For Peace

Prosperity in America is the first step in the direction of a lasting This prosperity ought to peace. spread, as fast as it can, to other countries. It is in America, however, where men have the key to prosperity and the United States must lead the procession to high liv-ing standards through open compe-tition . . . the only way to obtain a more abundant life, for ourselves or others.

At first thought, some people may not agree that prosperity has any-thing to do with peace. But they will convince themselves if they will think back. Troubles that built up to this present war were economic troubles. Hitler and Mussolini both climbed to power over ruin; ruined fortunes, ruined hopes, ruined lives. They got a following by promising people relief from misery.

Want Is Serious. People will be patient, and con-tent themselves to wait for solutions to ordinary political problems, but they will do desperate and violent things when hungry; when their families need food. Prosperity helps to maintain peace, and (as I said in to maintain peace, and (as I said in the first sentence) prosperity in America is the first step. The rea-son is plain. Uncle Sam is the world's best customer.

world's best customer. When we think about the impor-tance of the United States in world affairs, these simple figures stand out boldly: We have only 7% of the earth's population and yet we buy 40% of all the raw materials in the world from which manufactured goods are produced. When wheels are turning in America, markets get active to the four corners of the earth.

Looking to America.

When American smokestacks are warm, and American factories hum the tin mines of Malaya get busy, the rubber plantations of Sumatra swarm with workers, and the Caribbean countries commence shipping coffee, chicle and bananas. Our prosperity is the world's peace. But why discuss it unless we can do something about it? I hasten to say we can!

Foreign lands prosper when they sell freely to America. They sel to America when jobs are plentiful and good here, when most Americans have money to buy what they want. Jobs are plentiful and good and workers prosper, when business is expanding. Business expands when investors see possible returns from investments. They could see such opportunities now if they were not afraid of taxes.

Uncertainty Kills.

Very few business men in the United States have any idea today that they will be able to expand in peacetime pursuits. Most of them know they can't afford to expand if the present-day 95% excess profits tax remains in force. It was enacted as a war emergency measure. I do not say it ought to be re-pealed at this hour. But we ought to make certain now that it will not outlive the war.

Revenue measures are the hardest of all laws to repeal. Taxes

T. B. Rate in Army The incidence of tuberculosis, as reflected by the annual hospital ad-mission rate, is only one-tenth as high in the army now as it was in the last war, the war department announced. Principal factor in the marked decrease in the army's rate is the screening process which is in operation to exclude men with active or potentially active tubercu-losis before they are inducted into the army, Col. E. R. Long, chief consultant on tuberculosis for the surgeon general's office, pointed

Careful Screening Cuts

Another reason, he added, is the fact that among the civilian popula-tion tuberculosis is only one-third as prevalent now as it was during the world war. In the last war, the necessary technical equipment had not been developed for a quick and accurate detection of this disease in the thousands of men who were hurriedly mobilized. Now, by means of x-ray photography tuber-culous cases can be excluded with great accuracy. It was not until the spring of 1942, however, that this screening proc-ess came to be used universally in the army. Nearly one million men were inducted without this x-ray examination, which to a large degree accounts for the fact that apgree accounts for the fact that ap-proximately 10,500 men were dis-charged from the army because of tuberculosis between December 7, 1941 and December 7, 1944. Since the beginning of this war, the army has rejected approximately 150,000 men who showed signs of pulmon-ary tuberculosis. Several thousand others were excluded by local others were excluded by local boards of the selective service system before they reached inducti centers.

Mahogany One of the Best Finishing Woods

Mahogany responds as perhaps does no other wood to fine finishing, says "The Mahogany Book," which emphasizes that wood is finished for four very good reasons: to seal the surface against moisture, to facilitate cleaning, to bring out the depth and lustre of grain and figure, to change color or tone. Mahogany has suffered the more when poorly finished, says this authority, which continues:

"The thick reddish hue and hard high lustre of much late 19th century mahogany is an example. The red was a stain. Used first as a perfectly legitimate means of obtain ing uniformity of color, it gradually became a disguise for inferior wood substitutes, growing darker and thicker for the purpose, until it all but concealed the natural grain. The lustre was several coats of gloss varnish. "The finest mahogany finishes are those which do the most to bring out the natural beauty and color of the wood. Outstanding are shellac and wax, and oil and wax, both used extensively during the 18th century and responsible for the mellow gleam on rare old museum pieces and our most superior modern pieces alike. Both require time and skill, and are therefore expensive. There are today, however, vastly improved lacquer and varnish fin-ishes which cost less. Through them we are now able to reproduce almost exactly the rich patina asso-ciated with traditional design. Others, based on bleaching, bring out the full beauty of grain and figure in the lighter honey, wheat and am-ber tones popularized in modern de-sign."

Utility Beef Utility grade beef needs to be cooked longer at lower temperatures, with more moisture, and often with added fat to make it appetiz ing. The more tender cuts of utility beef may be roasted if a temperature around 300 degrees is used, but tougher cuts are better if either pot-roasted or stewed with added moisture and fat, or if cooked in a pressure cooker. Many homemakers like to vary the flavor of utility beef meat dishes with garlic, onions, tomatoes, vinegar, green pepper, spice, or garden herbs. If stew is the choice, some gar, green pepper, spice, or garden herbs. If stew is the choice, some like a one-dish meal in which the vegetables are cooked with the meat. This sort of stew has higher food value and usually a more appealing flavor if the vegetables are added and cooked only until ten-der. One combination liked by many is meat ple with or without vegetables, topped with mashed potatoes, hot corn meal, or baking powder biscuits.

Careful Treatment Adds

To the Life of Gloves Once you've purchased a pair of gloves it's well to consider that your treatment of them is most imrtant in determining how long you will have an attractive pair gloves. Remember the way in which the sales person puts them on your hands, and follow her example. Tug-ging and pulling strains seams and e material. Just ease the fingers on first, then the thumb and palm.

To remove the gloves it's best to osen each finger tip, turn the cuff back over the fingers and draw the gloves off. Suede gloves are the ex-gioves off. Suede gloves are the ex-ception, they should be worked off easily without turning back the cuff or loosening the finger tips. After you've taken off the gloves, pull them gently into shape, blow into the fingers and place the gloves in a flat box, wrapping them in tissue paper if you use them in-frequently.

All signs point to the smallest labor force on farms in many years: while this year's goals call for a continued high rate of production, says the USDA.

Lake Storage

Two hundred tons of apples from the Kelowna, British Columbia, crop of 1944 were put in storage in Okan-agan lake. The Canadian National Railways granted permission to the B. C. Tree Fruits Ltd. to use its pier B. C. Tree Fruits Ltd. to use its pier at Okanagan lake for the experiment in an effort to save apples which otherwise would rapidly deteriorate due to shortage of storage space. Herring net, 600 feet of it, was at-tached to the pier piles and then weighted with lead. The net sinks down into the water to a depth of 19 feet and covers the area under the pier. Culls, or low grade apples are feet and covers the area under the pler. Culls, or low grade apples are being used and if they are saved by water storage, they will be used for dehydration and other byproducts and if the experiment is unsuccess-ful the loss will be negligible. Re-volving belts will go down into the water corral, pick up apples and bring them into receptacles on the pler when required.
