To Pass on War Dog Memorial

Membership of the committee of judges that will pass on the winning design for a projected memorial to be raised in honor of the dogs that will have fought and died in World War II, has been announced by Harry Miller, executive secretary of the Gaines Dog Research Center, which is offering an award of $500 to the person submitting the most acceptable design idea or sketch.

The members of the committee are: Lowell Thomas, radio commentator and dog fancier; Helen Menken, star of stage and radio who is a pioneer in work for the Stage Door Canteen and the Army's K-9 Corps; Dr. Samuel Milbank, New York sportsman and president of the Westminster Kennel Club; and George Ford Morris, one of America's best known animal artists.

May 1st, 1945, is the deadline for entries in the memorial design competition. Merit of the submitted idea will count for more than artistic execution of the finished sketch. Ideas or sketches should be sent to the committee in care of Harry Miller, Gaines Dog Research Center, 250 Park Avenue, New York 17, N. Y. The judges' decision will be final. In the event the idea or design selected by the committee shall have been submitted by more than one person, the one first received will have preference.

New Tire Prices

Reduction of synthetic rubber tire prices for passenger cars and motorcycles, to the lowest retail levels since 1942 will benefit North Carolina car owners OPA has announced.

Rubber Thread Clothing Needs Careful Washing

Wash clothing made of rubber thread, such as foundation garments and suspenders, with mild soap and warm water. Handle gently and stretch as little as possible when wet. Rinse several times. Dry in a cool, airy place away from stoves, radiators, or sunlight. If any garments must be ironed, keep the iron only moderately warm, and use it as little as possible.

To dry a girdle quickly, roll it in a dry cloth and fold over lightweight so the garters will not cut the garment. Unroll and hang to dry.

Repair breaks with a patch or darn as soon as possible. Be careful not to cut the rubber thread with the needle. Do not use fine thread, because that is likely to cut the rubber. Allow three-fourths of an inch margin of mend around the spot you are mending.

Extension Cords

Extension cords usually are not recommended, because it is dangerous to fasten them closely to baseboards or wall. It may be necessary to use them, however, now that materials for installing new outlets are limited. If so, inspect an extension cord from time to time to be sure it has not frayed or worn thin. Plug an extension cord in an outlet—never attach it permanently. If you run the cord for a way around the room, attach it to the base.
