DON'T BE A DUNCE

In sounding a warning against unwise speculation, the nation's leading stock brokerage firms, as well as the New York Stock Exchange, have urged the public to be cautious. They point out that there are few individuals who have sufficient experience and knowledge to afford the inherent risks involved in speculation. The nation's largest stock brokerage firm urges individuals to establish funds for home ownership, education, and other forms of savings before entering the securities market. The New York Stock Exchange, through advertising in many newspapers, has urged the public to not buy blindly but to deal through reputable firms who can advise the purchaser on securities of the type he should consider which are best suited to meet his particular requirements.

Nothing is easier to lose than money, and if the person who has saved will follow the foregoing sound advice, it will help maintain the stability of the country, check inflation, and prevent needless financial losses and many heartaches.

RISE IN PRICES

There has been a general rise in prices, most of which has come about through self-imposed unemployment by ill-advised strikers throughout the country. Up to the present time there have been no runaway prices that some get-rich-quick man or woman couldn't match.

COAL IN IOWA

Ranking second to agriculture in Iowa's resources, coal has been mined for 95 years. Twenty-two counties produce it. From 3 1/2 million tons in 1880, it increased to 9 million in the peak year of 1917. In 1910, 297 mines employed 18,000 men. Recently the output has dropped to 3 million tons but with peace there is a good indication that this quantity will increase. The state's industries need this fuel and its mining operations will contribute to the Nation's wealth behind War Bonds.

Tuberculosis today is unquestionably a greater public health and economic problem to the country than all acute communicable diseases combined.

Your New Home Interior Arrangement Determines Exterior Appearance of House

By W. WADSWORTH WOOD

SUCCESSFUL homes are not like the familiar Topsy; they don't "just grow." The ideal home is the result of sound thinking and detailed planning by its occupants.

In planning your home, consider each member of the family; the children as well as the grown-ups have their individual needs. Plan also according to the type and how much entertaining you expect to do. Consider how much closet and storage space you will require. Remember all the things you want in a house and what you've disliked about houses you've seen and lived in. For long-range satisfaction it is well to let your home reflect your personality. The conservatives among us may tend toward traditional homes, the pioneers may choose more modern designs. When you are ready to build, it is desirable to contact your local lumber dealer. He will recommend an architect, or help you to find stock plans which will meet your requirements with possible minor changes. He will also refer you to several contractors, from whom you may take bids. In this connection it is well to mention that the lowest bid does not always represent the best value, for skimping on quality is always more expensive in the long run.

A study of architectural history shows that family needs, social habits, and climatic conditions have always determined the room arrangement. And this in turn shaped the home styles that have prevailed in different countries at different times. In a similar manner your particular requirements should indicate which style of house you build. If you pick the house first and then attempt to fit it to your circumstances, you will not have taken full advantage of today's unlimited home-building possibilities.

egrated together into a compact unit, and the home's outward appearance reflects the interior design.

The one-story patio house shown in the illustration is a good example of the common-sense approach to the house-building problem. Three dimensional elevation and plan sketches are shown here, to enable you to study this well-executed design and see how well it meets the needs of a small family.

It features two bedrooms and a spacious living-room grouped about the patio for maximum benefits of light and air. There is a full-sized kitchen, a "2 passenger" bath and plenty of closet space. The heating unit, laundry, and recreation rooms are located in the basement. You will note how the house is separated into living, sleeping and work areas in accordance with the present-day conception of functional arrangement. Yet these are all in-less materials than in 1945. This results in a proportionately lower production. But since the current demand for beer and ale is about 25% greater than a year ago, the real shortage is nearer 50%.

Consequently, your dealer will not be able to supply you with all the beer and ale you would like. We know you will understand the reason for this.

Your attention is earnestly directed to the recommendations of President Truman's Family Emergency Committee, which are summarized in the box below.

This statement tells in clear, simple terms what each of us individually can do to help during the emergency.

Now... no wheat used in beer or ale

And wheat alone can solve the problem of feeding the world's hungry

Actually wheat has never been a large item in the brewing process—only 10,000 of the entire U. S. wheat crop was used in 1945:

In accordance with United States Government policy, the brewing industry has used no wheat whatever since March 1, 1946.

OTHER MATERIALS CUT 80%
The other grains used have been reduced by 30%—that is, to 70% of the 1945 amount.

Wheat alone can solve the problem of feeding the hungry. The grains to which the industry is now restricted, are of a variety and grade not normally consumed by the people of the world as food.

LESS BEER AND ALE
Altogether, the brewing industry is using 30%

What the President's Family Emergency Committee asks us all to do

1. Save and share wheat and fat products . . . Go light on all foods that take wheat, fats and oils—save breads, macaroni, cakes, cookies, pastries and deep-fried foods. Use drippings for pan-frying. Save salad oil—use boiled dressings.
2. Buy and serve more plentiful foods . . . Balance diets with the more plentiful foods, such as potatoes, fresh fruits and vegetables.
3. Waste NO food . . . Dress up today's leftovers for tomorrow. Make every crust count with melba toast, crumb-toppings, bread puddings and stuffings. Take no more than you can eat. Clean your plate. Turn in unusable fat salvage promptly.

Evidence of tuberculosis of the bone has been found on the mummified bodies of early Egyptians.
