WELCOME TO THE STATE'S FIREFIGHTERS.

Under the above heading the Newberne Sun pays the following tribute to the Firemen of North Carolina in its welcome to the visitors:

The Sun most respectfully arises, doffs its hat and salutes the visiting guardians of our peoples' property—The North Carolina State Firemen's Association. We most cordially welcome you to our city, and extend to you the hospitality of as brave and faithful a set of boys—the New Bern Fire Departments—as ever directed a frozen nozzle or scaled a treacherous wall on a cold and wintry night in the effort to save a life and property.

The service of the voluntary and other fire fighters of the state cannot be overestimated, and more especially the voluntary department, serving without pay, ever as ready to the call to duty as those who receive remuneration for their services. The voluntary firemen, it strikes us, are the most self-sacrificing and beneficial organization in our midst today.

It is safe to say that the property saved to the people each year by the gallant work of its voluntary firemen alone would mount into the millions, independent of the number of lives saved which is of course inestimable. Were the people compelled to substitute the paid firemen for the voluntary, the tax rate would be greatly increased.

Here's hoping that the visiting firemen will have the most pleasant meeting and successful tournament in the history of the organization. The freedom of the city is yours—let us hope that no care will deprive you of the most pleasant and enjoyable times of your life.
