G. I. Bill Of Rights Clarified

T-Sgt. Fredrick R. Thomas of the Burlington Army Recruiting Station has released the information that, contrary to popular belief, the educational benefits of the G. I. Bill of Rights did not terminate as of October. Many people are of the opinion, said Sgt. Thomas, that the benefits provided under the G. I. Bill of Rights terminated as of 6th of October, 1946. This is not true.

"According to the Amended Servicemen's Readjustment Act, any man who enlists or re-enlists in the Regular Army after October, 1946, and serves 90 days of that enlistment is entitled to one year of schooling plus one month of schooling for each month of service completed prior to the date of termination of the War."

"In view of these extended privileges and the opportunities available in our peace-time Army of today," continued Sgt. Thomas, "it is expected that enlistments will continue at the high rate of 1224 men enlisted in the eastern section of North Carolina since September 1, 1946.

From where I sit Joe Marsh How to Handle a Fortune Some months ago I reported in the Clarion how Mel Bates's uncle died up north, and left him with a tidy fortune. Naturally, our town was curious to see how Mel would spend it: Traveling around the world... getting a new house or car... wearing fancy clothes... or dining on cold pheasant and champagne...? We can now report, Mel hasn't changed a bit! Drop in on him any night, and you'll find him in his shirt sleeves by the fire, chatting with the Miami, sharing a hollow glass of beer with friends. From where I sit, Mel has learned the art of handling money—as well as handling people. You don't let cash-in-the-bank push you around any more than you let people push you around. If you like the simple, honey life; companionship and quiet ways; a glass of beer and friendly talk—that's worth a fortune, after all! Joe Marsh
