THE HOME CIRCLE COLUMN.

Pleasant Evening Reveries.—A Column Dedicated to Tired Mothers as They Join the Home Circle at Evening Tide

CRUDE THOUGHTS FROM THE EDITORIAL PEN

The crowning grace of home is cheerfulness.

Let method be your servant and not your master.

Look on the funny side of your annoyances

The spirit of order must reign in a house before the children acquire it.

The best way to get along in this world is to take things easy. If you are disappointed, laugh it off and resolve to enjoy yourself in spite of an occasional streak of hard luck. Hard luck soon tires of pursuing a jolly disposition.

STREET IMPRESSION.

The street impresses us with the fact that life is full of pretensions and sham. What subterfuge, what double dealing, what two-facedness! Do all the people who wish you good morning really hope you a happy day? Do all the people who shake hands love each other. Are all those anxious about your health who inquire concerning it? Do all want to see you who ask to call? Does all the world know half as much as it pretends to know? Is there not many a wrecked stock of goods with a brilliant show window? Passing up and down the streets to your business and for work, are you not impressed with the fact that much of society is hollow and that there are subterfuges and pretensions? Oh! how many there are who swagger and strut, and how few people who are natural and walk. While fops simper, and fools chuckle, and simpletons giggle, how few people are natural and laugh. The courtesan and the libertine go down the street in beautiful apparel, while with the heart there are volcanoes of passion consuming their life away.

BEST WAY.

The speediest and easiest way to benefit mankind would be for every person to reform their own life, regardless of what others are doing. Such a policy would bring about a change for the better in both public and private affairs, and so after the relationship of mankind that everyone would strictly mind his own business. Meddlesome persons who are continually prying into other people's affairs and carrying tales between friends and acquaintances create a great deal of mischief are best contented when they can spread scandal. It seems more natural for them to speak ill of a person than to utter words of praise, and their habit of gossiping becomes so fixed that they can talk scandal almost unconsciously. It is just as easy to say good words for friends and acquaintances even if not wholly deserved, as it is to speak ill of them, and the effect on the community is always beneficial in a general way. Scandal gathers strength as it travels by word or mouth and can never be recalled when once in circulation. Try speaking well of everyone and see what a change it will make in your own happiness as well as in the welfare of others.

APPEARANCE AT HOME.

Don't say that it doesn't matter how you look around the house, for it does matter a good deal. It matters representative; it matters in its establishment, of which the feminine head is the creditable or questionable representative; it matters in its example to the children and to the help, it matters to the husband and father, who usually, if he is half a man, feels a sense of pride in the appearance of his family. It is poor encouragement to him to find confusion and carelessness in dress and waste and destruction running riot about the dwelling. It is one of the important duties of every woman to keep herself and the house in a condition as presentable as possible, considering her circumstances.

TEACH THE BOYS.

A well-known man, the moment of whose exceptional ability as a financier in the great dry goods establishment of which he is the head, contended that a discussion of the subject from his standpoint would serve no good end, since every merchant was an individual, and for every individual there would have to be a different prescription, adapted to personal temperament, mental capacity. What would be good for one might be poison for another.

He suggested that the way to make good business men, who would know how to acquire a surplus to dispose of, whether or not to invest in stocks, how much money to keep on hand and how to guard against stringency stringency in the money market, was to give more attention to the morals of boys who were starting in business. He wished it could be shown to them how they were wasting their opportunities how they were stultifying their manly spirit, how they are wrecking their chances for future prosperity when they indulge in games of chance, pool playing, gambling, and other vicious practices that rob them of their night's rest and fill their minds in the day time to the exclusion of the business with which they are entrusted. Successful business men, he insisted, could, in the majority of instances, take care of their finances fairly well.

Whoever keeps company with a wolf will soon learn to howl.
