ALMANAC

The attempt to catalog the various and important coin operated machines and Automatic Phonograph men throughout the city of Greensboro and surrounding area, calling into service the technical skill of a leader would require columns. But suffice it to say that no man has ever acquitted himself of the arduous duties connected with the automatic Phonograph business in a more admirable manner than can be truthfully said of Fred Ayers, owners of the Fred Ayers Music Company, dealers in coin operated machines and Automatic Phonographs, which they install in Restaurants, Taverns, Clubs, etc., on commission basis, located in Greensboro at 253 North Green street.

Mr. Ayers is a man with years of experience and practical training that took time and effort to acquire. He has been a hard worker and never calls the day ended until the problems at hand have been finished or else put into tangible shape for the next day's work. He has held various posts but none that has ever given him more scope of exercise of his natural abilities than since he has been in the Automatic Phonograph business.

Mr. Ayers is a man broad of vision, forceful and energetic, always willing to co-operate with other business leaders of Greensboro in the welfare of their city and its trading area, and he merits recognition for his performance in the part he has played in making Greensboro the metropolitan city it is.

Conscientious, to the last degree, Mr. Ayers has won the esteem of the business people in Greensboro and its trading area and his excellent work and business methods has not gone unnoticed. It is such business leaders as Fred Ayers who well merit recognition and we prophesy a steady continuance of his success.

It is a heartening fact that a man's true character must come through his work; whether in business or professional activities or public life, a man cannot conceal his innate characteristics. So when a man conducts himself over a period of time in a manner as to cause the public to spot in him certain qualities over and above the average, that man is deserving of special commendation. Such a personality is D. E. Coble, owner of the Clegg Coffee Shop at 366 South Elm street and the Greensboro Cafe at 503 South Elm street in Greensboro.

Mr. Coble's main interests have not been solely confined to his own private affairs, and that of building up his business, but have also included the development of those projects of a civic nature which are intended to raise the living standard of the people as a whole.

Mr. Coble is a sound business man and has found that genuine, friendly service to his patrons is the only key to successful business. His leadership in the Restaurant business of the city has won for him the confidence of the people throughout this section. His reputation for integrity has grown with the years, and he has become one of the leading Restaurant men and an outstanding citizen.

Mr. Coble is a man with years of experience, whose exploits in the business and civic life of Greensboro merit more than a passing attention and this writer is indeed glad to give him here a little part of his due recognition.

Industry and integrity to a high degree have marked his business conduct. He has served in various positions, always with credit to himself and advantage to his fellow citizens. With directness, expedition and zeal, he has marched firmly and unwaveringly to the front rank of the business world.

Mr. Hodgkin has made a host of friends by his willingness to always be of service to his fellowmen. He has broad vision, is forceful and energetic, always willing to co-operate with his patrons.

We are proud to give recognition to such a man as J. Vernon Hodgkin, whose spotless integrity and habit of thorough application to duty have endowed him with those qualities which one looks for in a business leader.

Mr. Hodgkin is the architect of his own reputation—his ledger of life is as carefully posted as his business ledger. With more than ordinary mental activity and taste, no opportunity with in his reach has been unimpaired.

To those men who take an active leadership in the civic affairs of their city and state we owe a debt of gratitude that we find difficult to pay, but we can do so in part by publicly acknowledging their service, and we do so to J. Andrew Bell, manager of North State Insulating Co. located at 413 Prescott street featuring Philip Carey Blown Rock Wool and all metal weatherstripping.

We take advantage of this opportunity to publicly congratulate Mr. Bell on behalf of Graham and all surrounding area. In doing so we know we express the sentiment and the feelings of not only the community but those men and women who have been actively associated with him in civic betterment and the Insulation business.

Mr. Bell is a busy man, engaged as he is in the insulation and weatherstripping business; he finds every minute of the day occupied with pressing problems in connection with his business. Yet there has never been an occasion when he has been called upon by the city to assist some civic project that he has not responded and given the community his valuable time. Thus he has frequently sacrificed his personal interest to help his city and surrounding area.

No business is more important to Greensboro than the insulation business, and Mr. Bell is ready at all times to undertake any work in the best interest of Greensboro and he can number his associates and friends by the scores. He stands out not only as one of the most prominent and leading citizens of Greensboro, but also as a civic leader of whom Greensboro and North Carolina have every reason to feel justly proud.

In operating an organization the size and importance of the W. H. Sullivan Co., Inc., Plumbing, Heating and Air-Conditioning Contractors with offices located at 313 1/2 South Green street, Greensboro, it is not an easy task. It requires a constructive trend of mind, not every one possesses. Wm. H. Sullivan, president and treasurer of this prominent concern, takes his work seriously and feels the reward of seeing Greensboro constantly growing in population and financial importance is a sufficient reward.

