Some Tires Released

Farmers needing implement tires for their farm equipment are reminded by Theodore S. Johnson, Raleigh district OPA director of the War Price and Rationing Board that they can now buy them without a purchase certificate.

"Following its previously announced policy of removing controls on articles at the earliest possible moment, OPA has taken farm implement and industrial type tires off the ration list," Johnson said.

Truck and passenger tires remain under rationing, he pointed out.

"Ample supplies of tractor tires are on hand to meet the requirements, and so there is no longer any need to keep them under rationing," Johnson declared.

"In making this announcement I want to take occasion to thank the farmers of Alamance County for their splendid spirit of co-operation during the period when these tires were scarce. By taking care of their individual tires and having them checked regularly, they have contributed materially to our national rubber conservation program," Johnson said.

Points-plus: Point-less

Jean Patterson is busy contributing to the war effort by saving every drop of used fat left over from cooking. She knows that kitchen grease is urgently needed to help make war and civilian essentials. Ann Jeffrey can't be bothered. If she cooks at all, drippings go down the drain. She loves herself too much to worry about the needs of this country. Don't be an Ann. Be a Jean. It will pay you patriotic dividends.

Governor Cherry Pays Tribute To OPA Volunteers

Volunteer workers connected with the local War Price and Rationing board who have remained on the job during the war period were praised by Governor Cherry this week in a prepared statement in which he emphasized the continued importance of the fight against inflation.

Governor Cherry urged these patriotic citizens to "see the job through to the finish," adding that the end of the fighting in the Pacific does not eliminate the need for continued vigilance on the home front.

The Governor's statement in full:

"Since December 1941, when the Governor of North Carolina first set up tire rationing boards in every county, thousands of patriotic persons have given their time and services in administering our wartime rationing and price control programs. Many of them have been on the job for more than three years and all of them are doing their jobs without thought of compensation and without fanfare, some at a personal sacrifice.

"The work these people have done, and are doing, is a direct contribution to the welfare of our state and nation. With the end of the fighting in the Pacific and the coming of peace all of the conditions that make price, rent control, and rationing necessary will not be immediately done away with.

"Many persons through thoughtlessness will want to see the controls thrown wide open and the pressures for inflation—that have been built up in other parts of the world—hit our state. This means that the job the volunteer workers, and others in OPA, have to do is not yet finished. The end of the war means that the job has been finished on foreign soil, but there remains work to be done here unless all the good that has been accomplished thus far is lost. The way in which the job is completed will determine the direct results.

"As Governor of the State of North Carolina, I, R. Gregg Cherry, do ask that these patriotic citizens, and others who might care to contribute to the cause in the future, continue to lend all that is in their power to complete the fight against inflation and unfair distribution until such a time that such controls are unnecessary."

"Our board chairmen, clerks, and volunteer workers have done a good job. Let's see the job through to the finish."

LITTLE THINGS HAVE BIG POINT VALUE IN CANNING

Gladys Kimbrough, Home Service Director for Ball Brothers Company and editor of the famous Blue Book of home canning recipes, recently expressed the opinion that most canning failures would be avoided if people could be made to understand that, in canning, little things have big point value.

She also stated, "There is no short cut to successful home canning, but careful planning ahead of time takes the drudgery out of the job. Careful attention to reliable instructions at the time (of canning) puts success into it."

Use Proven Quality Jar

Select any style jar you like but be sure it is a home canning or "fruit jar" and that it is a nationally known brand. There is no excuse for a slip-up on this because the name of both jar and maker is moulded into the side of all jars intended for home canning. A sheet of instructions, telling how to use them, is packed with each dozen jars. The instructions should be followed. If this were not important, there would be no instructions because printing and putting them in the cartons cost the manufacturer a lot of money.

Jars, caps, and lids which have been used before should be examined carefully for nicks and cracks, washed clean in warm, soapy water, rinsed, and then boiled twenty or more minutes and kept hot until needed. And remember, please, jars should be ready and waiting for the food which is to be canned. Never, never keep fruits and vegetables waiting for either jars or canner because bacteria and other organisms of spoilage overtake fruits and vegetables when there is an unnecessary delay anywhere between garden or orchard and canner.

Vegetables may look fresh after a night out of the garden, but they no longer have strength to resist bacteria, yeasts and moulds which cause them to spoil. Fruit which is taken from the tree and permitted to ripen in storage may keep but its flavor won't be right. Peas are an exception to this rule—they should be removed from the tree and ripened in a cool spot. A countless number of apricots and peaches have been wasted because home canners haven't understood that such fruit must be tree ripened if it is to have a good flavor after canning. All tree-grown fruit should be washed carefully through two waters before its skin is broken. If not washed off, chemicals used to keep insects away from the fruit may give an unnatural flavor to the canned product, a flavor which some persons have confused with that of rubber!

Boil Rubbers in Soda

Another little point to remember! Some authorities advise that wartime jar rubbers be boiled twenty minutes in a solution made by dissolving a heaping teaspoon of baking soda in a pint of water for each dozen rubbers to be treated. The rubbers should be rinsed well before using. When asked about this, Miss Kimbrough stated that she had used no rubbers which needed such treatment, but that boiling in soda could do no harm and might do some good if the rubbers seem to have an unusual amount of odor. She cautioned against stretching rubbers to test them. This rule also applies to pre-war rubbers. It is false economy to use any rubber more than once.
