REMEMBER the "hospital for Louisburg."

TALK your town, nobody else will talk it for you.

It is now up to the democrats to revise the tariff downward.

EVERYBODY wants a clock in the court house steeple. Mr. Commissioner can't you grant their wishes?

GENTLEMEN of Louisburg by all means take your hands out of your pocket and push.

THE corner stone for a new Methodist church was laid at Weldon on November 24th, with appropriate ceremonies.

GENTLEMEN if you ever expect Louisburg to grow and business to get better you had just as well take hold and help push it along.

THE latest freak of nature is reported from Spring Hope, being the birth of a girl baby without any arms. Otherwise the child is reported as being perfect.

THE game of foot ball between the Universities of Virginia and North Carolina played at Richmond Thanksgiving was won by Virginia in a score of 7 to 0.

THE ship subsidy may be a good thing, but the best thing would be for Congress to take this amount of money and put on the public roads in the United States.

THERE has been a dozen cases carried from Louisburg to other towns in the past sixty days that would have stopped here had we worked for a "hospital for Louisburg."

THE A. & M. foot ball team defeated the V. P. I. team at Norfolk on Thursday of last week in a score of 5 to 3. The game was very interesting and witnessed by a large crowd.

MANY papers are putting forward the name of Woodrow Wilson for the next democratic nominee for President. This seems a little early, however, we see no objections at this distance.

We see that some of the papers of the State are agitating a legalised primary for the state and to make both parties participate. In this case there seems to be no need of an election.

The Postal Saving Bank bill that passed Congress last Spring and that will be put into effect January 1st, 1911, should received the attention of the new house at first and be made a thing of the past.

The execution of Dr. H. H. Grippen took place in London on Wednesday morning of last week at about 9 o'clock. The speed of this trial and execution should be an example for our American courts to take notice of.

The case of Lawrence Davis for killing Braxton Bragg, was tried in Oxford last week. After the jury had been out twenty hours it returned a verdict of guilty of manslaughter. Davis was given two years in the penitentiary.

It is almost time for the Legislature to convene again, and they will have another chance at an anti trust law. There are many of the papers of the State that are taking up this subject and discussing it strongly, however, we feel that it is better to not have a law than to not enforce it. Nevertheless if the people want it there is no reason on earth that a representative of the people can give for not voting for it.

The people of New Orleans are making a strong fight for the Panama Exposition. And after careful reflections, there is no doubt but that it is the proper place to have it. If it is to be connected with the opening of the Panama Canal, certainly it should be at the nearest point.

It is a very strange thing to us that Congress don't make Christmas a legal holiday. All business, practically, is suspended on that day and the rural mail carriers and mail clerks generally should be given this day. If some Congressman would have this done he would at least get the hearty thanks of every rural free delivery mail carrier in the Union.

Some people argue that they are afraid of banks, therefore will not put their money in them. Well, maybe they do hear of a bank failing once in a while, but they read of a hundred times more cases of people losing money by their home being robbed or burned. Not only is a bank the safest place to keep money, but a man who keeps money about his home endangers the life of himself and every member of his family. Just let it be found out that you keep money about the house and somebody will be watching for a chance to rob you. And things of this kind happen more frequently at this time of year than perhaps at any other. Go put your money in the bank where it will be taken care of until you need it.—Greenville Reflector.

Have You a Bacterial Hotel in Your Mouth?

In the modern movement for the prolongation of life, the stamping out of preventable diseases, building up and keeping up the physical standard and increasing the efficiency of the human organism the Dentists of the United States realize that certain responsibilities rest upon them which they must not shirk if they would keep abreast of the general advance.

That the conditions in the mouth have a tremendous influence over the general health is coming more and more to be understood.

Horace Fletcher says this question occurred to him years ago: "Is it possible that this important section of our anatomy which is practically the gateway of our nutrition, the laboratory of our efficiency has been carelessly overlooked in regard to its basic importance?"

Wood Hutchison in the Saturday Evening Post advises against sucking a wound to extract the poison from it unless you can "give a clean bill of health to your mouth." What does he mean? He means that the pus germ is very commonly present in the mouth.

"The uncared for human mouth is the prize bacterial garden of the world." Dr. W. A. Evans, commissioner of health for the city of Chicago, who is accredited with having done more for the health of that city than any other living man, in discussing this subject not long ago used these words: "The importance of Diphtheria I am sure is fully understood, but the enlargement of the glands of the neck, of the nose, of the tonsils, of the pharynx are not so clearly understood."

"They are due to absorptions somewhere in the nose or within the mouth; and a large per cent. of these absorptions take place through cavities in the teeth or down the sides of unclean teeth."

"We are constantly confronted with instances like this: A child has been in a diphtheria hospital and remained there till it seemed safe for the child to go home. Then the child has gone home and there has followed an infection of diphtheria in that home. What is the explanation? Simply that in some recess, somewhere in that child there was a focus of hidden bacteria and in all human probability a large percentage of those infections are either in the tooth cavities or somewhere in close connection with tooth cavities."

Thousands of invalids are sick on account of faulty condition of their mouths and they can never recover until conditions are remedied. Disease breeding bacteria are every where present and "the uncared for mouth is to these germs an apartment house with many virtues. It is always warm, softly lighted at times, has a constant supply of running water and meals are served often and in ample quantities. The space between the teeth and the cavities in the teeth are veritable bacterial hotels."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Below we give a few questions with their answers in accordance with our invitation last week which is extended the public. The questions are answered in so far as they affect the teeth:

1—How often should I brush my teeth? Answer—Teeth should be brushed before breakfast, after each meal and before bed time.

2—Are the first set of teeth worth filling? Answer—The temporary teeth should be cared for just as well as the permanent ones, as they, in a large measure, determine the strength, shape and durability of the permanent ones.

3—Should children eat meat? Answer—Very little, if any.
