wage policy, or a price policy suitable to the times. We are far behind England in that respect. It looks as if Congress must really get down to cases and grapple with economic problems which are of direct concern to every citizen of these United States.

Required No Dog License
Until a few years ago, licenses were not required in England on dogs which were used purely for the purpose of herding cattle. The old law reads in part as follows: "Any dog kept wholly for the care of cattle, if not a greyhound, hound, pointer, setting dog, spaniel, lurcher, or terrier, and any dog under six months old, is exempt from duty."

Monte Carlo Tee
Monte Carlo has one of the highest golf courses in Europe, that at Mont Agel, 3,000 feet above sea level. From its slopes travelers can look up and down the coast of the French Riviera, over into Italy and back to the snow-covered Alps of Switzerland.

RED CROSS AIDS ARMY MORALE

Red Cross workers are on the job in all Army and Navy camps and stations throughout the country to assist in the important task of maintaining morale. Above, an Army flier leaves unfinished personal matters for the Red Cross field director to take care of while he embarks on an emergency flight across country. The Red Cross is the official means of communication between service men and their families back home.

Red Cross Helps Solve Problems Of Our Recruits

Through Its Directors in Camps Red Cross Links Men With Home

Washington, D. C.—On the home and military fronts the American Red Cross is turning its focus on the man in uniform. In his behalf, more than 10,000 nurses are being recruited. Volunteers are donating their blood for a huge plasma bank. Red Cross women in chapters throughout the country are making 40,000,000 surgical dressings, and knitting sweaters for men in outlying posts and sailors on patrol.

But these are just fragments of the story. In military and naval stations, the Red Cross is concerning itself with the personal problems of the service man, helping him adjust himself to military life. For the disabled, the Red Cross is on the job in service hospitals, helping to speed recovery of the sick through a morale-building program.

In mobilizing a 2,000,000-man fighting force, the personal problems of the able-bodied man in uniform have in turn become problems of the morale divisions. Red Cross field directors stationed in all camps and reservations have been entrusted with the task of helping to solve these problems.

Speaking in a nation-wide broadcast recently, Chief of Staff Marshall, of the Army, addressed the following words to Red Cross field directors:

"When you help straighten out any of the great variety of tangles that human beings seem unable to avoid, you are helping to maintain morale on the home front and on the military front; you are helping us in training for defense."

The disabled man in a service hospital also can look to the Red Cross for help in speeding recovery. Medical-social workers, trained for their specialized assignment, are on duty at Army general and Navy hospitals to aid service physicians, to act as a medium of communication with the families of hospitalized men and to conduct recreational programs for convalescents.

The Red Cross provides recreational service for patients in all Army and Navy hospitals. Sixty-five new hospitals are under construction by the Army, and their recreation buildings are being equipped and staffed by the Red Cross as each one opens.

As part of the Army and Navy safety programs, members of the national Red Cross staff are qualifying instructors in First Aid and Water Safety among the ranks of the enlisted man. Instructors taught by the Red Cross in turn conduct classes on the reservations.

FIND GOLDEN CITIES OF LIVING AMAZONS

A fascinating story which presents astonishing evidence that in the unexplored jungles of Brazil, a race of white, warrior women still survive among the remnants of a mysterious long-perished civilization.
