North Carolina Leads Army Enlistments For The Year

Since the Armed Forces Recruitment Act was adopted on October 6, of last year, North Carolina Army Recruiting activities have resulted in the enlistment of more men than any other of the southeastern states comprising the Third Army Area. Reviewing the first year of the Army's greatest peacetime recruiting campaign, Major General Edward F. Witsell, the Adjutant General, said today that more than 992,648 volunteers had joined the Army since last October 6, 24,789 of these men were volunteers from North Carolina. While the current rate of enlistments makes it certain that the million man mark will be reached this month, a remarkable achievement, Major General Witsell pointed out that attainment of this figure will not solve the Army's manpower problem more than momentarily. Forty-nine percent or approximately 480,000 are short term enlistments. Of these 270,000 will be discharged by June 30, 1947, therefore, the Army must continue to get about 40,000 enlistments every month to maintain the strength needed to discharge its share of this country's world-wide obligation. "The Army is bending every effort to get as many volunteers as possible." Major General Witsell continued. "However, until it is known whether or not voluntary enlistments can meet the Army's requirements, Selective Service must be continued to fill the gap between voluntary enlistments and total manpower needs." Of the 992,648 enlisting since last October, more than 298,517 volunteers have entered the Regular Army from civilian life. Enlistments reached a peak in November, 1945, when 182,588 signed up, the figure including a heavy volume of enlistments by men of the wartime Army of the United States.

Tender Meat

Recent research at the department of agriculture shows that the fatter meat freezes, the more tenderness it acquires in the process. Tuberculosis today is unquestionably a greater public health and economic problem to the country than all acute communicable diseases combined.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh Want a Vacation from Marriage? Alvin Blake went south on his vacation, for some fishing, and left his Missus to enjoy a vacation from the corn-cob pipe, clothes in a heap, and solos on the harmonica. First few days, Martha enjoyed it—house neat and quiet, top back on the toothpaste, no morning mess from Alvin's midnight snacks (A's partial to a bit of cheese and bear at bedtime). Come the end of the week, she began to fidget; couldn't even read the Clarion, it looked so unsummed; didn't have any appetite with me.
