Pale-Faced Women
You ladies, who have pale faces, sallow complexions, dark circles under eyes, drawn features and tired, worn-out expressions, you need a tonic.
The tonic you need is Cardui, the woman's tonic.
It is the best tonic for women, because its ingredients are specifically adapted for women's needs. They act on the womanly organs and help to give needed strength and vitality to the worn-out womanly frame.
Cardui is a vegetable medicine. It contains no minerals, no iron, no potassium, no lime, no glycerin, no dangerous, or habit-forming drugs of any kind.
It is perfectly harmless and safe, for young and old to use.

Take CARDUI
The Woman's Tonic

"After my doctor had done all he said he could for me," writes Mrs. Wm. Hilliard, of Mountainburg, Ark., "I took Cardui, on the advice of a friend, and it helped me so much.
"Before taking Cardui, I had suffered from female troubles for five years, but since taking it, I am in good health.
"I think there is some of the best advice in your book that I ever saw." Your druggist sells Cardui. Try it.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.
Lesson VII.—Third Quarter, For
Aug. 14, 1910.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Matt. xx, 1-16.
Memory Verses, 6, 7—Golden Text, Matt. xix, 30—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

This parable of the laborers is found only in Matthew and has its own special significance, as we may judge from its being found only here and from its context. May the Lord the Spirit open our eyes to see and our hearts to receive His message for us. The last verse of chapter xix, with the last verse of this lesson (16), cannot but suggest a vital connection between the two. It is a record of service and reward, but there can be no service until there is salvation, for they that are in the flesh cannot please God, and those who are unsaved are said to be in the flesh and not in the Spirit (Rom. viii, 7-9). Israel could not serve the Lord till they were redeemed from Egypt; therefore the Lord's message to Pharaoh was, "Let my son go, that he may serve me" (Ex. iv, 22, 23). There is no use talking of doing until we have been born from above and have thus become children of God and heirs of the kingdom, but then we are expected to be laborers, and who can estimate the honor of being "laborers with God?" (1 Cor. iii, 9.)

The redemption is His; the vineyard is His. He redeems us freely by His grace, calls us to labor with Him, appoints our service, gives the strength and wisdom for it, works all our works in us and then rewards us abundantly for allowing Him to use us. What marvelous grace from beginning to end! Truly He is the God of all grace, His grace is exceeding abundant, and He is able to make all grace abound toward us, that we always, having all sufficiency in all things, may abound to every good work (1 Pet. v, 10; 1 Tim. i, 14; 11 Cor. ix, 8). In Isa. v, 7, we read that the vineyard of the Lord of hosts is the house of Israel and the men of Judah His pleasant plant, and He asks, "What could have been done more to my vineyard that I have not done in it? wherefore brought it forth wild grapes? This parable has doubtless a primary reference to Israel, but there is a message for all believers. The field is the world. Are we laborers in it, or are we idlers all the day in the market place or elsewhere? Do we try to excuse ourselves with the words, "No man hath hired me?" Let us recall that elsewhere it is written, "He gave authority to His servants and to every man his work" (Mark xiii, 34), and again that "He called His ten servants and delivered them ten pounds and said unto them, Occupy till I come" (Luke xix, 13). It cannot be that there are any for whom He has no work, but we must remember that He giveth to every one severally as He will (1 Cor. xii, 11), not as we will. We are not quite right with Him until we have learned to look into His face and say, "For any manner of service wholly at Thy commandment." "Thy servants are ready to do whatsoever my Lord the King shall appoint" (1 Chron. xxviii, 21; 11 Sam. xv, 15).

It may be to continue in a hard place with an unreasonable person like Hagar. It may be to serve twenty years with some unjust Laban as Jacob did. It may be to open wells like Isaac and let the Philistines have them. It may be to suffer long and unjustly as Joseph did. It may be to feed the flock of Jethro forty years while all the time you can't shake off the feeling that you are called to be a great deliverer. If you are ever called to be a leader you will certainly have a visit from the Great Captain that you may submit yourself wholly and absolutely to Him as Joshua did. It may be eighteen years more at Nazareth in the most ordinary routine of a most ordinary life. Can you say "Whatsoever?" and wherever He may place you will you let your motto be "Unto the Lord." Do not bargain with Him for your penny and labor simply to get it, like so many employees who take little or no interest in their work or their employers' interests, but one only for the wages which they think they earn. Let the love of Christ constrain, the zeal of the Lord consume you. Never mind the other servants and their toil or their reward, but with absolute confidence in Him and devotion to Him let it be seen that the joy of the Lord is your strength. We are called ultimately to His kingdom and glory, but we are called now, to fellowship with Him in service and suffering.

In the regeneration of the last lesson, when the twelve apostles occupy their twelve thrones, the church shall be found with Him in His throne. The word "regeneration" is found only in Matt. xix, 28, in reference to the new earth and in Tit. iii, 5, in reference to the new birth, teaching us that there must be a new birth in order to enjoy the new earth. As to reward for service, our Lord taught in last lesson that all who for His sake deny self or renounce this world or give up loved ones shall receive an hundred fold and shall inherit everlasting life. I think I shall never forget the astonished look of a bank cashier whom I one day asked, "What is a hundred-fold?" After a little figuring, over which he went the second time, he said, "It is 10,000 per cent." I have ever since been urging people to invest in stock that pays 10,000 per cent
