COURTHOUSE GETS FLAG

On V-E Day the County Courthouse was without a flag.

But thanks to patriotic lady of Burlington there is now flying over the county building a five by eight banner of the stars and stripes. This lady wants no publicity, so, she request that her name be withheld from publication.

This newspaper, with many of its readers, is grateful to this person for her thoughtfulness.

THANKS!

China's Future

Farmers in the United States made up 72% of the whole nation's population back in 1820. That was just half-way between the invention of the iron plow and the mechanical reaper for small grain crops. Only 23% of our people live on farms now. China still has the "good old days" if you like that kind. Some 80% of her people are farmers even yet.

If an American farmer's hired man earned 50¢ a day in 1820 he had to be a good one. The farmer was not to blame. In order to pay better wages he had to get better prices for what his hired man produced, or manage some way for the worker to produce more. Even then both developments had begun. The plow and the reaper improved farm income and farm wages also.

Supply and Demand
Using improved machinery one workman could do the work three had done with crude tools, so two out of three farm hands eventually quit the farm. Some of them went to work at transportation, taking farm products to cities where there were quick markets. Others got jobs in factories making desirable things to sell to the farmers who, by this time, had quite a little money to spend.

The two farm workers out of three who left the farm did not quit using farm products. Wherever they worked they bought and consumed farm produce, also made more profitable work for people in transportation.

tation. This is a simple outline of the growth of American prosperity, and it is a rough sketch of what must take place in China, starting after the war, if China is to prosper.

A Unification Plan

High-brow students of political economy talk about "social, political and economic unification of China." Those are 35-cent words, trying to say that China is all broken up and needs to be made one. Nothing that is broken can be welded again until the pieces are brought close together. China's dismembered parts need to be brought close together; close in time; close in spirit.

China already has everything needed to live well: livestock and grain, timber and fiber, coal and oil, iron and copper. China has supply and demand also—450 million people anxious to earn more and live better. One trouble is, there are 360 million farmers when 12 million with good tools would be enough. There is much other work to do: ore to mine, timber to cut, roads to build.

Hidden Treasures

Roads will bring the empire's far-flung segments near in time. Business dealings will create mutual confidence and make China's remote tribes close in spirit. There is money in the Orient—most of it hidden, but it's there. More, much more will come from other lands as soon as investors learn of the empire's rich resources and great markets. Only fear of robbery and fraud can keep it away.

These fears can be removed by a strong central government, able to maintain order and security for investment at home, and able to command the respect of other world powers. Chiang Kai-Shek has promised these things for postwar years and rebel rulers already are learning to trust him and work with him. The United States should help him, for China is America's natural ally in the East, for mutual profit in time of peace and mutual protection in time of war.

To market,
To market...

When the Southern Railway System goes "to market," it does its buying from a "shopping list" of 65,000 different items...and buys about sixty-one million dollars worth in a year.

Using almost everything...from toothpicks to cross-ties, from pins to steel rails...there are few articles produced in the South that the Southern doesn't buy.

And there are few cities, or towns, or counties in the South that do not feel the helpful effect of railway purchases. They ring local cash registers, stimulate local trade, and provide jobs for thousands of workers in other industries...year after year.

Thus, through its purchases, through the taxes it pays, through the 50,000 railroad jobs it provides and the vital transportation service it renders, the Southern Railway System really "Serves the South"...and so helps it to grow and prosper.
