BE SURE YOU DON'T HELP ANSWER IT

As the Pacific war rushes toward its climax, the Japs are trying desperately to ward off our final blows.

Their greatest need is information...information about our plans, our strength, the movement of our forces. They want to know the successes and failures of the Nazi tactics... the strength or weaknesses of our efforts against the Germans. They are sparing neither cost nor effort to get it. Every means of communication is used to get information out of this country.

The chief source of such information is careless talk—careless repetition of what our returning service people may inadvertently reveal.

Every American must individually help to dry up all sources of information.
