SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson II.—Second Quarter, For April 9, 1911.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, II Kings vi, 8-17.
Memory Verses, 15-17—Golden Text, Ps. xci, 11—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

The beginning of this lesson chapter, the story of the iron that did swim (verse 6), carries me back full forty years to the days of my school-teaching in Halifax, N. S., when after telling this story at the opening services I have seen boys stay in at recess to read it again for themselves.
We cannot help thinking of Him who is able to restore lost people, or, rather, save them, however far down they may be. The piece of tree which made the iron swim reminds us of the tree which made bitter waters to become sweet (Ex. xv, 25) and of Him who is the tree of life to all who come to Him, making us to be trees of righteousness, the planting of the Lord that He may be glorified (Isa. lxi, 3).

The lesson of today opens to us the realities of the unseen and Elisha's beautiful faith in God and communion with Him. I am fascinated with the title "man of God," so often used of Elisha and of others, suggesting, as it does, one whom God owns for Himself and whose one desire is to live for Him, to please Him and to be His faithful messenger. In chapter iv, 9, it is "an holy man of God," and this is more full of significance, for not all men of God are as willing to be holy as they should be. The world, the flesh and the devil are too much for any of us, but victory is possible (II Cor. ii, 14; I John v, 4; Rev. xii, 11).

The king of Syria did not take into account the God of Israel when he warred against Israel. Not many do even in the twentieth century. Even a great many preachers do not seem to know much about Him and still less about a people called Israel, although God never wrought for any other nation as He has done and will yet do for Israel (II Sam. 7, 23; Ps. cxvii, 20).

The king of Syria was more than once surprised to find the king of Israel elude him and thought that there must be some traitor in the camp who gave away his plans. When one of his servants reminded him that there was a prophet in Israel who could tell what he said even in his bedchamber (verse 12) he foolishly thought that he could take him captive, not considering that if the prophet could save the king of Israel he could also save himself. Learning that the prophet was in Dothan, he sent thither horses and chariots, a great host, and compassed the city about. And now they had him sure.
So they had some reason to think leaving out the supernatural.

The servant of Elisha seemed to think that the case was hopeless. But how grand the confidence of the prophet, "Fear not, for they that be with us are more than they that be with them" (verse 16). How like Paul's "If God be for us who can be against us?" (Rom. viii, 31) or David's "Though an host should encamp against me, my heart shall not fear (Ps. xxvii, 3).

How blessed and comforting the "fear nots" are from Gen. xv, 1, all the way through this heavenly book! How simple and confident the prayer of Elisha, "Lord, I pray thee, open his eyes that he may see!" How swift the answer, and he beheld the mountain full of horses and chariots of fire round about Elisha (verse 17).
"The chariots of God are 20,000, many thousands of angels" (Ps. lxxviii, 17).
John saw more than a hundred millions of angels all worshipping the Lamb (Rev. v, 11, 12). These are some of the unseen realities. May they be real to us also.

As the soldiers came to take him he asked the Lord to smite them with blindness, and He did so. Then he led them to the man whom they really wanted, the king of Israel, and prayed the Lord to open their eyes, and they found themselves in Samaria in his power. The king of Israel would fain have smitten them, but Elisha forbade him and told him to feed them and send them home (verse 22). So the bands of Syria came no more into the land of Israel (verse 23, 1. c.).

Again we have a fulfillment of Deut. xxxii, 30, "How should one chase a thousand and two put ten thousand to flight?" A study of the many different ways in which God at different times has shown His power on behalf of His people would be most inspiring to a believer and possibly helpful to one who does not as yet know the Lord.

Take another instance from the next chapter, when the Lord made the host of the Syrians to hear a noise of chariots and a noise of horses, even the noise of a great host, so that they arose and fled, leaving their tents and horses and asses and everything in their camp and fled for their lives (vii, 67). It is still true that "the angel of the Lord encampeth round about them that fear Him and delivereth them" (Ps. xxxiv, 7).

Sometimes it is more for His glory to let the enemy take us and ill treat us, as in the case of Joseph, Micah, Jeremiah, Daniel and his friends Peter and John, Paul and others. The night on which our Lord Jesus gave Himself into the hands of His enemies for our sakes He could have had legions of angels for the asking (Matt. xxvi, 52-54). As a spectacle to angels as well as to men we can sometimes glorify Him most in suffering (Phil. i, 29).

Many a soldier who bravely stood at his post of duty for two or three years during our Civil War, is covered with badges. We would not take one from him, he merits them; but many an "ordinary" woman has stood at her post of duty for thirty, forty and even half a century, fighting with sickness, poverty and discouragement, and with true Spartan courage kept the wolf from the door and saved the lives of a large family of children. The man who saves one life receives a prize for bravery, his picture appears in the metropolitan papers, and he wears a medal which says to the world he was brave. And he was. But the woman who has saved the lives of many is given no badge, and seldom ever a word of commendation.
These ordinary women may not receive a Carnegie badge for bravery, but "He who marks the sparrow's fall" will certainly reserve for them the brightest jeweled crowns in his kingdom.
