JAPS NOT LICKED

According to a statement made by Vice Admiral John Sidney McCain, commander of the 38th task force, we quote: "Japan War Lords are not half licked yet," and witnessing the surrender ceremonies aboard the U. S. S. Missouri in Tokyo bay, he said: "I don't like to look in their eyes, they don't know they are licked yet." The ceremony he termed as "quite a pageant—it had color, drama, everything."

In speaking of General MacArthur he said: "He was just right, a rough tough guy, and that's what the job needed and still needs."

Japan "will take a lot more killing" Admiral McCain predicts.

He says he would like to "have enough fast carriers to patrol the Mid-Pacific. You give me them and let me run them and they can have their atom bombs."

Many of us feel that maybe we did permit the Japs to call it quits, too soon.

Admiral John Sidney McCain dies of a heart attack today.

Waiting Contest

Hard as it may be to get a dead-in-the-wool bureaucrat thinking about winter problems in the summer time, unless something unusual happens, cold weather will come again. One of these days a school bell will ring, a boy will come down the street bouncing a football and after that it won't be long. Moreover winter calls for a lot of things that are scarce now.

Let's take shoes as a down-to-earth illustration. Which is better for keeping a boy's feet off the frosty ground, a 1942 price ceiling or a pair of good heavy brogues with wool socks in them? That's the problem before the American people, with school bells only a few days away. Getting into production on civilian goods is what the OPA is currently bungling.

Hold That Price
 The OPA's war job was to keep prices of useful things from skyrocketing—a noble work requiring some stiff rules. But today, with the war won and war business slack, OPA is still making rules. One of them says: Manufacturers may make things for civilians provided they sell at 1942 prices. There's the rub, for factory owners now ready to start reconverting, making jobs safe for their employees.

The 1942 price rules stop them; nothing else. Workers want their jobs to last. Most civilians have saved some money and want to buy new things. Industry is anxious to serve them but very few factories can operate at 1942 prices. Materials cost more now and labor costs more also. There is only one thing a manufacturer can do, namely, beg OPA for special permission to price-up and go to work.

Mail Bags Full
 The OPA, if you remember, is famous for leaving no stone unturned, and all that sort of thing. It is rumored that some men in the bureau have their own private opinions about business people anyhow. Before they grant any firm special leave to change a price, they investigate. That's all right, but applications to reconverts are coming in fast, more than 500 a day.

The bureau will never wind up its red tape in time. The only possible way out of trouble is to make a reasonable rule for all industry to follow, let whistles blow at 8:00 a. m. and ask questions later. Will they do it? Who knows? Employees and customers would probably cheer loudly for any employer who kept his payroll alive and said "Ph-x-v-u" to the OPA, but its dangerous.

Formula for Panic
 Most business men are conservative. They are likely to wait exactly as long as the OPA says wait. Unable to do business on 1942 prices, they may pull fires from under their boilers and lay off the crew. Then the waiting contest starts. Bureaus will wait on investigations; employers will wait on bureaus; workers will wait on employers and you and

I will wait for everything. Idle workers in the soup-line; farmers without markets let crops rot in the field. An ugly picture. The way to avoid it is to let industry convert, sell its products to people with money and pay the men who work. Inflation can be prevented without starting a panic, if OPA will adopt a workable rule soon enough. But bureaus are usually more interested in rules than in reasons—warts on the nose of progress; bunions on the toe of time.

Frozen Hopes

Saying what a man earns, expressing it in cents per hour or dollars per year, does not tell much about the measure of prosperity he enjoys. Good living depends on so many things that change from time to time and differ from place to place. Prosperity depends, in very large part, on what people must pay for the things they need and want.

Putting the conveniences and luxuries of life in reach of a large number of people helps to build a nation's prosperity. Franklin's discovery of electricity became a great discovery when electric lights began costing less than oil lamps. The automobile became a great invention when cars were priced down where only rich people could afford to own carriage horses.

Paying for Service
 Plain people pay richly for favors; plain people are so many. Names like Edison, McCormick and Ford stand for huge estates because these men did a real service for a lot of plain people. It is because they hoisted a wholesome standard of living in a free country. Thousands of men have done the same thing on a smaller scale and profited handsomely.

Actually, the thing that inspires mechanical inventors to invent, the thing that fires scientific explorers to explore, is the chance to earn from a free people the rich reward for a valuable service. Once upon a time in the United States of America men who had ideas could afford to develop them. They can't do it now. How I hope those days soon return.

