TAR DROPS.

—The Rexall Remedies begin an advertising campaign in this issue of the TIMES.

—Read what Will Cooke has to say about sample shoes in his advertisement this week.

—Quite a number of our people went over to Franklinton Tuesday to hear the Governor.

—M. F. Houck has a full force of hands busy on the streets and is pushing the paving will all haste.

—His many friends were glad to see Mr. J. N. Harris on our streets this week. He is improving very fast.

—Our merchants are to be congratulated upon having the chicken coops moved off the streets. And now all the old boxes should be kept off the streets.

—One of the best things the County Commissioners have done is their action in regard to fixing up the court square. The only better thing would be to build a new court house.

—The street committee is to be congratulated upon having the two trees in front of B. G. Hicks and F. R. Pleasants on Nash street removed. It adds three fold to the appearance of the street and business houses.

—Just at this time the mail order houses are active in flooding the country with big handsomely gotten up catalogues, quoting attractive prices on staple articles and making all sorts of big sounding claims for your cash. They do not offer to exchange their goods for the farmers' eggs poultry, butter or other produce. They don't trust a penny's worth, but make you pay cash before you get the goods and the freight besides. If anything is wrong with the goods or they do not suit, they will not exchange them for you. They pay no taxes into your city or county treasury, with which our schools are maintained, roads, bridges, and sidewalks built. They do not contribute to our churches, charitable institutions, nor to our poor.

—The advertising columns of the newspapers are a certain index of the successful business houses of a city or town. The rule holds good in every metropolis in the civilized world. Printer's ink has made thousands of men rich and never yet made one poor. The bold advertisers are the successful business men. Those that launch out and scatter broadcast facts and figures, keeping business ever before the people never relaxing never retreating, but always pressing forward, pushing ahead never to have to regret "lost opportunities" or "what might have been," but unbounded success is theirs, to which the world pays homage and many attribute to luck as a favorite or fortune when the real source of this great success lies directly through the channel of judicious, persistent advertising.

—Chickens are a nice thing to have about. They look nice. They are useful. The roosters wake us up in the morning and tell us when there is to be a change of weather, while the hens lay nice eggs and hatch broods of down chicks that develop into spring fries, and when the old hens become veterans because they have been pets or have escaped getting their heads knocked off for getting into other people's gardens, they are shipped to Chicago and served in the restaurants as "springers." No one when garden time comes will intentionally or maliciously permit their chickens to destroy their own or their neighbors' gardens, and no neighbor feels like knocking a chicken over and throwing it over your fence, though the law gives you that right. As soon as gardens have been plowed and the chickens have been permitted to feast on angle and grub worms the fowls are penned up, with an occasional exception, which is a detriment to neighboring gardens. Let us all be careful and pen our chickens up during garden time, which produces a good neighborly feeling around and sweetens our dispositions.

THE MODERN "BAR SINISTER"

A Strange Situation That Grips Spectators of "The Sins of the Father."

In mediæval times a bar sinister, as it was called, marked the escutcheons of knights of illegitimate birth. The era of feudalism has passed away, but the bar sinister—the taint of the blood—still causes the wreck of homes and the parting of lovers. The story of "The Sins of the Father," Thomas Dixon's new play, springs from the circumstance that one of the characters is suspected of having a taint of negro blood. The situation based on this awful suspicion grips spectators with an extraordinary power. Only a master could handle such a theme without giving offense or straying into absurdity and false sentiment. Mr. Dixon, it is said, commands his subject at all times and brings the story through exciting and well nigh tragic complications to a satisfying ending. He has relieved the tragic tension with many delightful comedy scenes and all in all, "The Sins of the Father" is described as an even more powerful and engrossing entertainment than his never to be forgotten "Clansman." The new play will be performed here with a fine cast and a beautiful production directed by Manager George H. Brennan. Its coming to the Grand Theatre, Henderson next Monday night, Oct. 10th, is therefore awaited with eager interest.

At The Fair.

The Tate Machinery and Supply Co., Littleton, N. C., will be at the Raleigh fair Oct. 17-22, with an exhibit of Eclipse Engines, Saw Mills and Wheat Separators. They want mill and machine men to see this exhibit.