Mr. Sullivan has come to the front in business life and progress because of his level head and good judgment, which he knows how to use without losing it. His uniformly square deal habit has made him a leader and his fulfillment of the arduous duties connected with the operation of this prominent Plumbing Heating and Air-Conditioning concern has well proven his fitness of showing a manner of doing things thoroughly and never by halves. A thoroughness that is characteristic of this able man.

Mr. Sullivan has not arrived at the highest pinnacle within the reach of his abilities. Nor has he obtained the full reward of his deserts. But he bides his time and is a true example of loyal adherence to his friends, meanwhile the seething and surging currents of business are never at rest, although it appears remarkably calm on the surface. But the man who is true to his principles and friends need never fear as he will stand pat like Wm. H. Sullivan, and you will always know just where to find him.

It is a pleasure for the compiler of these "facts" to give "just recognition" to this able leader as he is one of Greensboro's most respected citizens and business leaders, deserving of praise by which benefits the people throughout the Carolina.

Most cities, if they amount to much are man made. They do not just happen. It has been a realization by its citizens that their city must grow and prosper and be something other than just a place in which to live. That has brought results and made it possible for Greensboro to be outstanding and one for those within it to prosper. L. B. Breedlove, owner of the L. B. Breedlove Radiator Service, offering the autoist in this section expert work in Radiators, Cleaning, Recoring and repairing, located at 115 East Gaston, in Greensboro, is one of Greensboro's leading radiator men. He is one of the men to whom credit must go for playing no small part in the growth and development of Greensboro and its surrounding area.

L. B. Breedlove is the last man to mention the matter, but when the call goes forth to rally around something worth while for his community, he is among the first to volunteer. The friends of Mr. Breedlove are outspoken in paying him well deserved tribute, and they know he deserves it.

Successful in business, he is equally successful in the promotion of civic progress. Greensboro needs more men of the business ability and foresight of Mr. Breedlove. They are the kind that make this city a better place in which to live, and he can be counted upon to do his part at all times in any movement that will benefit Greensboro and the trade area. He is a public-spirited man in his views and wholehearted in support of any live project for the betterment of his city.

and his immediate associates, but for the people of his city as well.

We are more than pleased to give such a worthy man recognition in the columns of this issue, as he has not only played an important part in the business and civic affairs of Greensboro but has aided by working indefatigably for the best interest of all.

Mr. Hearn is one of Greensboro's leading business men and during the time he has been in business he has used his spare time in assisting others in the welfare, growth and development of Greensboro and this area. We are glad to give him the credit he so well deserves for his achievements, and to wish him a continued successful career as one of the outstanding leaders in the business world of Greensboro.

Being at the head of an organization the size of the Farmers Exchange Co., dealers in Poultry and Eggs, located in Greensboro at 211 East Sycamore street, requires an order of ability not possessed by the average man. But W. C. Howard, the owner of this prominent poultry concern, loves the responsibility which it carries.

Any city grows and prospers by reason of the public spirited men and women who take an active interest in its development. Greensboro has its share of these civic minded people, and one who is deserving of special mention in the columns of today's issue is none other than W. C. Howard.

Mr. Howard's executive ability and personality have been the major factors in his maintaining this position of vital importance in the business life of Greensboro and North Carolina. He is the type of man who makes friends and friendships once formed with him is never broken by an unfriendly act on his part. He spares no effort that the services of this prominent concern to the people throughout the city and all this area shall be unexcelled.

Mr. Howard has never been known to inject himself into a situation for the mere purpose of gaining publicity. He proceeds in a calm, unostentatious manner, and accomplishes his objective with a quiet dignity. For that reason the true estimate of his worth is sometimes missed. We do not hesitate to recommend Mr. Howard to our friends and readers as a true example of American citizenship. This writer sincerely subscribes to the estimates of Mr. Howard's worth.

Greensboro is famed for the sons who have served her well regardless of the personal loss or gain. But W. E. Norris, manager of the Greensboro Truck Sales Inc., dealers for the Reo Trucks, offering service on all makes of trucks located in Greensboro at 608 South Ashe street, is one to receive a little praise which is actually due him. Out of the large circle of people in the state who are privileged to call him friend, there are only a few who know how big his actual accomplishments are.

Mr. Norris' success has been well earned through his constant efforts and by his fair and square dealings with his associates and many patrons of this concern. After stepping into this position, he straightway set about to make the most of the position, not in the sense of personal gain or aggrandizement, but he made the most of it for the interest of the many patrons of this concern, and there is no doubt in the writer's mind that Mr. Norris is one of the most valuable citizens of Greensboro, and out for any endeavor that will benefit the state as a whole.

The success and confidence which Mr. Norris has gained from the people of Greensboro did not come by accident, but it is a direct result of having done so well by the people of the state, after serving the people of Greensboro and surrounding area for the past number of years.

It is with pride that we can mention in the columns of this issue the accomplishments of Mr. Norris, one of the most respected citizens, who can be counted upon to share his part in the responsibilities in making North Carolina the prosperous state which it is today.

Greensboro can never have too many sons of Mr. Norris' type in business, as every citizen is benefited by his service.
