THE HOME CIRCLE COLUMN.

Pleasant Evening Reveries.—A Column Dedicated to Tired Mothers as They Join the Home Circle at Evening Tide

CRUDE THOUGHTS FROM THE EDITORIAL PEN

We may not realize, perchance, what home means to us until seas and mountains separate us from the loved ones—perchance not until sickness and misfortune come—perchance not until the Dreaded Shadow falls upon the threshold and the Raven croaks above the bust of Pallas. But when some tie is snapped and some link is broken and some chair is vacant at the fireside then we realize that the cords which bind us to the homestead are knotted in the bosoms core and center—then we realize that the poet sang for us and sang for all the world when he sang beside the Thames:
"Mid pleasures and palaces tho' I may roam,
Be it ever so humble, there's no place like home."

TRIBUTE TO HIS MOTHER.
"I owe a great deal to my mother. She was a seamstress, cook, washlady and never until late in life had a servant in the house. And yet she was a cultivated woman. She read Channing and kept up with the literature of the day. When I was a little tot she used to read good books to me.
"You young women have every opportunity for literary culture and you ought to avail yourselves of it. You ought to be very proud with money earned so honorably, for money not earned honorably will never do you any good."
The above words were spoken by Mr. Carnegie, the iron-master, while talking to a large company of working girls in New York city. And then this man of unlimited wealth closed by saying:
"I shall never forget how proud I was when I got my first wages of $1.25 a week, and how I felt when I was raised to $1.50 as a telegraph operator. To take home that sum to my good mother gave me such a feeling of manly independence."

God give us happy homes—pure homes! They are humble enough; but it love be in them, they will keep the ship of state anchored in serene and peaceful waters. No blot will stain the flag. The laws of the country will be framed in wisdom and upheld in honor. The statesman will be steadfast in the forum. The soldier will be valiant in the field. The sentinel upon the watch-tower will be faithful in the hour of danger; and all will be well with the republic.

SOME ADVICE TO WIVES.
Remember that you are married to a man and not to a god: be prepared for imperfections.
Anticipate the discovery by your husband that you are "only a woman;" if you were not he would not care about you.
Once in a while let your husband have the last word; it will gratify him and be no particular loss to you.
Be reasonable; it is a great deal to ask under some circumstances, but do try; reasonable women are rare—be rare.
Remember that servants are made of the same material as you are; a little coarser grained, perhaps but the same in essentials.
Try and forget yourself as to your husband, forget that you married him, and remember that he married you, he will then probably do the reverse.

Let him read the newspaper at the breakfast table: it is unsociable, but then it is only a trifle after all, and he likes it.

Let him know more than you do once in a while; it keeps up his self respect and you will be none the worse for admitting that you are not actually infallible.

Read something in the paper besides fashion notes and society columns; have some knowledge of what is going on in foreign countries.

Be a companion to your husband if he is a wise man; and if he is not try to make him become your companion. Raise his standard; do not let him lower yours.

Respect your husband's relations, especially his mother—she is not the less his mother because she is your mother-in-law; she loved him before you did.

Home! Home! To define this simple English word is to exhaust the resources of metaphor. It is the charmed center of all existence. It is the golden axle-tree around which all industry—'ll thought—all feeling—rotates. It is the casket of humanity's crown-jewels. It is the hive of love's sweet honeycomb for which we hoard and hope and hunger. It is the haven of retreat to which we turn our footsteps when the labors of the day are over. It is our bivouac on the march. It is our well-spring in the desert. It is the anchor which keeps our ships from drifting out to sea. It is the compass which keeps our rudders true to heaven. It is the voice which calls to us across the waters—growing louder and clearer and sweeter with the deepening twilight: "Home Sweet Home!"

A crust of bread, a pitcher of water, a thatched roof and love; there is happiness for you, whether the day be rainy or shiny.
