Pilot Plant

Higgins Industries, Inc., New Orleans shipbuilders, shut down three big plants and began early in November to "farm out" forty million dollars worth of post-war business.

No such difficulties face the American people. Our factories are still financed, can yet keep moving. Our land has harbored no pirate army.

Just think: here stand three modern plants; new ones. They shelter acres of desirable ground with water frontage.

Working capital is no longer a problem for working people. The unions have fabulous wealth, not even nicked by taxation.

By going in business on their own account, unions have much to gain. For example: Nearly all labor organizations uphold principles upon which they disagree with orthodox business executives.

Most industrial leaders of today are self-made men. Many of them skated on thin ice occasionally in the early heats of their business race.

Quite a few labor leaders advocate new economic principles. They insist that their plans can not fail if faithfully pursued.

If neither of the Gulf Coast plants is suitable, one of the eight being offered by the RFC at Chicago might be better.

The family (not the state) is the social and economic unit in the United States. In this respect our country stands almost alone.

Old-world politicians glibly predict that Uncle Sam will be next to follow Russia's example, but they don't know America.

In its early stages, communism always is perfumed with a savor of freedom — freedom from something.

than Russia. Even the Russians may feel better in a delirium of paternalism than butchered by repeated revolutions, but that's not saying much.

England used to have free, private enterprise but the government tinkered with it until it was no longer free. Taxes squeezed corporation profits until the owners could not keep their plants modern.

France, the world's habitual battle ground since Caesar, had another problem. Her small business men and farmers (many of them, at least) preferred open competition but the country's capitalists were bankrupt by years of German occupation.

This same set of facts has been presented by people plugging for a high protective tariff but that's only a crutch.

Forgetting the Tariff. This same set of facts has been presented by people plugging for a high protective tariff but that's only a crutch.