Big Ideas on Sale

Edison, McCormick and Ford didn't need to hawk their ideas, neither did Bissell, Denton, Parker and O'Sullivan, but Foster Gunnison had to sell his. Gunnison's inventions came later. Do you ask, "Who is this Gunnison man?" Well, he is a great inventor, not yet famous. But, unless I miss my guess, he is America's post-war Henry Ford.

Gunnison invented a prefabricated house and worked out a plan to build it in mass production. His units were scientifically constructed, insulation built in, thoroughly modern in every detail. Individually, his house models are so different that a tourist might drive past 100 of them in a row and never guess that they were drawn by the same architect.

Alike and Different

I could talk for hours about Gunnison houses. They come in eight sizes with great variety in looks. They are far better than any house possible to build of old-line materials in any community for the same money. They have everything from bathtub to garbage grinder, economy and convenience; a poor man's palace, amortized to $1 a day. But the inventor sold to the U. S. Steel Corporation.—Why?

He lacked capital and, under today's tax laws, never could make much profit. The giant corporation can run the project in the red and deduct early losses from war profits, most of which the government will take anyway. Unless our war-time tax laws are changed, every fertile idea in this inventive nation will have to hatch under the wing of some huge corporation—that exists already.

Bonds Over America

ASTOR COLUMN

Atop of Coxcomb Hill the Astor Monument reaches skyward, close to the site of the first permanent settlement in Oregon. Captain Robert Gray on a trading mission and his crew were the first white men to visit Astoria, at the mouth of the Columbia River. They came in 1792 and in 1805 Lewis and Clark passed the spot, setting up winter quarters seven miles southwest. The city's location and name were picked by members of a fur trading expedition sent out by the famous John Jacob Astor Company. War Bonds pay for munitions, planes and warships that guard this area so that future generations may enjoy opportunities still untouched there.

Providence Appoints Full-Time Pastor

Reverend Bernard W. Munger has accepted appointment as full-time pastor of Providence Memorial Congregational Christian church, and will preach his first sermon Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Rev. Munger succeeds Dr. D. J. Bowden, dean of Elon College, who resigned recently because of college duties. Rev. Munger comes here from Washington, D. C., where he has served as pastor of Ingram Memorial Congregational church for several years. He is a graduate of Chicago Theological Seminary and of the Duke Graduate School of Religion.

Kiwanis Meeting

The Kiwanis held their regular weekly meeting on Monday night at the Scout Hut. H. G. McElroy presided in the absence of president Joe Jarosz. Miss Sarah Bell Thompson, guest speaker, was introduced by program chairman John Alley. Miss Thompson, who is director of Girl Scouts in Alamance county, spoke on girl scouting and related some of the many things that the Girl Scouts of Graham and Alamance county have done and are doing to improve themselves in the art of scouting.

INDIANA'S MINERALS

Indiana might not be expected to add mineral assets to the Government resources that will stand behind the War Bonds we buy yet that state produces $107,000,000 worth of coal, clay products, lime, peat and petroleum each year. Vast supplies of rock wool to insulate buildings will be made from the marlstone still imbedded under the limestone in Lawrence county. Thousands of employees probably will be added by these industries when the war ends and output will soar to assure income to Indiana and the Nation whose shareholders are the buyers of War Bonds. U. S. Treasury Department

Rationing News

The new sugar stamp valid September 1 will maintain the current rationing—five pounds for four months.

OPA, it was learned Wednesday, plans to announce this shortly.

The household ration has to stay tight because sugar supplies are so short. The total is about 25 per cent less than was available before the war.

And the supply is not expected to increase until some time next year, when imports climb. The new stamp probably will be no. 38 in ration book four. OPA plans to skip over No. 37 because many housewives used it by mistake in applying for home canning rations last year.

MEATS & FATS

Red Stamps:
 V2, W2, X2, Y2, Z2, expire September 30.
 A1, B1, C1, D1, E1 expire October 31.
 F1, G1, H1, J1, K1 Expire November 30.
 L1, M1, N1, P1, Q1 Expire December 31.

SUGAR

Sugar Stamp No. 38 is now valid for five pounds, expires December 31.

SHOES

Airplane Stamps Nos. 1, 2, 3, and 4, now good.

Make ration applications by mail—save time and effort.

RENT CONTROL

All persons renting, or offering for rent, any living quarters whatsoever must register each dwelling unit with rent control office in their rent area. Persons who feel that they are being over-charged for rents may submit complaints to OPA. Complaint forms are available at the local War Price and Rationing Board if your area does not have a rent control office.
